More French Trouble.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PARIS MOBS continued rioting, and France again changed her government. Gaston Doumergue, formerly French president, seventy-one years old, undertakes the task of managing France under difficulties. France owes much to old men, and, fortunately for her, Frenchmen retain mental and physical vigor late in life.

Foch, Joffre and the great Clemenceau, worth all the others put together, were old.

THE PARIS riots represent a combined effort of Communists and Royalists, and the Communists, if they succeeded, would decapitate the Royalists, and the Royalists would do as much for the Communists, if the Royalists succeeded.

IT SHOULD make the Duc de Guise, who thinks he ought to be king of France, rather thoughtful, when he observes the rioting in the Place de la Concorde.

It was on that fine square that the futile Louis Sixteenth was guillotined, not so long ago.

Any pretender who imagines that he can become king of France and hold his throne for any length of time does not know the French people.

THE DUC DE GUISE, who calls himself "the heir of forty kings who in a thousand years made France," should remember that the French people had also something to do with making France, it wasn't all done by kings.

Also it took the French people a good deal less than forty seconds to get rid of the kings that had made France.

WE DON'T yet know, in this country, that our dollar is only worth fifty-nine cents, but Europe knows it.

The gold franc, worth about 3.80 cents when the dollar was a gold dollar, is worth today 6.37 cents in paper dollars. Something frightened our speculative gentlemen in Wall street yesterday and stocks dropped rather violently. They will go back again.

The cheaper dollar means a better price for the stocks, real estate and everything else, with real value. While the dollar changes its value by fiat the other things do not change their value.

This is a good time to collect the right real estate and securities, if you know how to select THE RIGHT ONES.

WINE GROWERS in California, Ohio, New York and elsewhere, will be interested to know that Vincent Astor, of New York, who has a good deal to say about American passenger lines, wants American ships to provide American wines free to passengers, as French and Italian lines provide, free of charge, French and Italian wines to their passengers.

Steamship managers say it couldn't be done because French lines can buy good French wines for fifteen cents a quart and less. American high prices, taxes, etc., make it impossible.

Our enterprising government might enable American ships to distribute American wines, twelve miles out, without paving anything except to the grower of the grapes and maker of the wine.

Grape growers should follow that up.

TWENTY-FIVE MILLION dollars in gold went by airplane from Paris to London yesterday. The gold probably will come here by ship, more gold for Uncle Sam, good profit for the steamer.

Gold pays one-quarter of one per cent of its value for transportation across the ocean. A small lump of gold, only $13,000,000 worth, coming over on the steamship Roosevelt recently paid $32,500 freight.

It grieves the French to see their gold travelling westward to "Uncle Shylock." Their theory is that gold should travel in the opposite direction.

GERMANY HAS decided that Jews must not be disturbed or ill-treated when they are "engaged in trade."

Somebody in Germany must have discovered what happened to Spain and Portugal when the Jews were driven out and Spanish and Portuguese trade died, while Holland, welcoming Jews, began a century of unprecedented commercial prosperity.

THE BRITISH postoffice shows a surplus, net profit, of fifty-five million dollars for the year. That will interest Postmaster General Farley, who is working to show a profit on his job.

The interesting thing is that the British postoffice owns and runs the British telegraph system, government owned, and will send a telegraph message anywhere in Great Britain for twelve cents. That was the price at least when this writer was last in England.

GOVERNMENT ownership of telegraphs and telephones will come eventually here, of course, for natural monopolies will all be government property eventually.

But not soon. The government has all it can attend to trying to be honest and efficient, and manage all the businesses of the country.

HUNGARY, which hates Communism as much as the oldest, most conservative banker in America hates it, has recognized the Russian government.

Stocks went up in Budapest when the Russian-Hungarian agreement was signed.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW "sees Britain drifting to war," says the headline. He said over the radio that talk about disarmament is "humbug" and that Britain is heading for war as "likely as not."

The British will find comfort in the fact that Shaw is old, and usually wrong.

RECORD COLD INDICATED TONIGHT

New Frigid Spell Heralds Sub-Zero Temperatures

Another unexpected frigid blast from the Hudson Bay region held sway today with indications that the mercury would go anywhere from zero to 5 below tonight, likely breaking the season's record.

The low mark at the weather bureau this morning was 4 above at 7 and 8 o'clock. The coldest weather thus far recorded was 1 below January 30.

28 BELOW AT KANE

The weather bureau sub-station at Ridgway reported 14 below zero. At Kane unofficial readings placed the minimum at 28 below. Venango County reported temperatures ranging from 4 below at Oil City to 16 below at Cochranton.

The mercury fell rapidly after midnight and by the time the army of workers started for office, shop and store, the temperature was 20 degrees below the weather bureau's prediction.

RIVERS FROZEN

Observer W. S. Brotzman said that in February and March polar waves from Alaska sweep eastward and some of them are deflected southward, moving in suddenly, without warning.

For the second time in a week the Monongahela River was frozen over at the mouth for a short time today. In the upper waters of both the Monongahela and Allegheny seven-inch ice was reported with gorges at some points. River traffic was confined to lower pools.

DOUMERGUE ENDS PARIS RIOTING

Laborers Clear City Streets of Debris After Tumult

PARIS, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Premier-designate Gaston Doumergue, whose new cabinet may be formed by tonight, seemed today to have ended Paris' two days of rioting and terror.

The 71-year-old former President and France's new man-of-the-hour took only 15 minutes after his arrival today to tell President Albert Lebrun what he meant to do.

Then he immediately started to carry out his program.

CLOSE TO CIVIL WAR

On all sides it was freely admitted that France was close to civil war and revolution in the bitter fighting between rioters and mounted guards which swept Paris.

Today, as reinforced bands of laborers went to work cleaning up the debris left by last night's conflicts, the riot dead were counted at 12 and those injured and wounded in the thousands.

Edouard Daladier, who resigned as Premier with his cabinet yesterday in the hope of avoiding further disorders, urged that martial law be declared in a midnight session with President Lebrun, it was learned today.

VETERANS' THREATS

Veterans of the National Union told Lebrun Tuesday they had gone unarmed in their demonstrations against police and troops, but threatened to resume

Home Alive

EDWARD G. BREMER

Mr. Bremer, young and rich banker, back at his home today —alive but weak and exhausted.

RICH BANKER WEAK, ILL AFTER 23-DAY ORDEAL WITH KIDNAPERS

ST. PAUL, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Ransomed with an unannounced amount of money, Edward G. Bremer, seized by kidnapers for $200,000 January 17, was at home today after a 23-day imprisonment in an unlocated hideout.

Wounds about the head, which he had suffered when spirited away by the gang, were healed, Dr. Joseph Sprafka said, though the victim was weak, exhausted and "very, very nervous."

Dr. Sprafka was summoned soon after the son of Adolph Bremer, wealthy brewer, had returned home after being thrown out on a highway near or at Rochester, Minn., about 85 miles south of here, last night. Dr. Sprafka said a ransom had been paid, but he did not know how much.

The Minneapolis Journal, however, said the full amount was paid, and that with the money Adolph Bremer sent the following note:

"To the parties holding Edward:

"I have done my part and kept my word 100 per cent as I said I would. This money is not marked and you have the full amount asked for. Now, boys, I am counting on your honor.

"Release Edward and tell him to come to my house first.

"ADOLPH BREMER."

The Journal said the ransom consisted of $85,000 in $5 bills and the remainder in $10 bills.

BANKER UNSHAVEN

Three men in a small sedan, members of the gang of six or seven which held the president and owner of the Commercial State Bank prisoner, freed him about 8 p. m. last night.

Bremer was unshaven. He had been either blindfolded or his eyes taped during the imprisonment, friends of the family said.

A possible clue to the gang was given by Douglas Street, 33, chauffeur for Dr. Waltman Walters, Mayor Clinic physician at Rochester. Street said he saw two well-dressed men in an automobile bearing a New York license at Lewiston, Minn., about 3 a. m., today. Lewiston is 37 miles east of Rochester.

Walter Magee, wealthy contractor friend of the family, was the intermediary who delivered the ransom. Full details of the delivery were not disclosed, though

FIVE CONVICTED IN VOTE TRIAL

BULLETIN.

All five defendants in the Fourth Ward ballot fraud case were found guilty by a jury in Federal Court this afternoon.

A jury in Federal Court began deliberating at 11:25 a. m. today in the retrial of five members of the election board of the Nineteenth District, Fourth Ward, charged with falsifying ballots at the 1932 general election.

Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh in his closing address told the jury:

"In your hands lies the answer as to whether the election franchise is a myth or a reality. It is your duty as citizens to uphold the sanctity of the ballot."

Attorneys E. G. Coll and John A. Metz closed for the defense. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker charged the jury.

The defendants are Joseph Tortorelli, judge; Malachi Tiernan and Irvin Braun, inspectors, and John F. McNally and Bernard Grossman, clerks.

Immediately after the case went to the jury another trial in which five officials of the election board of the Sixteenth District, Fourth Ward, was begun. They are Joseph F Fahey, judge; Martin A. Kenavy and Walter Joyce, inspectors, and Thomas Monroe, Jr., and Leo L. Van Maele, clerks.

Army Post Garrison Seeks Missing Girl

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—The entire garrison at Fort Lewis was mobilized today to search the 70,000 acres of the military post for trace of 15-year-old Eleanor Durnell, niece of Capt. and Mrs. Charles Perfect. She has been missing since Sunday.

The decision to use the 1,500 officers and men was reached when other efforts to trace the girl or explain her disappearance had failed. Fear was expressed the girl has been lured to a secluded spot and slain.

Accused Husband's Aged Mother Defends Son

Calmly and unhurried, Grace Mull today faced a withering cross-examination at the hands of Prosecutor Chauncey Pruger, who charges that she and her husband murdered Margaret Schwickrath, the 'sewer mystery' girl.

Mrs. Mull stood by the story she told yesterday. Occasionally her voice sank so low that her answers were barely audible. When her own counsel, Robert B. Ivory, Jr., asked her whether she had killed Margaret, Mrs. Mull replied in a whisper:

"No, sir; I did not."

"Margaret was subject to nosebleed. It may have come from that."

WOMAN'S INTUITION

How did she discover that her husband and Margaret—all three living in the same house—were intimate? Mrs. Mull replied:

"A woman's intuition tells her that."

She said nothing to Margaret of this intuitive discovery, but warned her husband not to carry on the relationship secretly, but openly, she testified.

The state charged that Mrs. Mull, motivated by jealousy, and her husband murdered Margaret Schwickrath, then stuffed her body into a culvert off the Allegheny River boulevard. For days thousands passed Margaret's body in the morgue trying to identify her.

ADMITS COLLECTING PAY

Mrs. Mull was asked why, two days after the murder, she collected Margaret's pay of $15.94 at the Fried & Reineman Packing plant, where both worked. She answered:

"Margaret told me Sunday to get it."

Then, she said, she paid the $6 rent for not only herself but for Margaret, whom she said she thought was sick in Greensburg.

M'NAIR LOSES METER TAX BILL

It's lost—the $2 utility meter tax ordinance passed Monday by City Council.

And Mayor William N. McNair lost it. Quite by accident. Here's how it happened, as explained today by the Mayor.

McNair took the ordinance with him yesterday to Webster Hall, where he addressed a meeting of the Retail Lumber Men's Association, so he could refer to it in his criticisms of the tax. The Mayor placed the ordinance on a table when he arose to speak. He doesn't know what became of the ordinance after the speech.

The Mayor, with a smile, said to newspapermen today that he wondered if losing the ordinance wouldn't automatically cancel it.

Even if the ordinance is found and again delivered to his desk, McNair will veto it. He said so today, following a meeting with John Murray, city Democratic chairman.

Mellon Kin Sues O'Hara for Divorce

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Emma Mellon Jones O'Hara, daughter of the late William Alexander Mellon, of Pittsburgh, filed suit yesterday to divorce Henry O'Hara, to whom she was married last August at Calgary, Canada. She charged non-support.

She was divorced from the late Breckenridge Jones, Jr., of St. Louis, in 1922, and was awarded custody of their three children.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Jane Addams, noted social worker, was ordered by her physician yesterday to cancel all speaking engagements because of a recent heart attack. She is 73 years old.

PINCHOT NAMES REGISTRARS

Gov. Gifford Pinchot today appointed Jacob Frank and Thomas A. Joyce as members of the new Pittsburgh Commission on Permanent Registration and drew an attack from Mrs. J. Wood Clark because of his refusal to appoint her.

Frank, an attorney and Republican, has long been a friend of Judge Ralph H. Smith, Pinchot leader. The two were fellow students at Pitt law school. In Judge Smith's last campaign Frank was an active supporter.

BOTH WAR VETS

ACQUIT CONVICT IN SLAYING

He was found not guilty of the fatal stabbing of Wayne C. Cobb, 35, a fellow-convict, last September 19. The jury reached a verdict last night after deliberating four hours and it was read at the opening of court this morning before Visiting Judge S. L. Reed.

Clark's counsel, Attorney I. A. Melnick, said he would make application for a parole for his client. At the penitentiary it was said Clark's minimum sentence of from two to five years for burglary, had expired March 12, 1933, but he had been refused a parole at that time because of his criminal and institutional record.

Suspect in Mail Thefts Captured

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(INS.)—Samuel T. Shawver, former money order clerk in the Huntington, W. Va., postoffice, who has been sought by postal inspectors for 14 months, today was en route from Montreal, Canada, to Washington, in the custody of two inspectors.

Shawver disappeared from Huntington December 3, 1932, after he is alleged to have embezzled $18,000 of money order funds. He waived extradition and eventually will be tried in the Federal Court at Charleston, W. Va.

PROBE COLLEGE DEATH CASE

International News Service.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Feb. 8.—Although circumstances indicated suicide, Sheriff James J. McGrath declared today he was investigating the mysterious death of Frederick C. Winkler, 19, wealthy socialite Stanford sophomore, one the theory he may have been murdered.

Winkler, the son of Henry O. Winkler, of Beverly Hills, Cal., was found shot to death in his automobile parked in a quiet lane on the University campus last night.

His body was sprawled over political science books in the front seat of an expensive car, in which a pistol with one bullet fired also was found.

The box was near the brilliant young student's body.

Million Stuns McNair, Holds Up City Payment

Mayor McNair's—and his assistant secretary's—awe at seeing a one million dollar check today threatened to cause the city to default on its bonds.

The Mayor, at the instance of Assistant Secretary Theodore L. Moritz, refused to sign a check providing for a purely bookkeeping transfer of funds which would enable the city to meet future interest and state tax payments on city bonds.

His Honor refused to be reassured by Controller James P. Kerr, despite Dr. Kerr's warning:

"If the interest on bonds is not paid when due, the credit of the city would necessarily be destroyed."

Controller Kerr explained by telephone and letter. The Mayor then wanted to know why the city should pay a state tax on bonds and was informed the bonds were sold tax free and that by agreement the city must pay the tax. McNair replied:

"Why pay the taxes when people don't pay us taxes."

BANK CHECK TAX REPEAL VOTED IN HOUSE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Repeal of the emergency two-cent bank check tax and increased second class mail rates were voted by the House ways and means committee today as it neared completion of the new tax revision bill.

The committee also voted to continue for one year three-cent inter-city letter postage.

The bank check tax, which yeilded $38,000,000 last year, would be repealed effective Jan. 1, 1935. The emergency increase on second class postage rates would end June 30 of this year.

The committee failed at its morning session to reconsider its action of yesterday in voting to increase the tariff tax on imported oil from 21 to 42 cents a barrel, but may before a final decision is reached.

Representative Vinson (Dem.), of Kentucky, moved to end the increase on second class rates, affecting newspapers and magazines, on June 30. He pointed out that under the increased rates the volume dropped 25 per cent, and said the lower rate should increase volume and therefore revenue.

The reductions under the Vinson motion are: First and second zones, 2 to 1½ cents; third, 3 to 2; fourth, 5 to 3; fifth, 6 to 4; seventh, 9 to 6; and eighth, 10 to 7.

Under the extension of the 3-cent inter-city letter rate, the President would have power to suspend or modify it at any time prior to its expiration date, June 10, 1935.

OFFICIAL VAGUE ON FRAUD HINT IN ARMY

Cummings Keeps Silent On Graft Charge In Bureau

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP.) Asked at his press conference today about reports that alleged conspiracy to defraud the government on army motorization contracts involved a government official, Attorney General Cummings replied, "That's a difficult question to answer without being misunderstood.

Meanwhile, investigators under him told reporters they were uncovering new ramifications of the alleged plot to sell "inside influence" in the award of $10,000,000 in motor truck contracts by the War Department. The grand jury again was given testimony on activities of two lawyer-lobbyists high in American Legion circles.

AIR ACE QUESTIONED

After signing a waiver of immunity, Lieut. Col. H. Weir Cook, World War aviation ace and leader in American Legion plans for promoting air defenses, was questioned at length by the grand jury. He is a member of the Air Corps Reserve and a former officer of the Indiana National Guard.

Col. Cook is a member of the recently-organized American Legion aviation committee, which is sponsoring a movement for an increase in planes for the Army and Navy. He was to be quizzed, it was said, about activities of the committee and about operations of certain other legionnaires. Just what use was to be made of this information was being guarded by the United States attorney, Leslie C. Garnett.

DEALER OUSTED

Information is understood to have been given the inquisitorial body that certain important changes were made in recent motor truck specifications under the $10,000,000 allotment, but War Department officials contend that the changes were the result not of influence but of technical studies made by Army engineers.

Joseph Silverman, Jr., New York trader in surplus war supplies, has been designated publicly by the War and Justice departments as "persona non grata" with the government, and it was stated his activities were being inquired into by the grand jury.

Senator Royal Copeland, of New York, today said Silverman sought his counsel in the present inquiry, but that he told Silverman he had nothing to say to him. Copeland indicated he shunted the New Yorker out of his office.

Banks Forcing Government Into Business by Failure to Extend Credit, Says R. W. Child

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Noted Author and American Ambassador to Italy Under Two Administrations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Credit and cash are the two component parts of the life blood of industry.

No one knows this any better than Jesse Jones, who as administrator in fact of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is the biggest blood pumper of them all.

The credit transfusions that he is supposed to give by the flow of taxpayers' money in the form of loans and investments has to be piped through the banks to industry.

And the banks have proved to be tubes full of obstructions!

SOME RADICALS say that the bankers of America are trying to scuttle the new deal. Others say that they are thinking that when they have a chance to loan a dollar worth 60 cents it may come back worth only a quarter.

Others say that the bankers' habit-mind cannot adjust itself to extend credits under the present "peculiar circumstances."

In any case the banks, up until now, appear to Jesse Jones to be storage barrels. Even if you pour money into the top, industry, commerce and consuming power get nothing at the bunghole.

The bankers always say:

"Why, the banks have plenty of money to lend!"

The business man laughs and says:

"Try and get it."

AS TO this situation Jesse Jones said to the New York State Bankers Association something to this effect:

"If you bankers will not be the agencies for credit the government will.

"If you will not be the means of transfusion of credit to industry the government itself will have to get powers from Congress to take over a large part of your business."

So again there arises the question of state-socialism. Can we avoid it? Can we avoid government in business? Can we avoid government in finance? Is Uncle Sam to become the boss banker?

We are nearing the edge.

Extension of credit by the government will always be followed by the necessity or temptation to run the debtor's business—or take it over.

PROFITEERING CHARGE STIRS HOUSE

Army's Planes Unfit, Mitchell Tells Committee

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—After hearing charges that profiteers and bureaucrats have rendered the Army Air Service unfit for war, the House Military Affairs Committee today summoned Assistant Secretary of War Harry Woodring to testify tomorrow on Air Corps purchases.

The committee heard from Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, resigned, war-time chief of aviation, a charge that only 276 of the Army's 1,800 planes are fit for service against a modern air foe.

The committee also will summon Brig. Gen. H. Conger Pratt, in active charge of procurement for the Air Corps, to follow Woodring on the stand.

AROUSED BY TESTIMONY

Aroused by testimony behind closed doors and the charges of Mitchell, the committee plans to investigate all Army aircraft purchases which have been linked with the graft investigation now under way by a federal grand jury. It was made plain that no charges against Woodring have been submitted to the committee.

Mitchell appealed for creation of a single department of national defense with a single department of air to include Army, Navy and civil aeronautics.

The same conditions exist in the air service that caused him to appeal to the country years ago and brought about his court-martial, he said.

Mitchell told the committee that "merchants" had been in charge of aviation since 1925 and profiteering had been rampant. He urged the committee to make a complete investigation of the air service. He said:

"I got into my fuss because I tried to stop it. The Senate committee's investigation has uncovered much, but I don't think it has begun to scratch the surface yet."

ESTIMATES STRENGTH

Mitchell said the Army has about 150 pursuit planes, 79 observation planes and 47 bombers fit for battle. He added:

"And the Navy air service is not an air service, because it operates from boats."

He characterized as "criminal" alleged action of the war department in "putting the clamps" on the development of aviation.

Reviewing the establishment of the Morrow board, in 1925, which recommended the five-year aviation program, Mitchell said:

"The profiteers got busy. Under Coolidge and Hoover, merchants were in control of the government and, when you get merchants in control, they plunder the government. All we could do was to let them hang themselves, which they have done in good style."

He asserted that the Morrow board entrenched bureaucrats in charge of aviation. He added:

"These fellows sent their agents here and key-men were put in as assistant secretaries. Then they would organize a company on the New York Stock Exchange, knowing that they would get a contract."

Picturing the future, Mitchell said an airplane will be built to go to Europe in three to five hours, traveling in stratosphere. He characterized Japan as the most dangerous potential enemy of this country. Talk about Japan building up her navy, he said, is "bunk." He added:

"Japan is building up an air service and building it up to get to Alaska."

FOOD ACT GETS ROOSEVELT AID

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's support of a modified food and drugs bill was declared today by Senator Copeland (Dem.), of New York, after a conference at the White House.

After weeks of controversy and hearings, Senator Copeland, himself a physician, took to the White House a compromise measure to the original bill proposed by Rexford G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

The Copeland measure provides for two boards of appeal to which manufacturers can take protests from regulations to be laid down by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Increased authority to the Secretary is provided and for the first time cosmetics are to be included under the food and drug act.

Likewise, advertising is to be brought under the terms of the act, but Senator Copeland explained that so long as advertisers had guarantees from the manufacturers of the products that their claims were truthful they would not be held responsible.

In other words, the burden of the proof is to be on the manufacturer.

OIL FIRM LOSES BOUT WITH NRA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey withdrew last night from its first major legal battle with the oil administration over provisions of the oil code.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard of New Jersey, informed Secretary Ickes his company had discontinued its boys' prize contest against which the government was seeking an injunction on the grounds it violated the oil code's prohibition of premiums.

In the contest, known as the "Babe Ruth" radio contest, baseball equipment and 50 free trips were offered by the company as prizes for children turning into filling stations a required number of slips signed by adults.

In view of possible disappointment to boys who had entered the contest, other arrangements to provide the trips, subject to approval by Secretary Ickes, may be made through sources entirely independent of the company or any of the other companies participating in the contest.

Gov. Pinchot's refusal to reappoint Mrs. Clark—now vice chairman of the Democratic County Committee and wife of the clerk of United States Court here—as a member of the new Commission, was described today by rMs. Clark this:

"The failure of Gov. Pinchot to reappoint me to the Board of Registration Commissioners is additional evidence of his ruthlessness when any opportunity for personal political advantage presents itself.

"So long as Mr. Pinchot labored under the delusion that the White House was sympathetic to his senatorial aspirations and that the Democratic state organization might accept him as its candidate he was well satified for the Democratic county organization to have a representative on the board.'

'POLITICAL FOOTBALL'

"Now, wtih the Democratic place on the board filled by an anti-Roosevelt Democrat and with Judge Ralph Smith's father on the office staff this important office is once more a political football."

In appointing Joyce, Pinchot rebuffed David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, who had urged him to re-appoint Mrs. Clark.

Both appointments are understood to have been suggested to the Governor by Judge Ralph Smith.

Free Kisses Upheld by Justice

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—A husband's failure to confine all his kisses to his wife is not essentially cruel, Supreme Court Justice Peter Schumuck ruled today.

The ruling was made in connection with abandonment and non-support claims made by Mrs. Kathleen Johnson, 38, British war nurse, in her suit for separation from Herbert W. Johnson, 40, British engineer. The woman's charges were dismissed and the husband's counter-claim for an annulment was granted by Justice Schumuck.

The court held that a divorce obtained by Mrs. Johnson from her husband, Dr. Charles Gollinger, in Florida in 1927, is void in this state, Justice Schmuck holding that they really were residents of New York who visited Florida frequently and where Dr. Gollinger had a license to practice. The judge said:

"Marriage is not a monastic retirement and a married man is not a social leper. An occasional embrace given as a sign of friendly salutation or valedictory, particularly if done in public, can excite and irritate only the evil-minded and the jealousy-disposed."

M'CLOSKEY OUT FOR SENATE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—A bid for both the Republican and Democratic nominations for United States Senator is to be made by Eddie McCloskey, Johnstown's fighting Mayor.

He announced his candidacy last night, asserting he will advocate lower taxes and decreased utility rates. His utility plan calls for three super-generating plants that would provide inexpensive light and power for all citizens.

Under his tax plan, McCloskey said, municipalities would save money by issuing bonds to the state, which in turn would sell them to the federal government. This would mean a premium saving and a resultant tax cut, he asserted.

POWER PROBE BILL PASSED

CWA DEATH TOLL TOPIC HERE

One hundred and sixty workers have been killed while at work, it was stated last night by Sidney J. Williams, CWA safety director, in a talk before the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council in the United States Bureau of Mines auditorium.

Williams, however, claimed that the record was exceptionally good considering that the great majority of CWA workers are engaged on construction projects. Most of the serious accidents, according to Williams, were due to the fact that CWA men are, as a rule, inexperienced in the work they are doing. Williams said that there is approximately 4,000,000 now at work on CWA projects throughout the country.

Roosevelt and Farley Study Airmail Evidence

Aviation Companies Face Loss of Contracts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Farley is going to discuss with President Roosevelt late today the status of disputed airmail contracts and action is expected this week.

The President is taking the position that he has the power to abrogate contracts if it is deemed necessary.

Farley has been making a special study of the Senate's investigation into the contracts and is prepared to make recommendations to the President.

The Postmaster General said yesterday he would lose no time in reaching a decision on what action to take, in view of disclosures before the Senate air mail investigating committee.

Meanwhile, members of the committee conferred on procedure to be followed tomorrow when three aviation company officials and their attorney, William MacCracken, are to appear before the Senate bar to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for destroying or removing correspondence subpenaed by the committee.

MacCracken was assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics in the Hoover administration.

STOCK MARKET BILL READY

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Drastic regulation of stock and commodity market transactions were approved today by President Roosevelt for submission to Congress.

The bill will propose strict regulation of exchanges through operation of the Interstate Commerce laws, and will be administered by the Federal Trade Commission since enforcement of the act regulating issuance of new securities is one of its present duties.

Congress expects to receive it tomorrow.

Short sales, marginal operations and "pools" were the particular marks at which the President shot in drafting the new proposals. A system of "registration" on the part of stock and commodity exchanges will be set up to provide the government a close check on all market operations.

Mr. Roosevelt called his congressional leaders to the White House to draft the legislation, and went as far as the law would stand in regulating market operations.

House Leaders Predict Fight for Sales Tax

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Prediction that a stiff fight in behalf of the manufacturers' sales tax will be conducted on the House floor early next week was made following final approval yesterday by the House Ways and Means Committee of major features of the new revenue bill.

Minority Leader Snell, after a caucus of House Republicans, at which the new measure was scanned, declared:

"There is a growing sentiment in behalf of a manufacturers' sales tax on the part of the House membership."

An amendment designed to have sales tax as a substitute for the existing excise taxes will be offered by Representative Crowther (Rep.), of New York. He said:

"If the rule under which the bill is brought to the House floor permits, I shall offer my amendment providing for a manufacturers' sales tax as a substitute for the present nuisance taxes now in effect."

Speaker Rainey, a sales tax advocate, said:

Representative Knutson (Rep.), of Minnesota, declared:

NRA Legalized Robbery, Senator Borah Charges

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Criticizing NRA as a "rendezvous for monopoly permitting the public to be pillaged through legalized robbery," Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, last night delivered a scorching attack on the Blue Eagle and its codes.

Borah spoke on a nation-wide radio network as part of the campaign of Senate western Progressives and some Democrats against the NRA as it affects small business. He said:

"The average man or woman cannot be reduced to economic slavery, carrying the weight which kills, simply in the name of this or that scheme. They must be treated as citizens and protected against rapacious attacks of monopolies.

"A plan defective in this respect is legalized robbery, a libel upon government, whether you call it old freedom or new freedom, rugged individualism or planned industrialism."

Millions of people, the insurgent Republican continued, are being driven to new low levels of living with the bottom not yet reached. The question no longer is whether small business is being crushed, he said, but has become:

"Is it possible to save small business from destruction?"

Demanding restoration of anti-trust laws suspended under NRA codes, he added:

"Unless these laws are restored and enforced, the American people will continue to be pillaged and robbed through extortionate prices and small business will be driven into bankruptcy. If NRA can protect consumers and small business, then why has it not done so?"

Billions being spent for relief are being poured largely into pockets of monopolies, Borah maintained.

SLAIN DOCTOR REVEALED AS 'GAY LOTHARIO' AT TRIAL

HIGHBALL DEATH JURY TO HEAR LOVE LETTERS

Defense in Surprise Move; Juror Ill, Court Recesses

By WILLIAM G. GAUDET
International News Service.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 8.—Hinting at startling disclosures, including an alleged threat by Dr. J. Preston Kennedy to take his own life, attorneys for Dr. Sara Ruth Dean sprang a surprise today by introducing a huge batch of "love letters" which admittedly will play a prominent part in the trial of the young woman physician for the alleged "highball murder" of her admirer.

While defense attorneys closely guarded contents of the letters, exactly one hundred of which were identified this morning by Dr. Henry Kennedy, brother of the dead surgeon, they said they revealed the late physician as "a gay Lothario who made passionate love incessantly" to Dr. Dean over a period of years.

With the dentist on the stand for the fourth consecutive day, Defense Attorney J. J. Breland handed him one letter after another in monotonous succession, and asked him to identify the signature of his brother.

It was revealed that the letters were counted upon by the defense to serve two principal purposes—to show that Dr. Kennedy violently loved Dr. Dean and that he might have committed suicide because of her refusal to marry him, and that he previously had experienced symptoms similar to those which characterized his last illness.

A recess was taken suddenly today when a juror became ill and a doctor was summoned. At this stage exactly 100 of the letters had been offered for identification.

The crowd which had followed with interest details of the testimony became bored with the letter identification. Only Dr. Dean herself appeared to be interested.

While it was not definitely stated when the defense would seek admission of the letters as evidence, it was indicated they would not be read until the state completes its case and Dr. Dean takes the stand in her own defense.

DEATH CHARGE FACES SON

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—The state today prepared to file a formal charge of murder against John Richards, 28, in connection with the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary Richards, 50-year-old divorcee, at a party in Lincolnville.

Announcement that he would bring the charge was made last night by Stuart A. Culbertson, Crawford County District Attorney, after police told him Richards had confessed striking the blows that caused the woman's death.

Culbertson said an autopsy showed the woman died from a fractured skull and blood clots at the base of the brain. Deputy Coroner O. H. Danner will conduct an inquest at Lincolnville tomorrow.

Officers said Mrs. Susie Price, at whose home Mrs. Richards died Monday night, told them Richards knocked his mother down and "beat her with his fists" after she refused to leave the party and go home.

RUTH SLENCZYNSKI . . . PRACTICING TO PLAY WITH THE MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY TONIGHT

PIANO PRODIGY ARRIVES HERE

Nine-year-old Ruth Slenczynski, prodigy pianist, hadn't a word of advice today for those other 9-year-olds who labor over the intricacies of "The Maiden's Prayer."

She matches skill and temperament with renowned artists, but she doesn't know the secret of her ability. She's told it is an inborn art.

Ruth arrived this morning with her father, Joseph Slenczynski, to prepare for her appearance with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra at Syria Mosque Friday night.

It was hoped she would have a word for others of her age and size who have progressed little beyond the do-re-mi stage on the piano, but instead she told about taking Molinari, the eminent conductor, to task while they were in San Francisco. Ruth got in newspaper headlines when she and Molinari tangled over how many encores an artist ought to take at a performance.

CHAINED GIRL LIBERATED

BENTONVILLE, Ark., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Freed from the cot where she allegedly was chained at intervals for the past three years, 13-year-old Lola Logston went to a picture show yesterday and was showered with presents of clothing while a hearing for her father and the stepmother on charges of child neglect was delayed.

Her condition appeared greatly improved after the county physician had dressed injuries said to have been caused by chains with which she was bound.

She was placed on a diet.

The child was ordered removed from custody of her father, R. Logston, and stepmother, after Dr. C. J. Clemmer, of Gentry, advised County Judge David Compton he had visited the home and found Lola chained to the clot, clad only in underclothing.

She was ordered placed in the Arkansas Children's Home.

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 8.—The cases of the three main principals in the $10 murder of Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders were continued for one week by Municipal Judge Dewey Meyers here today when the defendants were brought into court for arraignment.

The Marion County grand jury was expected to return first degree murder indictments against the three before their next court appearance. The grand jury now is probing the case.

Those in court were Mrs. Neoma Saunders, frail 35-year-old widow of the slain Methodist pastor; Ted Mathers, 19-year-old alleged trigger man, and Masil Roe, 19-year-old alleged driver of the car in which Saunders was shot to death.

Prosecutor Herbert E. Wilson announced that no indictments would be sought against Mrs. Mabel Blake, 33, nurse of Mrs. Saunders, and against Ross Curts, 20, both of Wabash, Ind.

STEIN LIBRETTO SOCKS OPERA TRADITION

'Four Saints' Really 30 As Modernists Go On 'Grand' Spree

By CHARLES KINNAIRD
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Revolution breaks out tonight in grand opera.

It is a revolution led by Americans who in two operas to be presented here and in Hartford, Conn., this week for the first time, break away from three centuries of operatic tradition in dramatic form and libertto freedom.

In "Four Saints in Three Acts," which has its premiere at Hartford, Conn., tonight, opera virtually starts all over again.

Actually it has 30 saints and is in four acts, and Negro characters appear in white-face. The libretto is in the most staccato manner of Gertrude Stein, which is no coincidence, for Gertrude Stein wrote it. A sample of her operatic style is provided by the beginning of the first act, as given in the text:

"Saint Theresa in a storm at Avila there can be rain and warm snow and warm that is the water is warm the river is not warm the sun is not warm and if you stay to cry. If to stay to if to stay if to cry to stay if to cry to stay to cry to stay.

"Saint Ignatius not there.

"Saint Ignatius staying where," etc.

ALL MIXED UP!

In setting the Stein opus to music, Virgil Thomson, modernistic composer, did not separate stage directions from the remainder of the text, and the stage directions are sung or spoken by the chorus as an integral part of the opera. Which gives you an idea.

The week's other premier, "Merry Mount," which has its first showing at the Metropolitan Opera Saturday matinee, adheres to the traditional form, but uses some words that are not generally heard to polite society.

"Merry Mount," composed by Howard Hanson, head of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., with book by Richard L. Stokes, one time newspaper music critic, is a bitter tale of witches and Puritans and complicated love in New England.

SEEDY SPANGLES

Lawrence Tibbett, the singing giant of Bakersfield, Cal., will parade in the lead in the seedy spangles of a Puritan preacher. In a scene with Irra Petina, a Metropolitan importation from Russia, he denounces her in language that no blue-blooded dowager-habitue of the golden horseshoe is supposed to know about. Miss Petina has the role of Desire Annable, a Puritan maid of 19, who loves unwisely.

"Merry Mount" represents the Metropolitan's annual contribution of a new American opera to the musical menu of the nation, and it is making it as American as possible by filling as many roles as possible with American singers. Tibbett, as the foremost American operatic performer, naturally got the leading role, and the opportunity to cap his stardom in two other operas of national genre, "Emperor Jones" and "Peter Ibbetson."

A fellow Californian, Lillian Clark, also has a role in "Merry Mount."

"Merry Mount" will be broadcast over the NBC networks.

BEAUTY-SLAYER FIGHTS WILL

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.—(AP.) — Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon, widow of Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, who was shot to death in France almost three years ago, "will attempt to break the will of her husband," according to the Evening Bulletin.

Mrs. Nixon, the "Miss St. Louis" of the 1923 Atlantic City beauty pageant, was acquitted by French courts in May, 1931, in the slaying of her husband at Nice in March of that year.

Under her husband's will, Mrs. Nixon, who has two children, was given a third of the residue of the estate for life. The newspaper said:

"She will seek to obtain a widow's third of the estate, estimated to be worth $700,000."

"Should she win, it is said several charitable bequests by Nirdlinger will be affected, and that she will also be granted the right to marry again without loss of any rights in the estate."

Mrs. Nixon recently obtained court permission to drop the name of Nirdlinger.

Drug Store Guard Shot During Holdup

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Policeman Emil Harder, stationed in the back room of a drug store for several months to guard against holdups, was shot by a robber today before he could draw his gun. BUSHMAN WILL WED SINGER

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Wedding bells are going to ring again for Francis X. Bushman, the former moving picture star, has announced.

His bride-to-be, he disclosed in an announcement last night, is Carmela Ponselle, a mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

But the time and the place and other details of the ceremony for the former husband of Beverly Bayne were unknown, depending, he said, upon the wishes of Miss Ponselle. He said:

"I'm leaving all the details to her, so I can't say anything about them until she arrives in Chicago."

The one-time movie matinee idol has gone in the liquor business. He obtained a marriage license.

Miss Ponselle, a sister of the opera star, Rosa Ponselle, was reported en route from New York, and was expected to reach Chicago tomorrow. Her age was given as 27. Bushman gave his as 47.

Mrs. Ince Restored Late Husband's Name

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—To enable her to transact business as president of the Ince Investment Company, Mrs. Elinor Kershaw Ince Herbert today is legally Mrs. Ince. A court order granting her the right to change her name was granted by Superior Judge Marshall McComb.

Mrs. Ince is the widow of the late motion picture producer, Thomas H. Ince. She later married Holmes Herbert, an English actor, the union ending in a Mexican divorce recently.

GAS INDUSTRY LEADER URGES RATE CUT

Consumption Increase Hinges on Slash, Sellman Says

Lower domestic gas rates must be established by the industry if increased consumption is to be expected was a warning sounded today before the Eastern Natural Gas Sales Conference by a leader in the gas industry.

Sales of appliances aimed to increase consumption have failed in their purpose, N. T. Sellman, chairman of the commercial section, American Gas Association, told the opening session today in Hotel William Penn.

He advocated the inauguration of a block system in rate construction, whereby gas in large amounts such as required for heating plants would be offered at lower rates than cooking gas.

COMPLAINT SOURCE

Citing that high bills develop complaints and dissatisfaction of customers, Mr. Sellman said:

"Cooking and refrigeration are the two domestic uses for gas which can be acquired by the average gas company on their general domestic rates no matter what the top price may be. Gas for automatic water heating and auxiliary space heating to be used without stint calls for decidedly modified rates."

Reporting that surveys reveal a large percentage of automatic water heaters entirely disconnected or only in seasonal use, he said:

"The idle water heater makes it difficult to sell new equipment in the vicinity. Furthermore, high cost of operation for water heating makes it most difficult to take the next step in load building, which logically should be to heat the home through some central boiler or furnace equipment."

Mr. Sellman, holding that rates for the use of cooking and refrigeration are acceptable, advocated the establishing of a block form of rate structure. The consumer would continue at the normal rate on cooking or refrigeration purposes up to about 3,000 cubic feet consumption, he said, while approximately the next 7,000 cubic feet would be offered at a lower rate.

REASONABLE PRICE

He said:

"The purpose of this step is to provide for the automatic heating at a price within reason for the average consumer. In the last analysis, it is the customers' viewpoint that we must consider if we expect to receive his acceptance of gas as an ideal domestic fuel."

The survey referred to by Mr. Sellman was made over a large area including many districts in which gas rates are much higher than those in the Pittsburgh district.

ASTOR DENIES ACHING HEART

WILMINGTON, Cal., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—On a liner bound for the Antipodes, John Jacob Astor III today was on a trip he described as a lark and not an antidote for a broken heart over the ending of his engagement to Eileen Gillespie, New York debutante.

Parrying questions concerning his romance with answers bearing upon the lack of sunshine and the distance from his private railway car to the harbor, the heir to the $40,000,000 Astor fortune successfully eluded comment on the shattered engagement.

He was accompanied by three friends — Mayson H. Tucker, Blaine Ewing, Jr., and James Thompson—and a valet.

Cocktail Lounge In Downtown Hotel

A cocktail lounge where milady may sip her refreshments or the gentleman can quench his thirst without the formality of the dinner table or menus is Pittsburgh's latest innovation.

The lounge, hidden by banked ferns and palms and offering the comforts of a club lounge, has been introduced by the Hotel William Penn. It is situated in the main lobby beside the Italian dining room. Artistic coffee tables replace the white covered tables of a dining room. Eugene C. Eppley, president of the hotel operating company, supervised the arrangements.

The Bug Receives Reverse Tribute To His Learning

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

OMAHA, Feb. 8.—Out here is where the cattlemen saddle old paint. Way back East is where we drink it.

This state didn't vote on repeal. The question had been thirty-sixed before it got to Nebraska.

Went to a banquet last night that was as dry as a skeleton's ribs. But everybody had a good time.

The Mayor of Omaha introduced the bug as a man who absorbed information like blotting paper.

We thought that was a compliment until we realized that blotting paper absorbs its information backwards.

VETERANS LAUD WAR PICTURES AS WARNING

Lined up in a downtown office to make their bonus applications, a dozen grim-faced men who as doughboys were cheered to the front in 1917 today gave vent to oft-expressed opinions.

Giving the floor to one of their number, formerly a prominent business executive whose views were termed "typical of the man on the street today" by one of his conferees, declared adequate national defense, particularly in the air, "absolutely essential."

In line with the necessity of a powerful military protection for this country, the group commended the Sun-Telegraph's publication of uncensored World War pictures toward that end. One veteran said:

"They're just about as mean-looking as could be gotten and certainly ought to make people sit up and take notice. Protection for this country is one of our greatest needs. We would have been in a much better position to enter the World War if there had been a movement like this 20 years ago."

Another broke in:

"I agree with the Sun-Telegraph. We must have defense, powerful defense. But precaution in that line can only go so far. When nations get too strong they can't hold their strength within bounds. That's what happened to Germany."

A third veteran took the floor:

"Defense—protection—is necessary, of course. Particularly I think we ought to have an A-1 air force . . . but if you want to avoid war, cut capital from the huge profits of war. War always is caused by the big man making money. Cut that profit, make him send his sons into the battlefields with the rest of the fellows, and you won't have war."

WOMAN KILLED, DRIVER HELD

Cecil Chapman, 21, of 7939½ Hill avenue, was held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Mrs. Ray Solomon, 47, of 5808 Hobart street. Mrs. Solomon was killed and her daughter, Lillian, 21, injured when struck by a machine driven by Chapman January 13.

Witnesses testified the two women were about to board a street car at Forbes street and McKee place. Chapman said the trolley did not appear to slow down for passengers and falling snow prevented him from seeing the women.

LaFollette Speaker For Monessen Fete

MONESSEN, Feb. 8.—Philip LaFollette, ex-Governor of Wisconsin, and Arthur W. Evans, humorist, will be the principal speakers at the Monessen Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held in the Monessen Junior High School on Thuresday evening, February 15.

Film Hero Saves Heroine From Real Fire

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—A cinematic double play was credited yesterday to Lyle Talbot, screen actor, who made an assist and a putout with one swoop of a carpet.

Talbot was playing in a picture opposite Margaret Lindsay, Dubuque (Ia.) girl, who won a place in films by representing herself to be an actress from the English stage. Miss Lindsay bent over two candles while the cameras clicked. Her fur coat ignited. Before anyone knew what had happened she was in flames.

Talbot, first to sense the danger, seized a carpet, threw it about the girl, and rolled her on the floor.

Physicians said Miss Lindsay was not seriously burned.

Lincoln Forgeries Defraud Collectors

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—The New York Times says Abraham Lincoln forgeries of such cleverness as to deceive several collectors and dealers have appeared recently in this city and Chicago.

The source the Times says, has not been discovered, but a man who visited several dealers attempting to sell spurious documents is understood to have been questioned. So far, the newspaper states, the frauds have been confined to legal documents.

SEWER MURDER DENIED FROM STAND

girl who lay on a morgue slab was Margaret? Hadn't anyone mentioned this to her?

"Yes, Marie (Laufman, the landlady.) She came in and told me, 'Grace, that might be Margaret.' I told her she was in Greensburg."

RECOGNIZES BODY

Finally, Mrs. Mull related, she went to the morgue and recognized Margaret by a mark on a leg.

Mrs. Mull was asked where she and her husband had obtained the pistol found in their cabin near Haydenville. She replied:

"I can't tell you for sure. We had it about five years ago."

Mrs. Mull's story is that Margaret left the Mull cabin to visit an uncle nearby on the Sunday on which she was slain.

FEARED FOR REPUTATION

Why, then, when the Mulls returned to the cabin from Pittsburgh Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, didn't they go to this uncle's in their efforts to find Margaret? Mrs. Mull said she didn't want the townspeople to know she and her husband had been reunited. She added:

"The people in town talked too much. . . I was trying to keep it (her reputation) good."

Mrs. Annie B. Foust, 72, of Riverhill avenue, on the eastern outskirts of Pittsburgh, mother of Mull, took the witness stand to testify for her son.

She denied that Mull had introduced the Schwickrath girl as his wife at the time he borrowed $50 to buy her clothes. Detective William Harris had so testified for the commonwealth yesterday in substantiation of the alleged love triangle.

She was asked:

"Did you believe she was his wife?"

The aged woman replied:

"My goodness no."

She had known Mrs. Mull and knew that the girl wasn't her son's wife, she said. She had given them money, she related.

A note for $50 as security for the loan signed by Mull and Miss Schwickrath was introduced in evidence.

GIRLS TESTIFY

Two little girls, Pauline Smartnick, 12, and Mary Pedicone, 13, neighbors of the Mulls, testified that they had seen Mull and his wife leave their home the day the Schwickrath girl disappeared and go in the direction of Youngwood. This was in support of the defense contention that the Mulls went in search of Miss Schwickrath.

The defense introduced documents showing that Miss Schwickrath had filed an information before Alderman Daniel Dunmire, of South Greensburg, July 16, 1930, charging Philip Yanitz with being the father of her child.

Yesterday Mrs. Mull contended that, far from jealous, she was devoted to the 22-year-old Margaret.

To show that the crime was not motivated by jealousy nor the "other woman" theory as the state contended, Mrs. Mull testified:

R. B. Ivory, Jr., her counsel, questioned:

"Did you ever harbor any feeling against Margaret because your husband paid immoral attentions to her?"

A.—Never at all.

Q.—How could you like a girl your husband was intimate with?

A.—I'll answer from the bottom of my heart. I knew my husband always ran around and I would rather know who he was out with than not.

SMILES ON STAND

Mrs. Mull smiled often during the hour she was on the stand relating her relationship with the girl in the Mull's residence at 816 East Ohio street and in their cabin at Haydenville, near Greensburg.

At the counsel table her husband sat stolid and tight-lipped.

Elmer, her 19-year-old son, who went on trial with his parents, was freed by the state a few minutes before his mother took the stand, when Prosecutor Chauncey Pruger admitted there was no evidence to connect him with the death.

His only comment was:

SON STAYS IN COURT

He remained in the courtroom.

The testimony of County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster closed the prosecution's case. He told of finding human blood stains on a tarpaulin detectives found in the Mull home on the North Side. Similar stains, he said, were also on a pillow found in the Mull automobile.

A crowded court room listened intently to Mrs. Mull's story, while other throngs milled in the corridors trying to get inside.

One man, Wilbur Haffner, was taken into custody by county police when he tried to break through. Judge B. Moore released him.

TELLS OF FIRST MEETING

Mrs. Mull told of meeting the "morgue mystery" girl four years ago, when her brother, John Schwickrath, brought her to their Haydenville cabin.

Later, when Margaret became a mother, Mrs. Mull testified she not only cared for her, but also assumed the financial expenses when the baby died three weeks after its birth.

Two years later, Mrs. Mull testified, she left her home following a quarrel with her husband, although she added her departure was not occasioned by jealousy, nor prompted by Margaret's relations with her husband. She said:

"Mr. Mull accused me of something I wasn't guilty of, and as long as he believed it I couldn't live with him. He said I was running around with other men."

LIVED 'LIKE ONE'

Then Margaret left and came to live with her. She said she obtained a job for her and they lived "like one" in the two rooms.

Mull came and lived with the two women last summer, Mrs. Mull testified. At that time she said Mull and the girl had broken relations.

Of the trip to Haydenville, which was made in the early morning of the day Margaret's body was found in an Allegheny River boulevard sewer, Mrs. Mull said:

"We had some furniture in the cabin that was going to be sold by a sheriff and we wanted to get it."

GIRL DISAPPEARS

When they reached the cabin she said they veiled their actions in secrecy because people there did not know she was living with her husband again. While they were there, she said, she and Margaret quarreled with Mull because he had taken so much time to sell a stove.

In company with Margaret, she testified, she started across the field en route to Pittsburgh. Mull, she said, caught up with them and they started back to the cabin, Mull going on ahead. On the way back she testified Margaret said:

"'If I go back Mr. Mull will only fight—I'm going home.'"

Margaret left for what is known as the "Red Onion," a nearby community, and that was the last she saw her alive, Mrs. Mull testified. She said that she and Mull looked for Margaret and came back to Pittsburgh when they failed to find her.

'Winnie Mae' Likely To Fly in Air Race

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—The "Winnie Mae," which Wiley Post twice has flown around the world, may be groomed for the British-sponsored air race between England and Australia this fall, the globe-girdling flier indicated here yesterday. When friends charged that his famous plane was worn out and too slow for such competition, Post said: it was learned Magee had taken from the pocket of a small coupe, a note from the kidnapers, standing with his back to the curb while reading the communication.

CASH IN SUIT BOXES

After replacing the note in the pocket of the car, Magee then set two "bundles of money" on the seat. It was presumed the ransom was wrapped in two large cardboard suit boxes tied with heavy cord in accordance with the gang's earlier instructions.

It was not disclosed when or where the payment was made nor what the instructions were. In view of the family's earlier statements, that they were ready and eager to pay the full ransom, the view was taken in some quarters that the entire $200,000 was turned over to the captors.

L. J. Mosher, ticket agent at Rochester for the Chicago Northwestern Railroad, said today he was positive the man who purchased a ticket for Owatonna from him last night was Bremer.

Merrit Horn, a cab driver at Rochester, declared he was certain he drove Bremer from the bus depot to the railroad station after the victim had learned he would be unable to get a bus out of there for St. Paul that night.

Dr. H. T. Nippert, friend of the Bremers, said the first contact with the family by the gang after the original ransom note was made through him. He received three notes on January 20, three days after the sizure.

A large envelope, containing three notes, was slipped under the door of his home and a milk bottleh urled through the door glass to atract attention. Nippert at the time admitted the bottle incident but declared "it would be beneath my honor and dignity as a physician" to deny the notes if any had been received.

The three notes were addressed to Walter Magee, Adolph Bremer and Dr. Nippert.

A telephone call from an unidentified man that morning instructed the physician to "go down and look at your front door and don't be afraid." Nippert then found the envelope. It was penned in ink in Bremer's handwriting, the physician said.

U. S. SLEUTHS ON TRAIL

As soon as Bremer returned home, Chief of Police Thomas Dahill, Inspector of Detectives Charles Tierney, and Detective Tom Brown, of the St. Paul Police Department, rushed to the Adolph Bremer home.

They with federal investigators immediately began questioning the banker. No one else was permitted to enter the yard, guarded by police and federal operatives.

M. F. Kinkead, Ramsey County attorney, came to the home shortly afterward. The door first was shut in his face. A few minutes elapsed before he was admitted.

FEARED FOR LIFE

First announcement of Bremer's release was made by Werner Hanni, chief of the Department of Justice office.

Hanni, asked if Bremer was all right, replied:

"Yes, he is."

At the home with Bremer and his father, were his uncle, Otto Bremer, chairman of the board of the American National Bank, and head of the Minnesota Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

The Bremers, prominent Democrats, steadfastly refused to cooperate with authorities during the banker's imprisonment, feeling at the time any police activity would endanger the victim's life.

Adolph Bremer, the aged father and personal friend of President Roosevelt, issued a statement of thanks.

A FATHER'S THANKS

The statement said:

"I greatly appreciate the personal interest of the President and the Governor and the splendid co-operation given by the press and the radio.

"The city, state and federal law enforcing authorities have been most kind in their efforts and offers of assistance. Above all I never will forget their humane willingness to stand by me when my pleas convinced them that Edward's life was in serious jeopardy.

"It is my earnest prayer that other fathers and mothers will be spared the agony of a similar ordeal."

The statement was signed by Adolph Bremer.

LONG CAPTIVITY

Bremer was held the same length of time as John J. O'Connell, Jr., wealthy young member of a politically prominent New York state family. This was the longest kidnap seizure since the fatal Lindbergh baby abduction. Both O'Connell and Bremer were held 23 days.

Bremer was seized by his abductors the morning of January 17, shortly after he had taken his child to an exclusive school for girls. His blood-stained automobile was found a short distance away.

Shortly after he was abducteid, one of the men called Walter Magee, wealthy contractor, a friend of the Bremers, and said:

"Well, we've got your friend, Bremer, and if you are not careful we'll get you too."

Death for Bremer was threatened if Magee called in police or communicated with newspapers. A note, the unidentified speaker said, would be found on Magee's doorstep. The note, signed in a shaky hand by Bremer, gave directions for negotiating with the abductors.

Although unconfirmed, it was reported three contacts had been made previous to his release last night.

U. S. Agents Speed Hunt For Bremer Kidnapers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Department of Justice officials indicated that the search for the abductors of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, would be intensified now that he has been returned alive.

This was disclosed as details of the return of Bremer were coming into the office of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the division of investigation of the Justice Department. He would not see newspapermen.

Many high in official life in Washington were happy at the return of the young man, as his family is well known to President Roosevelt and others here.

In other kidnap cases, the Department of Justice has not thrown its fullest resources into the search for the kidnapers until the victim was returned.

It has been explained that by giving the kidnapers a chance to return the person abducted, the family is satisfied and additional possibilities for securing information as to the identity of the responsible parties is provided.

4 POLICE FIRED IN MT. OLIVER

After a secret ballot of the Mt. Oliver borough solons' meeting last night, four policemen were ousted and replaced in the most drastic reorganization change in the police department in more than 25 years. Four other policemen were retained by a majority vote.

The new patrolmen to be sworn in February 15 are George Dennison, George Reddinger, Edward T. Doran and Elmer Davis. Dennison is a son of Councilman Thomas Dennison. Burgess C. W. Beckman, who swept into office last election with four other Democratic and Independent councilmen, defeating former Burgess John A. Wagner, who was in control of the borough's politics for a quarter of a century, was retained as chief of police.

After he had been refused a typewriter, Joseph Philip Katz, 16, packed his bags and left his home at 2006 Wendover street, his father, Leroy J. Katz, reported to the Bureau of Missing Persons today. Later this note was found in the ice box:

"I can't take it any more. I had some happy times here, but there are blue streaks now. If it wasn't for mother I would have left long ago."

The boy was a pupil at Taylor Allderdice High School. His father is a dress manufacturer.

He was said to have intercepted a $13.98 check mailed to another man as pay for holiday season work at the postoffice. Traced to Plattsburg by United States secret service operatives, he was arrested at a Citizens Conservation Camp.

GUNGIRL DRAWS 60 DAYS IN JAIL

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 8.—Isabelle Messmer's luck in her encounters with the police changed today.

Pittsburgh's two-gun girl was sentenced to 60 days in jail for pulling a pistol on a policeman in Miami.

Isabelle, of course, had an explanation; she said she was nervous and didn't mean anything by it.

In Pittsburgh last year Isabelle talked her way into a parole after she had been caught with two pistols. She said she used to be a tap dancer with a carnival.

PASTORS DIFFER ON POWERS OF DEITY

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Most of the Protestant ministers in Chicago answering a questionnaire sent out by the School of Education of Northwestern University agreed today they didn't want children to believe God sends storms, earthquakes and other disasters to punsh people for their sins.

The questionnaire, intended by its sponsors to determine what the pastors hold children of junior high school age should believe, was sent to 1,039 ministers listed in the directory of one Chicago church federation. It brought answers from half of them, displaying a divergence of opinion on all the questions.

Sample questions and answers:

Whether God keeps a record of one's bad deeds in a great book: 19 per cent yes; 74 per cent no; 7 per cent, uncertain.

Whether God spent millions of years making the world: 67 per cent yes; 15 per cent no; 18 per cent, uncertain.

Whether God sends storms, earthquakes and other evils to punish people for their sins: 17 per cent yes; 72 per cent no; 11 per cent, uncertain.

There was an almost unanimity of opinion that children should be taught that God still runs the world and 98 per cent believed in teaching that God "speaks" through good men and women today.

The ministers were almost evenly divided on the question, "Are we sons of God as much as Jesus?" with 42 per cent answering yes; 44 per cent no, and the rest uncertain.

As to whether Jesus was God, 72 per cent said yes, 26 per cent no, and the rest were uncertain. Ninety-seven per cent agreed children should be taught that Jesus is still living.

As to a "Judgment Day," 48 per cent would teach that it is to come, 39 per cent no, and 13 per cent were undecided. Fifty-nine per cent agreed Heaven exists as a reward for the saved, but only 20 per cent would teach there is a hell of fire and burning. Sixty-nine per cent were ready to deny hell's existence, 31 per cent the existence of Heaven.

All but one per cent of the ministers vouched for the importance of prayer.

Ninety-eight per cent believed church membership helped one be a better follower of Jesus.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

HOTEL PICKETS PUSH ON, SIX ARE FREED

While striking employes of the Hotel William Penn kept their picket lines intact today, strike organizers announced plans to increase their activities. The Hotel Pittsburgher was furnished a police guard.

Mayor McNair said he would find out from the City Law Department whether the pickets can be forbidden to wear placards. The Mayor objects particularly to women carrying placards.

TWO WOMEN FREED

Mary Turgitis, 22-year-old linen room girl at the William Penn, and Martha Williams, 30, Negro, a William Penn maid, were discharged by Magistrate Howard B. McNutt in Central Police Court. They were arrested at the Pittsburgher yesterday. They were charged with violating a city ordinance.

Miss Turgitis said she would not stop wearing the placards that so offend the Mayor, but both promised to keep moving and not loiter on the picket lines.

Four others, also arrested at the Pittsburgher, were discharged in Morals Court. They were Mary Smith, 20, Negro, of 2541 Center avenue; Philip Morenos, 27, Grandview avenue; Steve Sidon, 29, 1302 Thirteenth street, and James Emory, 29, 304 Copperfield street.

Mayor McNair will address the strikers in Moose Temple, Penn avenue, tonight. He said he will insist that the pickets give up their banners.

ONE CASE SETTLED

Meanwhile, the differences between Dutch Henry and his employes, which resulted in the picketing of the restaurant, were reported settled at a meeting with a committee of the American Federation of Labor yesterday.

Dutch Henry and 14 of his 108 employes met the committee. It was agreed that the restaurant in the future would display a union card of the American Federation of Labor, and that the establishment would be operated on a strictly union basis. It was explained that the employes of the restaurant had not been organized heretofore.

Mt. Oliver Burgess' Stolen Auto Found

While Burgess C. W. Beckman, of Mt. Oliver, put in a busy day yesterday conducting court hearings and attending the borough's council meeting last night, his car parked around the corner from the municipal building, was stolen. Before he discovered the theft, Pittsburgh police recovered it on the Bloomfield bridge.

MISS ROSEMARY FOLEY "BRUCE"

WHEN "BRUCE" GOT LOST, HE WENT TO "LOST AND FOUND"

DOG REVERSES 'AD' PROCESS

When a lost and found department finds a dog, it's not news. But when a dog finds a lost and found department, he needn't have a man bite him to get his picture in the paper.

Such a dog is "Bruce," an Irish setter, belonging to Miss Rosemary Foley, of 3978 Brighton road. Disappearing from home yesterday, the animal vanished for several hours and was next seen at the entrance to the Sun-Telegraph Building.

Helped through the revolving door by Miss Clara Bierman, Sun-Tele employe, "Bruce" had sense enough to follow her right to her office, which happened to be in the lost and found department.

Miss Bierman, a resourceful girl, determined the dog's owner through his license and called Miss Foley, who dashed downtown for a happy reunion. And that is newspaper co-operation with a real news hound.

RATE CUT LEFT TO CAB FIRM BY COUNCIL

The attorney for the Parmelee System, operating Yellow and Green cabs, was asked by Council today whether the company will reduce rates. C. K. Robinson, attorney for the system, was requested to give an answer at a meeting of Council late today.

Arguments on the proposal of the Zone Cab Company of Cleveland to operate here were heard in Council yesterday.

The Zone company's proposition was to bring in taxicabs of a light weight to operate at 15 cents per mile. Parmelee cabs now charge 25 cents for the first quarter and 10 cents for each succeeding half-mile.

SEES CAR FARE CUT

For the Zone company, P. J. Haber, vice president, claimed that operation of the cabs on a similar rate in Pittsburgh would, through competition, force the street car company to increase its efficiency and make important concessions in its fares.

Questioned by Councilman William A. Magee, Haber said the company would be willing to operate here on either the commission or the driver-rental system.

Robinson contended it would be economically impossible for the Zone company to operate by the commission system here. He said:

"It would do the same thing as coolie labor does—depress the whole standard of living of the community."

CHARGES MONOPOLY

Another representative of the Zone company, Sylvester McMahon, said the Parmelee system charged excessive rates because it was drained to maintain a huge system of interlocking companies. Reading a long list of firms, located from Chicago to New York, he said:

"This is a monopoly octopus. Whenever they start out to do anything they meet themselves on the way back."

Architects Assail Competition by City

Discontinuance of city architects has been asked by the Pittsburgh chapter, American Institute of Architects.

A committee, headed by R. Maurice Trimble, yesterday told Council it was unfair for the city to compete with private architects.

CHARGE PUPILS 'DATE' TEACHERS

International News Service.

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 8.—This aristocratic suburb was all a-quiver today over the charges that boy students of the Greenwich Village High School were "making dates" with their pretty feminine teachers.

After a so-called trial of the issue, conducted by J. Gerard Tobin, president of the high school alumni association, a member of the board of education, and a lawyer, the charge was publicly refuted.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

January Tax Money Under 1933 Figure

Pittsburgh collected $320,356 less in taxes in January of this year than in the same month last year, Treasurer James P. Kirk announced today. The sum received was $7,626,228.

The collection, however, was made on a tax levy on land and buildings which was only 97 per cent of that for January, 1933, Kirk explained.

WHITMER WINS MUSIC AWARD

In recognition of his work for the symbolic music drama, T. Carl Whitmer, well known Pittsburgh composer, was awarded the David Bispham medal by the American Opera Society of Chicago at a Skidmore College lecture recital last night, according to an Associated Press dispatch received here today from Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

His choral number, "When God Laughed" was presented at the recital by the Schenectady Choral Society.

Former recipients of the medal include, Victor Herbert, Karl Schmidt, Wakefield Cadman, Walter Damrosch, Deems Taylor and Eleanor Everest Freer.

Mr. Whitmer, former organist and director of music at the Sixth Presbyterian Church, Forbes street, left Pittsburgh more than about a year ago to join the Dramamount Colony in New York, of which he is the founder.

His orchestral compositions have been played by Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and other symphony orchestras.

HEALTH GOOD, VARE DECLARES

ST. LUCIE, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Garbed in a heavy tweed suit and leaning on a cane, William S. Vare, Philadelphia Republican leader, told an Associated Press correspondent today he "was feeling fine."

He said he believed he had completely recovered from a mild attack of indigestion suffered last week and now was enjoying daily drives along the east coast.

He refused to discuss Pennsylvania politics, saying:

"I make it a practice not to discuss politics out of the state."

Mrs. Vare said her husband had made several fishing trips with friends recently. Reports have had Vare seriously ill.

Suburban Bus Service Argued

Public Service Commissioner S. Ray Shelby yesterday heard testimony in the application of James J. Dawson, of East Pittsburgh, for permission to operate buses between Harrison avenue, Swissvale, and Thirteenth street, Braddock. The application is opposed by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

It was testified that since the collapse of a bridge in Rankin several months ago persons traveling between Swissvale and Braddock are forced to transfer from one street car to another, causing a delay of 15 minutes and necessitating a walk of several blocks.

Bonniwell Opposes Excess Government

Speaking to the inquiry forum of the University of Pittsburgh yesterday, Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, declared state liquor stores are "failing to compete with bootleggers and are demoralizing the liquor traffic." He urged revival of the Brooks law, and revision of Pennsylvania's state government to prevent the overlapping of the 5,268 government sub-divisions.

He said that in Allegheny County alone there are 310 justices of the peace.

DIVORCE COURT DELAY FACES FAIRBANKS

International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 8 — Douglas Fairbanks probably will have to wait much longer than he had expected before he can marry Lady Ashley, it was disclosed today.

Because the divorce lists already are crowded, it was found likely Lord Ashley's suit against the former Sylvia Hawkes, British actress, naming Fairbanks co-respondent, will not be heard for a full year.

It was not expected to come up before the Hilary term beginning in January, 1935, although it was possible a somewhat special arrangement could be made if the suit were to go undefended.

Fairbanks was pictured by a close friend as being extremely anxious for Mary Pickford's divorce action against him to be concluded in the California courts in order that he might immediately be wed to the beautiful Lady Ashley.

According to present plans, neither Lady Ashley nor Fairbanks will defend the suit, although each was completely silent on the divorce action. A friend said:

"The delay in the California courts on Mary's divorce suit against Doug is causing him great anxiety.

"The reason is that he is anxious to marry Sylvia as soon as it is legally possible."

JUNIOR PATROL

Be pleasant on the telephone, fellows!

Soon most of you will have to talk on the telephone often. Everybody does sometimes. Even now, we suppose you use the telephone a good deal.

Courtesy when you are talking to someone on the telephone is just as important as it is anywhere else. Just as important as greeting a friend pleasantly on the street.

Don't sound "mad" or "excited" or "tired" on the telephone. People like to hear a pleasant voice. That is why the telephone operators have pleasing, soothing voices. Speak over the telephone the way you would talk to a good friend in your own living room. If the person on the other end of the wire says he cannot hear you plainly, don't shout. Just speak more distinctly, with more emphasis on each syllable, and put your lips nearer the mouthpiece.

Attention, all members. We want to send an armband to Capt. Betty Brown, of Bedford, Pa., but the postoffice sends it back because we don't have a complete address for her. If she sees this note or if any other member knows her right address, please write and tell us where she is right away.

Here's a pledge today from Beulah Boyd, of Louise, W. Va. That's a pretty name for a town. We are hoping that Beulah will start a Louise Junior Patrol.

Now here is a letter from Stanley Gasior, of 1 Halket street, Pittsburgh. He has been elected their captain by 10 members, but he doesn't send a pledge for himself. Maybe he is already a Junior Patrol member. Write again soon, Stanley, and tell us what you are doing to help others.

And Glenn Livingston, of 817½ Jerome street, McKeesport, Pa., sends in five pledges today. Now he only needs five more to have a full-sized Junior Patrol. Please don't forget, Glenn, that as soon as you have 10 members you can have an election and elect a captain. The captain gets the swell Junior Patrol armband of black and orange.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am,
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger,
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Date of Birth ..... Address .....

School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR Patrol, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

"THAT'S NO EXCUSE, GRACE! YOU KNOW HOW TO FIX 'REGULAR' PAIN"

Regular pain is out. So is even the discomfort at this time. That's a fact, and it's just too bad for the girl who hasn't learned how she can keep her dates, and keep comfortable. Simply do this:

Watch the calendar. Just before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should check it in seven to ten minutes. That is how rapidly this remedy works!

Midol helps those who have always had a difficult time. And the relief is lasting; two tablets see you through your worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for such suffering! Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

Congressman Henry Ellenbogen today succeeded in having the first step taken toward national old age pensions, according to Washington dispatches.

The House Rules Committee reported favorably a resolution introduced by Ellenbogen authorizing appointment of a commission to study the contributory plan for the pensions.

NO WORK, MAN PREFERS 'PEN'

Western Penitentiary officials here today were awaiting details of the story told by a paroled former inmate that inability to earn a living had forced him to give himself up to Bridgeport (Conn.) police.

Robert E. Moore, 34, paroled May 25, 1932, after serving three years of a sentence from McKean County on a forgery charge, told the Bridgeport police, according to word received here, that he preferred penitentiary life "to trying to earn his way in a hard world."

He was reported to have told the police he had violated his parole and asked to be sent back here. Prison parole officers said they had no knowledge of Moore's having violated his parole.

FRITZ FINISHES U. S. SERVICE

Attorney Zeno Fritz yesterday observed the seventh anniversary of his appointment as an assistant United States attorney for the western district of Pennsylvania, by assembling his personal belongings in the Federal Building and retiring from government service to engage in private law practice.

Eleven years ago Fritz came to Pittsburgh from St. Marys, Pa., and became a telephone operator in the office of United States Attorney, during the administration of Walter Lyon. He studied law at night sessions of Duquesne University and at his telephone board. Soon after being admitted to practice, he was promoted, in 1927 from telephone operator to an assistant government prosecutor by former United States Attorney John D Meyer. He continued during the four years Louis E. Graham was United States attorney.

During the seven years he specialized in the prosecution of narcotic, counterfeiting, white slave, postal and national motor vehicle theft cases. The new administration brought changes in the federal attorney's staff and on Tuesday Fritz was succeeded by Attorney Fred G. Weir, Democratic appointee.

ALKY FUGITIVE SURRENDERS

Heimy Cohen, 28, of Charleroi, who escaped when prohibition agents raided an alcohol plant in Mt. Pleasant, December 19, surrendered yesterday at the office of the United States Marshal. In default of $1,000 bond he was committed to jail.

While government agents were dismantling the plant, Cohen, who had been arrested in the building offered to help repair the elevator when it broke down. Entering the shaft, he climbed to the top and escaped over the roof, the agents reported.

Tired of being a fugitive, he went to the marshal's office intending to give bond for appearance before the United States Commissioner, but the bond he offered was unsatisfactory to the government officers.

At the time of the raid he was on a two-year probation term imposed in December, 1932, when he pleaded guilty to a liquor charge.

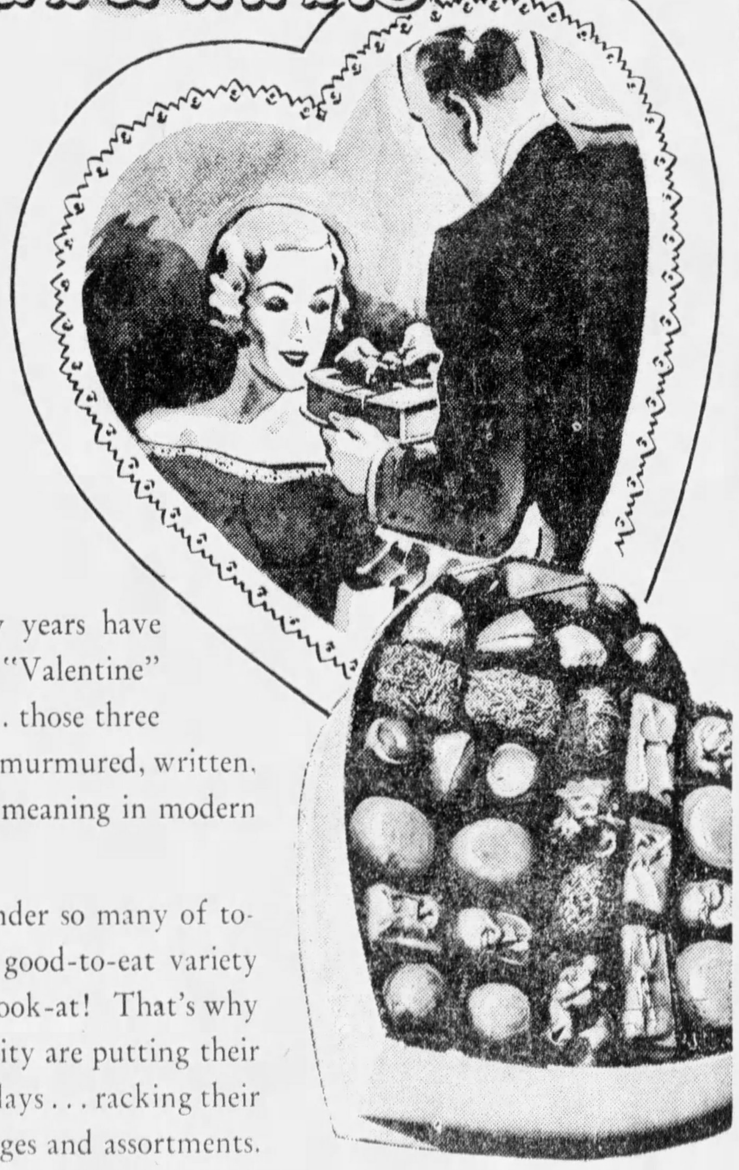
To My VALENTINE



A GOOD many years have rolled by since the first "Valentine" came into being. But . . . those three little words are still being murmured, written, sung with old-fashioned meaning in modern manner.

So that it's small wonder so many of today's Valentines are the good-to-eat variety as well as being good-to-look-at! That's why the candy stores of this city are putting their best foot foremost these days . . . racking their brains for original packages and assortments. TODAY'S candy Valentine will be the best yet!

THE SUN-TELEGRAPH

WEIR AWAITED FOR REPLY ON UNION POLL

Awaiting the outcome of the National Labor Board's plans for a new election of employe representatives at the Weirton Steel Company plants, Attorney General Cummings announced today that Department of Justice investigations of the Weirton case have been suspended.

The Labor Board was expected to get an answer from E. T. Weir, Weirton steel board chariman, following his return here tomorrow on whether the company will co-operate with the Labor Board in a poll of the workers.

An associated Press dispatch quoted Attorney General Cummings as announcing the suspension of action by the Justice Department. The facts in the Weirton case had been turned over to the department ith a view to possible prosecution under the NRA.

James L. Dewey, special representative of the board, was still in the city awaiting final word on the administration's request to Weirton officials conveyed through the steel company's counsel, Earl F. Reed. He had established headquarters at the William Penn Hotel, meanwhile conducting a routine investigation ordered by the board.

PLANS WEIRTON VISIT

He planned today to visit Weirton to look over the situation and confer with union leaders. He said his visit had no direct bearing on either the company's attitude or Labor Board's determination to learn the true status of affairs among the steel workers.

Dewey explained he was still awaiting for the company's answer to the Labor Board's request for payroll lists and nothing of an official nature would be done until this request was either granted or refused.

A house-to-house canvas of Weirton, Steubenville and Clarksburg was not deemed necessary to determine the status of affairs in these three steel towns, it was revealed today.

UNION OFFERS LISTS

Union officials have stated they have lists of employes favoring a new election, so if the Weirton company fails to relinquish its payrolls it will be necessary only to check these lists, it was pointed out.

The presidential order asks only that the Labor Board determine whether a "substantial number of employes" want a government-supervised election. It remains for the Labor Board to determine whether the union lists are composed of bona fide employes and whether their number is "substantial."

UNITED MINERS WIN ELECTION

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Victorious in collective bargaining voting at the Nemacolin mine of the Buckeye Coal Company, the United Mine Workers of America today turned their attention to the Searight colliery of the Republic Steel Corporation.

A ticket of six United Mine Workers of America representatives triumphed yesterday at Nemacolin over an independent brotherhood slate by 498 votes to 248.

The union men thus are authorized to negotiate with the company for a contract covering wage and working conditions. It was the twenty-first union victory in elections at 30 "captive" mines—collieries which produce fuel exclusively for the steel companies which control them. The Buckeye Coal Company is a subsidiary of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

On Nemacolin's U. M. W. A. ticket were John L. Lewis, international president; Philip Murray, vice president; William Hynes, District No. 4 president; Thomas Kennedy, international secretary; C. C. Bonner and John Kurtz, local union leaders. The union contends the brotherhood is a "company union."

GLOBE TROTTING

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

There is no more elated Globe Trotter in all the world than Jefferson Searfoss, 2101 Colfax street, McKeesport. He wrote me that he received a letter from President Roosevelt. The letter was one of encouragement and sympathy. Jefferson is suffering from the same ailment that once attacked the President, infantile paralysis.

Mrs. U. D.—If you were divorced from your husband prior to his death you are not eligible for his veteran's compensation even though you have not remarried. If you have a child, he is entitled to his father's compensation. You could claim for him.

R. D., Denbo—If you remarried after the death of your veteran husband you cannot claim compensation even though you have divorced your second husband and are using the name of your first husband.

V. F., Aliquippa—A stepchild of a deceased war veteran is not entitled to claim compensation. If the stepchild was legally adopted by the foster father it would in all probability be otherwise.

Have heard from P. L. Kisher, West View, that he has old magazines and books.

Yes, sir, Mr. Kisher, we are still interested. A Sun-Telegraph representative will call on you and deliver those magazines and books to any hospital or institution you name.

Anybody else have anything that might help pass some of the idle troubled hours of persons in institutions? Just write a letter or telephone. Someone will call.

It is interesting to note that the first paper money issued in this country was never redeemed. There seems to be lots of it in denominations from one-third dollar to $80. Dealers charge from 75 cents to a dollar and a half depending on the condition of the note. The sale price to the dealer is less. Beside his profit he must consider the many fruitless trips he makes looking over collections reputed to be valuable, but turn out to be worth very little.

Tested goodness

For 70 years, Gulden's has been the standard of flavor richness. The perfect blend of mellow mustard seeds and rare spices gives so much extra goodness to sandwiches, meats and cheese.

● BROILED HAM is doubly delicious when spread with Gulden's before cooking.

GULDEN'S MUSTARD

ON RADIO

University Opens Class In Radio

By AIRCASTER.

The pedagogs of New York University, istead of searching for the average radio listener, believe there are too many of him and have arranged a course in "radio orientation."

All and sundry who want to know this or that about radio and its ramifications, may enroll, and learn directly, the secrets of full radio appreciation, from NBC announcer John S. Young.

Professor Young began his classes yesterday at the college of Fine Arts, and brings together for lecturing purposes the best minds of both NBC and CBS.

There isn't anything about radio, technically, theatrically, or musically, that is over-looked.

STUDIO MURDER

The murder of an announcer at the KHI microphone, with the crime audible to the audience during a broadcast Monday afternoon, is regarded here as the best argument to date against studio audiences.

Although the slayer was part of an audience, he was a visitor. Bing Crosby and Raymond Paige helped keep order.

Radio officials here are pointing out today how easy it is for such things to happen.

They are wondering at the infrequency of such occurances, and also whether microphones had not better be kept out of the public reach to thwart such frenzied visitors who might easily be tempted to pour profanity and worse into the public ear.

TRUCKMEN

Accidents will happen, and sometimes they happen happily.

On Saturday night, the taxi strike in New York threw Alexander Woollcott and George Jessel together in a truck, which took them to the opening of the CBS playhouse.

En route, they planned an act together. Lucrezia Bori was delayed at the radio function, and it just happened that Jessel and Woollcott were required to ad lib.

They put on an impromptu act that was notable for its contrast of types, so witty and yet, satirical, that the Columbia headmen now are considering making up a permanent radio team of Jessel and Woollcott, for the delectation of their listeners.

Child Prodigy on Air With Aircaster

Ruth Slenczynski, eight-year-old concert pianist is heard over WCAE-WJAS tonight at 6:30, in an interview with "Aircaster."

Walter Winchell
ON BROADWAY

If I Were King of Hollywood

I would make reporters on the screen talk like newspapermen (not you, Lee Tracy!) and I wouldn't have young sob sisters dictating streamer headlines over the phone to managing editors. While I was about it I'd bar the words "I love you" from the screen, along with shots of chorus girls in circles, seen from above. (Oh boy, can they dig up ideas out there!)

I'd make every producer see every flopola (for which he was responsible) at least 50 times—and order the dialog turned on soooooh loud that he couldn't possibly fall asleep.

I would spank all the feeble Mickey Mouse imitators; strangle the guy who puts those scenes of long lines of battleships in the newsreels; make the press agents (who write those 10-minute "coming next week" announcements) eat their own words—including the film they've written about.

I would ask Dietrich for an introduction to her tailor; make Gregory Ratoff slow down his diction to a gallop; cast Doris Kenyon in a part where she has a chance to sing; hear a flood of topical wisecracks in a Will Rogers picture (instead of letting him suffer from writers who just can't be as amusing as Will); see Bing Crosby clowning for the cameras like he can off the screen and cast George Arliss opposite Wallace Beery (or vice versa), just for the heck of it.

If I were the big shot of the movies, I would also like to watch Mae West sing and Fred Astaire dance "The St. Louis Blues."

And while I'd be in the mood I would like to give good parts to Betzi Beaton, now in the Ziegfeld Follies, and to Lief Ericson of Ted Fiorito's band, who they tell me is potential star fodder.

I would let audiences see more of those old scene-stealers such as Henry Armetta, Herman Bing, Sterling Holloway, Leonid Kinsley and Beulah "Peel Me a Grape" Bondi. They haven't big names, but!

And how about letting Thelma Todd be a wisecracker for once? There's a swell delivery back of that blonde.

And I'd look into the matter of casting directors owning "pieces" of talent agencies out there in Hollywood. And at one studio I would move the writers' building right next to the slot machines, so the $750 a week "creators" wouldn't have to waste so much time traveling to lose their money. (They forget poverty so quickly out there).

And at another lot I would make the producer who fired ten stenogs in an economy wave last Saturday, rehire them Monday morning—since he can afford to drop $5,000 over the week-end at Caliente.

I would pay stars, writers and directors a percentage of the profits, if any, of the pictures they make and not staggering sums no matter what the result. And I'd make the stars save enough of their share, so that they wouldn't crowd extras out of jobs when their suns had set.

It would also do away with charities which some stars generously contribute to, while too many don't. But go and tell an actor!

I would do something rash about those impersonations of Zasu Pitts, and I would make flicker celebs, who announce their divorces, marriages, blessed events or retirements go through with them!

There would be much more exploitation (publicity, you clunk!) of American talent under my regime, and no huge ballyhooey of contests to fill a part for which a recognized "name" actor has already been hired.

I would pass those strong, black cigars that Lubitsch smokes around to the other directors, just in the hope that they might work the trick. And bring out some (even an inch) of Ernest's genius.

I'd have a school for screen beginners with a faculty like this: Diction: Tammany Young—Voice Placements: Dr. Andy Devine — Walking: Instructor Gary Cooper, and Gestures: Dean Bruce Cabot.

I'd stop those misleading titles on so many pictures. And I wouldn't overdo the gag of having Jimmy Cagney sock women. It goes big with the loafers and morons—but the Warners and even Cagney would be amazed at all the ladies who stay away when his flickers are advertised. (As a matter of record, I know Cagney doesn't like doing it).

That gag of dubbing in sound for stars who "play" the piano would be stopped (or the dub trick improved). It makes you titter because you can see that the player is faking it. (Huh, Bing?)

I would produce books, including literature, that have been passed up by most movie makers. Like some of Knut Hamsun's tomes. Such as "Victoria" with G. Garbo in the title role and "Growth of the Soil" if Ann Harding would assume a hairlip and take off her shoes.

Or Wasserman's "The World Illusion" with Ramon Novarro or Richard Barthelmess. And take a fling at "The Dybbuk" with Sylvia Sidney. Or "Gallagher" with Jackie Cooper—"Treasure Island" with practically everybody—Oscar Wilde's "The Birthday of the Infanta" as done by the Walt Disney Silly Symphony Studio, and J. Durante as "Barney Google."

I almost forgot! I'd produce Gene Fowler's "Timber Line" immediately, which is chockful of grand stories — each chapter is a hit in itself. The first chapter I'd do would be "The Unsinkable Mrs. Brown." Is it good? Parm me for repeating myself, but it's merely wonderful.

Passion Play By Negroes Next Week

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Mr. Seibel

The Ebenezer Baptist Church, which is our largest Negro church in Pittsburgh, has brought Dr. Ralph Mark Gilbert here for the purpose of training a group of 300 local Negro people in the presentation of his drama entitled "Passion and Triumph." This is the biggest thing of this kind the Negro people of Pittsburgh have ever attempted.

To sum it up in one sentence, it is a Passion Play with an all-Negro cast, the part of the Messiah being taken by Dr. Gilbert himself.

This may sound incongruous, but it is a curious fact that in many of the oldest religious paintings Jesus is portrayed as a black man, and learned books have been written to prove he was.

But this theory does not enter into the purpose and plan of "Passion and Triumph," to be presented next Tuesday evening in Schenley High School.

CAST IS ALL-BLACK

The production has several unique features. First of all is the fact of its being an aggregation entirely colored. Secondly, it will be supported entirely with a chorus of 200 voices, all colored people, which will sing under the direction of John Blakey, with John Lucas presiding at the organ.

This Passion Play starts with the conversation Jesus had with His disciples just prior to the triumphal entry into Jerusalem. There the drama moves to the upper room, where the Master observed the Passover and instituted the Lord's Supper. The first act closes with the heart-rending scenes of Gethsemane, culminating in the arrest of Messiah, to be brought before the Sanhedrin.

The second act opens with the trial presided over by Caiaphas. Then into Pilate's court, where this Roman politician is unwillingly swayed by the fiendish cries of the mob.

The crucifixion shows Christ coming down the Via Dolorosa, and after realistic details closes with thunder and lightning, bringing forth a confession from the centurion. The play closes with a tableau depicting the resurrection, with the ascension woven in at the close.

REAL NEGRO MUSIC

Throughout the play the music will be almost entirely made up of Negro spirituals and jubilee melodies. There is such rich content and such a wide range of subjects covered in these Negro spirituals, that it would be hard to write a theme of biblical setting that could not find sufficient of these old songs to fit every scene. They are the heart-songs of a deeply religious people.

Dr. Gilbert thinks the Negro spirituals have been desecrated by men who have dragged them through speakeasies and cabarets; they have served others who have built up themes that have ignobly given a false impression of Negro life and religion.

Dr. Gilbert, himself a Negro, is striving to lift the spiritual into the proper dramatic plane, and is using his training and experience to that end. He is striving to give a correct interpretation of the Negro's religious ideology.

Minna's Marriage Contract Lets Her 'Go Places'

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8.—Those two Hollywood amiables, Minna Gombell and Joseph W. Sefton, Jr., have devised the latest trick of all to put over a successful commuting marriage.

When Joe has to go to San Diego to attend his banking business, Minna has his full consent to have dates with other men. The situation was written up in contract form, May 19, 1933, and Hollywood didn't find it out until now.

Under the terms of the unusual agreement, Minna is "authorized and permitted to dine, dance and 'go places' with any eligible and unattached male of her selection, between the hours of 12 noon and 2 a. m., without either party incurring those dangers which are supposed to follow such a transgression of the codes conventional."

Continuing in serio-comic tone but in legal verbiage, the contract provides that the permission is automatically cancelled by the availability of Sefton, who, in all cases, "shall have undisputed right of way."

The contract is signed by Sefton and legally witnessed. It will expire May 19, 1934.

A new York doctor, who once attended Marie Dressler, has sent the M-G-M. star a gift which she prizes very much. It is a beautifully bound edition of "Men Against Death." Famous surgeons from all over the world wrote chapters for the book, which was compiled by Paul De Kruif.

Each one of these surgeons has autographed the first page of his article to Marie. The donor had to send it thousands of miles to get the signatures.

Maybe you don't know the story about Paul Lukas.

The other day the actor was making scenes on a moving Santa Fe train. Somebody complained about the noise.

"It doesn't bother me in the least," said Lukas; "I was born on a train."

And that's a fact. The star first saw the light of day on a train in Hungary, May 26, 1891, just as it was entering the city of Budapest.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Nixon box office boys are ready now to ticket you up for "Ten-Minute Alibi," mystery melodrama that will come to the Nixon Monday after playing in New York and Boston. Like most plays that have been here this season, it will go to Chicago after the local engagement is ended. Touring plays are passing up Cincinnati and Cleveland because there is a state admission tax in addition to the federal tax. The original New York cast will be seen here, including Bramwell Fletcher, young English actor who began his career by getting a thorough Shakespearean training with the Statford-On Avon Players in England. "Ten-Minute Alibi," an English play that has been in London more than a year, has a novel record in that production rights have been sold in 23 countries, including Egypt, Siam and Persia. In Germany, however, it has been banned by Hitler officials on the ground that it would be immoral to show on a stage a crime so perfectly planned that it defied solution by the forces of the law. It comes as the final play under the auspices of the American Theater Society.

Actress Divorces Mate for Career

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—(INS.)—Testifying her husband nagged her because he did not want her on the stage, Mrs. Helen Rulfs Vickerman, known in the theatrical and film world as Helen Vinson, had been granted a divorce today from Harry Nelson Vickerman, Philadelphia carpet manufacturer.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

For Value Received

MR. AND MRS. Horace Remington were very much upset. Horace raved and stormed, and his good wife seemed on the verge of swooning upon the Oriental rug. The reason for the outburst and the swooning was this:

The Remingtons had ambitious plans for their son and heir. They had long dreamed of the day when Wilfred would effect their entrance into the ranks of the socially-elect by means of a successful marriage. They had hoped, too, that their future daughter-in-law would be well endowed with worldly wealth—and thereby bolster up the family fortune.

Now their plans were in danger of being knocked into a fedora. And by no less person than Wilfred himself. It was true, he had admitted, that he was in love with Rose Johnson, a girl who worked in his father's office. It meant nothing to him, he declared, that she was neither rich nor socially prominent. He loved the girl.

"Love!" croaked Horace. "How can you be in love with a creature who has no background? Next thing, you'll be telling us that you intend to marry this person. Love—bah!

Wilfred was a little shaken, but for the first time in his life he was sticking by his guns.

"That's exactly what I have in mind," he retorted. "And for once, I'm going to do something that I want to!"

The scene that followed was a trifle too painful to tell about. At its conclusion Wilfred stamped out and banged the door behind him.

Mamma Remington fluttered her hands helplessly and moaned: "You must do something, Horace, you simply must! And after all we've planned for our boy! You can't let things be spoiled this way!"

"There," Horace soothed, "I will do something, I promise you that. I'll take care of this little gold-digger fast enough. Lord knows, we can't afford to spend money that way, but I'll manage to buy her off. Always remember, my dear, that money talks, and talks loudly!"

He muttered on in similar fashion for the remainder of the evening. And in the morning, when he set out for his office, he was both stern and confident. He stopped at his bank and cashed a large-sized check. After which he felt even more confident and no less stern.

As soon as he was seated at his desk, he rang for his secretary.

The girl came in timidly, and Horace favored her with a ferocious glare. He wasted no words.

"I have learned," he began harshly, "that there is an affair of some sort between you and my son. You realize, my dear young lady, that such a situation cannot continue. We won't go into the reasons. You must know them well enough. I will only say this—that your employment here is at an end."

"But, Mr. Remington," Rose ventured, "I—"

"I want no arguments!" Horace thundered. "My son has told me that he intended to marry you. That, of course, is ridiculous. As I said, you can no longer work here. However, I'm prepared to do the generous thing. In return, I must ask for your promise never to see Wilfred again. And that promise must be kept!"

He dug into his pocket and drew out a huge roll of bills. Rose twisted her hands nervously and began again.

"I can't take money like that," she protested. "Please, Mr. Remington—"

"No more!" The man tossed the bills across the desk. "There's enough there and more, to recompense you for the loss of your position. Five thousand dollars! If you ask me, you're very lucky!

"When you're a little older, you'll realize that a little money is a very pleasant thing to have." His voice grew more patronizing. "Yes, indeed, it's more important than you probably think right now. I might even say that it's the only thing of real importance in the world."

"Well, maybe you're right," she agreed. "Perhaps it is as important as you say. And you needn't worry about me, Mr. Remington. I won't see Wilfred again, ever."

Horace drew a long sigh of relief as she went out. He sat back and smiled with satisfaction. True, as he had explained to his wife, they could ill afford the money spent in this connection, but at that it was worth it. And he had handled the situation nicely, very nicely indeed. He had been a little afraid that the girl was going to hold out for more. But, no doubt, that five thousand had looked pretty big to a person in her position.

Wilfred came into the office late that afternoon. Horace was glad to see him, now that Rose had gone for good. He would have to explain what had happened that morning, of course, but the boy would soon forget. And he would come to see, in time, that his father had been right.

"My boy," he said consolingly, "you mustn't feel too bad about this thing. Your mother and I will try to arrange a trip to Europe for you as soon as it is financially possible. And in less than no time you'll forget all about this typist. A man gets over those things quickly. There will be other women, more suitable ones."

Wilfred looked up with a puzzled frown.

"Yeh, dad, I suppose so. But," he queried, "how in the world did you find out that Rose turned me down last night?"

Athletes Vie On Screen

Star athletes from all over the country are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News competing in the Millrose games at Madison Square Garden, New York. Among other events galore.

Collier of Boston A. C. sets a new world mark of seven and five-tenths seconds in the 60 yard high hurdles. The Globe Trotter describes the events.

Dramatic scenes from Paris show the turmoil existing there following the suicide of Alexander Stavisky, who mulcted the public of $31,000,000. There are views of the rioting in the streets and in the pawnshop where Stavisky made his headquarters.

Inuteresting pictures come from the camps of Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran, in training for their contest for the heavyweight championship on Washington's birthday.

Emma Goldman, famous anarchist, exiled 15 years ago, returns to New York on a temporary permit much subdued. She gives strong opinions concerning Hitler and Mussolini, but has only praise for President Roosevelt.

Clark, Makley and Pierpont, members of the notorious Dillinger gang, captured in Tucson, Ariz., are shown safely back in Indiana prison, from which they escaped last fall.

NOTE—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedule, it is possible some of the subjects of the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

'No Questions Asked' Is Presented

A Pittsburgh dramatist, Anne Morrison Chapin, author of "Jonesy" and "Pigs," has another play on Broadway this week. "No Questions Asked" is the title and Spring Byington has a principal feminine role, while Ross Alexander is the masculine lead, playing a "gilded dipsomaniac." John Golden is the producer and he has given the play a splendid mounting and cast. A scene of delirium tremens and a domestic shooting indicate that the author has veered from the field of farce into melodrama.

Kenneth B. Logan, Salesman, of Scarsdale, N. Y., says:

"The selling game calls for healthy nerves just as much as being a wonderful marksman. Meeting people all day long...trying to turn prospects into customers... the life of a salesman certainly tells on the nerves! I smoke most of the time—but I smoke only Camels, and I'll tell you why I say only Camels! Camels don't upset my nerves—and no cigarette can match Camels on flavor, either."

Virgil Richard, Champion Sharpshooter, says:

"I've been smoking for years and had no trouble in keeping my nerves in shape for making record scores. That's because I have long been a Camel smoker. Camels are much milder, and never interfere with my nerves."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Does your job sometimes get you down? Do you feel tired? Ready to "blow up" any minute...because of raw nerves?

Try to get enough sleep. Eat sensibly. And get a fresh slant on your smoking by turning to Camels. Much has been said on the subject of tobacco quality. But——

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

That statement is conclusive. And it represents an important benefit that nervous people should not overlook!

Begin to smoke Camels. Taste those finer tobaccos. Notice their mildness. You will be delighted to find that Camels do not upset your nerves...or tire your taste.

BREWERS SEE TEMPERANCE BY BEER

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—The beer makers of America concluded their first convention in 17 years yesterday by deciding their product is the means for promoting national temperance.

In a resolution urging low federal excise taxes on beer and abandonment of state excise taxes, the United States Brewers' Association asserted "the distribution of beer to the principal consumer, the worker, at a price more easily within his means was the single greatest agent for the promotion of nation-wide temperance."

SOUNDS WARNING

Earlier, the brewers were told by Dr. Max Henius, of the Wahl-Henius Institute of Brewing Technology, Chicago, that they "must cut loose decisively and forever from the liquor interests."

The brewing industry, he said, "must put its trust in its function as the producer of the best popular drink and the promoter of true temperance."

He warned that prohibitionists are waiting for a chance to go into action again and warned, too, against the old-time bars.

URGES ADVERTISING

Another speaker at the closing session, Thomas H. Beck, president and editorial director of Collier's, recommended an extensive campaign of national advertising and injection of new ideas in such advertising. He said:

"We are out of the subsidy period and into the advertising period. The day is past when something desired can be gained by whispering into the ear of a politician or by bribery or corruption. The people are now to be approached for approval. Take your case to them."

BACK ROOSEVELT

Later, the association adopted a resolution to establish national industrial advertising on a constructive basis and to provide a consumer analysis to determine a policy for industrial selling strategy. Final action was referred to the board of directors.

Still another resolution pledged the association's support to President Roosevelt and the aims of the National Recovery Act.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, of New York, was re-elected president and it was decided to meet again in October, at New York.

CWA Men Checking Downtown Traffic

A "cordon" check of traffic entering and leaving the downtown business district was being made over an 18-hour period today by CWA workers for the Bureau of Traffic Planning.

The results obtained will be used to develop a factor for comparing data now being obtained in the various CWA traffic surveys with peak traffic conditions in the warmer months of the year.

RECIPES AID TO HOUSEWIVES

Used at Every Meal, Prudence Told By Reader

"What are you serving tonight, Mrs. Housewife?" Prudence Penny asked one of her readers who called up for some contest information.

"One of your recipes, of course, was the quick answer. "You may not know it, but your column of recipes is represented at most every meal in our household."

And if other women's comments are taken into consideration, it would seem that Prudence Penny's prize recipe column is in reality becoming a byword in homes of the tri-state district. From Ohio, West Virginia, even New York and occasionally from a Western state, too, as well as from all over Pennsylvania, come letters thanking Prudence Penny for the helpful recipes and wishing the contest a long, long life.

Join in the troop of women who are helping their fellow-housewives, by sending in your recipes to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Every day, except Sunday, one $5 prize, 10 $1 prizes are awarded to the best recipes received. None of them are returned.

LOWER PRICES, LIQUOR BOARD ORDERS

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—An ultimatum was issued to distillers today that whisky prices must come down.

Joseph H. Choate, Jr., chairman of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, selected Assistant Chairman Harris E. Willingham to conduct a price investigation.

Such facts as are secured will be presented the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission, which are examining alleged monopolies in the liquor business for study and legal action.

The information also will be used as a basis to determine whether unlimited permission will be extended for importation of liquor, for the maximum production of molasses alcohol and for additional distillery facilities.

One FACA official declared:

"We want to know why the cost of whisky is so high. The high prices are driving the public away from legitimate liquor to the bootlegger, who is in about as strong a position as he was before the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. These prices are defeating the very purpose of the law; that is, the elimination of the illegitimate traffic and the failure to produce the maximum revenue to the government."

Council to Give Co-eds Frat Rules

Preparatory to spring fraternity rushing at Pitt, Panhellenic Council will hold a freshman educational program at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow in Alumni Hall in order to acquaint new co-eds with the rules. Members of Panhellenic Council will lead the group discussions.

GIRL, 4, FLOWN TO SURGEON

BALTIMORE, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Dr. Walter E. Dandy, brain specialist who saved the life of little Sue Trammell last month after she was flown here on a hazardous night flight from Houston, Texas, today is called upon to save another child.

This time it is 4-year-old Alicia Brannon, rushed by airplane yesterday from her home in Weston, W. Va., after she fell into an empty swimming pool.

While Dr. Dandy is to see her today, she will remain at the hospital several days before it is determined whether an operation is necessary.

The girl's father, Mapel Brannon, is a Weston attorney.

M'CLURE CASE STILL LISTED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—After having announced several days ago that the prohibition conspiracy cases against State Senator John J. McClure and about 70 others in Pennsylvania would be dropped as a result of a Supreme Court decision, the Justice Department issued a statement today to the effect that these cases technically still remain on the docket. Attorney General Cummings said:

"If the Supreme Court decision has the effect of relieving from punishment the Delaware County conspiracy defendants whose cases are pending on appeal, it is an unfortunate though unavoidable result.

"These cases involve much more than a mere technical violation of the national prohibition act. The evidence presented at the trial, resulting in the conviction of 72 defendants, disclosed gross moral terpitude.

"If the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third District had followed the ruling of the trial judge and had refused to allow the defendants to be released on bond, pending the appeal, the reprehensible conduct of these defendants would have gone entirely unpunished. Technically these cases still remain upon the docket. Their ultimate disposition is a motter for judicial determination."

NRA TO BE TOPIC FOR CATHOLICS

Potential contributions of the Catholic church to the NRA program will be the theme of a two-day conference on industrial problems, to open at the Hotel William Penn Monday morning.

Sessions will be held three times daily and topics will include "An Appraisal of the NRA," "Wages, Hours and Industrial Recovery," "The Responsibility of Trade Associations and Employers' Organizations to the NRA," "Labor Organizations and the NRA," "Unemployment Insurance" and "Old Age Pensions."

Climaxing the conference will be a dinner-meeting Tuesday night with Dr. J. E. Hagerty, of Ohio State University; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John A. Ryan, and the Most Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh Diocese, as speakers. Their topics will be, respectively, "The Encyclical and the NRA," "The New Industrial Revolution" and "The Bishop's Statement on the Present Crisis."

The Encyclicals of Leo XIII and Pius XI will form a background for the conference and similar meetings to be held throughout the country.

PARIS RIOTING STOPPED BY DOUMERGUE

the attack Wednesday with rifles, swords and even machine guns.

The cabinet's surrender appeased them.

The veterans left last night's rioting to Communists and hoodlums. These groups, police were confident they could control, even if unexpected further disorders should develop.

Doumergue, who received a tumultuous welcome from thousands when he arrived this morning, began his work of forming a so-called "cabinet of premiers" at noon.

COMMUNISTS RUN WILD

They blocked the railroad station at Saint Lazare, building the traditional revolutionary barricades.

Under cover of darkness, for the street lamps had been smashed, the rioters destroyed everything breakable. They even held up private cars, demanding ransom not to burn them.

Looting broke out along the Rue Rivoli. Windows were smashed in shops which had no iron shutters. The contents were borne away.

The famous Galignani bookstore was among the establishments sacked.

Witnesses said they saw rioters loading the plunder in automobiles.

Finally, the mob seized two omnibuses and 10 private cars. These they used to block the street. When police broke through they fled into the Tuileries Gardens.

Pistols blazed.

Several men dropped on both sides.

RAID GUNSMITH'S SHOP

One group of rioters broke into a gunsmith's shop. They carried away guns and ammunition.

Hundreds of pistol shots were fired in fighting along the main boulevards between the Opera and the old Madeleine Church.

Police insisted the shots were fired by rioters, but slugs flew in both directions. At least 10 civilians suffered bullet wounds.

Last night's riots started in the Place de la Concorde. Little damage was done there. Then they spread to the Elysee palace.

The Place de la Concorde is a spacious square. On one side it adjoins the Seine river. A bridge leads from the square across the Seine to the Chamber of Deputies.

Flanking the square are the Tuileries gardens on one side, and opposite, the Champs de Elysees.

On the far side from the Seine are the new American embassy, the Hotel Crillon, the Ministry of Marine building.

Between the hotel and the Ministry of Marine, the Rue Royale opens off the square. It leads to the Madeleine church.

As rioting spread beyond this region, scene of Tuesday night's bitterest battling, 2,000 persons tried to rush the gates of the Presidential home.

They were beaten back after fierce fighting.

Then the boulevards were invaded and a four-hour sporadic battle raged on the wide Boulevard des Capucines and nearby streets.

Seeking to trap the mob and beat the rioters into submission, police swung their clubs right and left. Men and women were knocked down. Some were trampled.

HERRIOT MENACED

The American embassy was well out of the zone of the worst fighting. One small window was broken in the Guaranty Trust Building.

A throng howling, "Hang Herriot!" surged into the Hotel de Paris, where lives the former Premier, champion of American war debts payment.

Diners were terrified, but the mob was driven out. Herriot was safe in his rooms.

Police gave pursuit and finally dispersed them in the Place Clichy.

Before they finally were driven away, the rioters lighted a last big bonfire of the newspaper kiosks, benches and broken timbers, which served as the only illumination for the night-long scene of terror.

It was the prospect of the riots which raged last night that forced Daladier to resign, "to avoid further bloodshed."

He entered office after the resignation of Former Premier Camille Chautemps, determined to oust all officials in any way connected with Alexander Serge Stavisky, self-slain founder of the Bayonne municipal pawn shop.

BAYONETS RULE VIENNA

VIENNA, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Steel-helmted police, with bayonets fixed, occupied Socialist centers in Vienna today as the Austrian government's drive against Nazis and Socialists entered a new phase.

Soldiers joined Vienna police in taking over a number of such buildings, including that in which the Socialist newspaper Arbeiter Zeitung is published.

The newspaper building was heavily guarded. An Associated Press man who attempted to enter was told he might, if he desired, but that no one was being permitted to leave.

Later, army lorries with troops began throwing cordons around the whole district in which Socialist activities are centered to forestall possible Socialist reprisals.

The idea behind this new turn of events is to defeat the Nazi political movement in Austria by demonstrating that Marxism can be "exterminated" without the help of the Nazis.

'MOON' CLARK, GRID STAR, WED

John (Moon) Clark, who a couple of years back cut quite a figure in Duquesne University grid circles, was married today.

It was a college romance. The girl is the former Miss Marcella Murray, of 902 Second street, McKees Rocks, who also went to the university when Clark was captain and star guard on the Bluff eleven.

They were married in St. Francis de Sales Church, McKees Rocks.

Miss Murray, since her graduation in 1932 from Duquesne, had been teaching fifth and sixth grade music in McKees Rocks schools. Clark graduated in 1931 and is now assistant football coach at Donora High School. His home is in Clairton.

AMERICAN LOST IN PARIS RIOTS

By MICHAEL WILSON
International News Service.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—Stanley Cosden, 30-year-old son of Joshua Cosden, millionaire American oil magnate who entertained the Prince of Wales in his Long Island mansion in 1924, was reported missing today after last night's rioting in the Place de la Concorde.

Cosden, whose father is prominent in New York and Palm Beach society, was last seen at 4 p. m., yesterday, when he left the Hotel Crillon. At that hour fierce mob fighting broke out in the Place de la Concorde, on which the hotel is situated.

The American consulate was asked to locate the young American, who had arrived from Holland only yesterday morning. A check of all jails and hospitals failed to reveal his whereabouts.

New Hitler Bishop Rules Protestants

BERLIN, Feb. 8. — (INS.) — Chancellor Adolf Hitler's hand-picked reichsbishop, the Rev. Ludwig Mueller, ruled supreme as dictator of Prussian Protestantism today following the issuance of three decrees placing all Protestant pastors directly under his control.

Since Prussia includes more than two-thirds of all Protestants in the Reich, the dictatorship is in effect nation-wide. Any anti-Hitler movement can be quickly suppressed under the new laws. The old governing board of the Prussian Church Union was abolished.

COUNTY TO ASK PWA FUND FOR JUVENILE HOME

POLITICS

Davis Resents Neglect By Slatemakers

By MARK SHIELDS

Senator James J. Davis is somewhat resentful that in the negotiations over the formation of Republican slates for the primary he has not been consulted. The junior Senator wishes to be considered, and to friends has asserted that unless he is there will be trouble, especially for the regular organization.

Mr. Shields

That defiance must be taken with one or more grains of salt until the junior Senator does something more than talk.

Mr. Davis has let it percolate about that the candidate for Governor must be one who has some conception of the rights of the average man and woman in the state. He has conveyed the information that he would be glad to support a candidate espousing those principles, whether he ran as the representative of the organization or as an independent.

Going a step more out on the limb, the junior Senator has said that if no candidate of that type was proposed, then he might dig up one of his own, and get behind him wih his unquestioned vote-corralling ability.

And then, going the whole way, the Senator has intimated that if the necessities required he might himself be a candidate for Governor, though not at the same time resigning his seat in the Senate.

So far this situation is no more than nebulous. Publicly the Senator's reply to all interrogations has been that he had five more years to serve in the Senate—but it is known the Senator does not care for the legislative life in Washington under present conditions, he being subordinated to Senator Reed.

* * *

Needs Friendly Man In Governor's Chair

As the Senator's friends analyze the situation, it is like this:

The campaign of the coming elections will require that candidates be something of the crusading type. They must be able to carry the battle to the Democrats on their own ground, and cut from under them the advantage which now accrues through affiliation with the national administration—and which may continue to be an asset through next November.

The coldly political side is that the Senator has a campaign of his own to make four years hence. He wants to stay in public life, even if it is as a Senator. He would be seriously handicapped in that campaign should the state be in the hands of either Democrats or reactionary Republicans who have never cheered for the Senator, and accepted him in 1932 with no undue enthusiasm.

If he cannot be Governor—which is his lifelong ambitions—then he would like to have something to say about the next Governor, as well as to insure himself the assistance of Harrisburg when he next faces the voters.

The junior Senator realizes that between himself and the senior Senator, David A. Reed, there is little in common. The two men do not typify the same viewpoint in politics, and each would be quick to admit that if talking frankly off the record.

So far as the Republican leaders committed to the renomination of Senator Reed have discussed the impending campaign, little attention has been paid Senator Davis. He has been regarded as a figure of slight importance, which he naturally resents in view of his past record of rolling up votes in the state. He believes his capacity for attracting the electorate is as great as it ever was.

It is understood that emissaries of the junior Senator have approached two or three men as to their attitude toward becoming candidates for Governor.

This step was taken with a view to the Senator backing a candidate of his own in the event he is not consulted by the state leaders, or in the contingency that if he is consulted they attempt to put across a candidate who does not embody the principles Mr. Davis thinks are necessitous to success.

* * *

Davis Action May End In Leadership Battle

So far as can be learned, these negotiations have reached no concrete terminations, the whole thing still being in the air.

There even have been reports that the Senator might team himself with Gov. Pinchot, the latter being a candidate for the Senate and Mr. Davis for Governor.

That would be a direct challenge to Senator Reed and the regular Republican organization, steeped in its generation-old belief that anything with a Republican label can win in Pennsylvania. The challenge, of course, would not be directed so much toward Senator Reed as to the leaders back of the senior Senator.

The result would be a contest for power, and the victors would emerge as the real party bosses in the state, as it is assumed that such a contest would also involve the battle for leadership of the Republican State Committee.

For the time being this bubble of the political pot must continue to simmer, perhaps to burst into thin air.

Senator Davis in his past political adventures has not been noted for burning his bridges. He usually has permitted himself an anchor to windward, and that would not be possible if he started out on a fight. It is a question of whether the Senator's courage is equal to his verbal detonations — and also as to whether those who affect to speak for him in outlining his thoughts have in the background a personality who would make good on the threats leveled in the event the Senator is ignored.

The next week should tell the story.

TAX ON SALES FAVORED BY ACCOUNTANT

'Painless' Levy Move Indorsed by Col. Carter

Equitable distribution of the nation's tax load on persons capable of carrying that load is the prime argument in favor of a federal manufacturers' sales tax, advoby the Sun-Telegraph and all other Hearst newspapers, in the opinion of Col. Arthur H. Carter, president of the National Association of Cost Accountants.

Col. Carter, who with Stuart C. McLeod, was guest of honor at a meeting of the Pittsburgh chapter of the national association last night in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, said:

"While I am opposed to a state-wide sales tax, because it places the state's business in unfair competition with other states, I heartily indorse a nation-wide plan of this nature, and I believe we are moving toward its gradual adoption."

WOULD AFFECT BONDS

A significant advantage the sales tax has over the present income tax system, according to Col. Carter, is its ability to tax through purchases the earnings on tax-exempt securities such as government bonds.

Col. Carter agreed with the stand of the Hearst newspapers that the sales tax would be "painless" because the average citizen would pay in small amounts; that it could be easily collected and that returns from the sales tax could be accurately computed.

Under the title of his talk, "Everyday Honesty in Securities," Col. Carter indicated the "excessive liability imposed upon corporation directors" by the Securities Act of 1933, declaring:

"This obstruction to the free flow of capital funds has and will stultify the rate of recovery now being exhilarated by public works and other governmental projects designed to improve business conditions by the expenditure of funds for capital and consumer goods. The future government income is being mortgaged to provide business revival while private enterprise may be obstructed in the same purpose by the stringent requirements of the Securities Act."

LITTLE REFUNDING

He said refunding operations which became due since the act was signed have been avoided as far as possible, pointing out that:

"The depressed market is no doubt a potent reason, but there are perhaps instances where those required to initiate refunding issues have refused, or were reluctant, to assume the heavy burden of personal liability which is imposed by the act."

While holding that the fundamental purpose of the Securities Act is sound, the speaker declared it should be possible to accomplish its purpose in a reasonable and workable manner that "will appeal to the honest director and officer," adding:

"The good that is accomplish at the given date when the securities are issued and offered for sale by a full statement of facts should in some way be made effective thereafter by exacting the same degree of care and frankness in the day-to-day administration of the affairs of a publicly owned company."

RESPONSIBILITY LIMITED

He explained that this would give the same assurance to the old stockholder as to the purchaser of the new stock. He said the only responsibility a director can assume with any degree of honesy is that of care, intelligence and thoroughness, and that he should not be held accountable for any "honest error" made by his experts in preparing the data required by the act.

Concluding, Col. Carter said:

"The securities act places upon them obligations impossible of fulfillment and of even greater financial responsibilities to a prospective stockholder than the present laws have yet imposed upon them in relation to the present stockholders of the company that is seeking to sell securities under the act. Why should the old stockholders be discriminated against in respect to the protection of his interests?"

Negro Publisher Dies From Wounds

ATLANTA, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—W. A. Scott, 31, publisher of the Atlanta Daily World, only Negro daily newspaper in the United States, and head of the Scott Newspaper Syndicate which serves 30 weeklies throughout the country, died last night from mysterious wounds received in the garage of his home a week ago.

WCAE's New Station Arouses Interest Through Radio World

Leaders of Industry Coming Here for Dedication

In anticipation of the formal dedication of the new, modern transmission station of WCAE in Baldwin Township, great interest has been expressed by the radio fraternity in the radical changes incorporated in the Sun-Telegraph station's new transmitter.

The dedication, February 10, will bring engineers and board members of the Federal Radio Commission, as well as radio experts in all branches of the industry, to Carnegie Music Hall.

The radio listener will notice an improvement in reception from the new station. Principal among the technical changes is a new type of antenna which will place WCAE among the foremost American stations from a signal broadcast standpoint.

The new aerial, unlike the old T-wire type, is a single wire supported by a six-ton steel tower 336 feet 6 inches in height. From the tip of this tower waves emanate in all directions to the ground much as a waterfall would originate from the top of the tower, hit the ground and splash in all directions equally.

The old type of antenna gave the principal broadcast strength in the horizontal directions toward which the wire pointed.

To guard against program interruption, duplicate telephone lines connect studio, National Broadcasting Company chain, and the transmitter.

The lines, in two cables, each carrying 26 pairs of wires, come to the station from the Carrick and Grant exchanges.

The power supply lines are duplicated, one 2500-volt line coming from Sarah street on the South Side, the other from the South Hills.

These are transformed to 110 and 220 volts near the station to operate the motor generators in the basement of the new building. In case of interruption or destruction of either program or power line, the duplicate line can be switched on in a fraction of a second.

Another improvement in the new broadcast will be better reception over the whole range of tones from the lowest base note on the deep-throated tuba to the highest pitch of the violin.

According to H. L. Bixbee, chief engineer of WCAE, the new station will transmit a greater range of audio-frequencies than any other station in the Pittsburgh district.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 8.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Say, did you read what Jesse Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance, told the New York bankers' convention? Jesse told 'em, "You boys will either start in loaning business and industry some money to operate on, or the government will do it."

Will Rogers

Course the old bankers just got four years of good cussing by everybody, for loaning too much money. Well, they got some awful nice buildings, so when a banker fails, he fails in splendor. So that's something.

Yours, WILL.

BLONDE JOINS MATE ON DEVIL'S ISLAND

Hat Check Girl, Garbed as Man, Fools Guards

By GORDON SINCLAIR

CHAPTER VIII.

CAYENNE, French Guiana.—Every now and again a story pops up in the papers about a couple who, after years of living together, suddenly discover they are both men or both women.

Generally this is found out only after one or the other is dead. The world then speculates and I think, pigeon holes the yarn under the heading of bunk.

But Devil's Island, no less, has two such entertaining legends. Here, believe it or not, two women lived among men for years without their secret being discovered.

The first you hear as the convicts, for whom you feel so sorry, sip their daily wine and play their daily bridge hands under the almond trees.

Tale of a Blonde

Marie was a blonde hat check girl in a Paris joy cave. Marcelle, her betrothed, was a waiter there. Youth, you see, and happiness and industrious saving of every centime for the little home they were going to buy. You know the stuff.

Enter then the villian. Black mustache, shirt full of diamonds, sensuous leer and everything. He craves a date with the

OAKLAND SITE FAVORED FOR BUILDING

M'Govern Hints Action Soon; Advocates of Rival Plans Clash

The County Commissioners are expected to sign an application to the Public Works Administration for funds to build a new $350,000 Juvenile Court building on the present Oakland site.

This was indicated today, after Commission Chairman Charles C. McGovern said he probably would sign the application in a few days—after the county board studied the plans for the new structure submitted to them yesterday by the Board of Managers of the Detention Home.

Commissioner William D. Mansfield announced during an open hearing on the project that he would "not thrust upon the Detention Home managers a site or building they did not want." He added:

"If the government does not give us the funds, I will vote for issuance of Commisioners' bonds to build it."

McGOVERN PLANS STUDY

McGovern declared:

"I'll probably sign it. We'll take money from anyone, but we're going to study it over first."

Commissioner C. M. Barr did not express an opinion, but it was indicated during the meeting that he was skeptical about the government furnishing such finances.

Members of the detention board and Juvenile Court Judge Gustav L. Schramm appeared to argue for the approval of the Commissioners for the new building project, while Lawrence P. Monahan, attorney for the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, who own the Eudes Institute building on Lincoln avenue, and L. W. Monteverde, prominent real estate dealer, maintained that the county should buy the Eudes building and save the taxpayers the difference.

The savings to the county, Monahan said, would exceed $230,000. A representative of the Lincoln Avenue Civic Association also appeared in behalf of the Lincoln avenue structure.

FAVOR NEW BUILDING

But Judge Schramm and Mrs. J. B. Roessing, chairman of the detention group, held that the new building was their objective, and that the Good Shepherd structure, declared not fireproof in the modern sense and over 25 years old, in an out-of-the-way location and with reputed antiquated plumbing, would require an estimated $100,000 to remodel.

The board held:

"The large grounds around this building would be desirable if the detention home were to be a reformatory or juvenile jail where the children were sentenced for three months, a year or longer. The average length of stay in a detention home is from four to seven days."

Commissioner Barr interrogated Mrs. J. B. Roessing, chairman of the detention board, as to a previous statement that Kansas City had obtained a federal loan for an identical project.

Barr also charged the board with giving out propaganda that the Lincoln avenue site was not fireproof, and inspiring newspaper articles to harass the Commissioners.

Judge Schramm replied that the newspapers were interested.

CLASHES AVERTED

Commissioner McGovern prevented several hot exchanges as the proponents of the various sites discussed their projects. An unidentified man he told to "sit down" when he insinuated that some of the motives were not the best.

L. W. Monteverde replying, said:

"I am not interested in this as an agent. I never have taken a commission from a charitable organization in my life, and I never will. But as a saving to the taxpayers, I am an advocate of the Lincoln avenue site and against this new building, penned in between the two main arteries, Fifth avenue and Forbes street, and across from a car barn."

Plans for the new structure, which Mrs. Roessing said had the approval of Joseph C. Trees and E. N. Hunting, PWA leaders here, calls for a three-story structure. It is to be of common brick and limestone trim, of re-inforced concrete or fireproof structural steel, with concrete floors.

Patient Attacks Doctor In Sudden Frenzy

A victim of a patient's attack, Dr. H. G. Rosenbaum, of 1538 Center avenue, was in Montefiore Hospital today with lacerations and bruises on the face, while his alleged assailant was held by police for mental observation.

The physician was attacked last night, police said, while treating Louis Zasloff, 28, in the latter's home at 1918 Bedford avenue, for a heart ailment.

Zasloff suddenly started swinging his fists, breaking the physician's glasses, police reported. Particles of the glass were believed to have lodged in one of Dr. Rosenbaum's eyes. He ran to a nearby drug store for first aid. Police took him to the hospital.

Zasloff, at Center Avenue Police Station, could offer no reason for the alleged attack, according to Capt. John H. Schnurr. He will be turned over to the City Welfare Department for observation.

Dr. Rosenbaum was expected to leave the hospital today.

CONSOLIDATION ADVOCATED AT SCHOOL MEET

HARRISBURG, Feb. 8.—The first definite break in the opposition to proposals for consolidation of many of Pennsylvania's smaller school districts appeared here today at the convention of the State School Directors' Association. Directors of the fourth class districts met unexpectedly last night and asked that the convention chairman appoint a committee to co-operate in the study of mergers. The request was unanimously adopted.

Under proposals advocated by Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and submitted to the Legislature last year about 2,000 of the 2,500 fourth class districts in the state would be abolished through consolidation.

URGES CONSOLIDATION

Yesterday Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia University recommended reorganization of local governments to provide money for the schools. He asked:

"Why do we shy from the necessary reorganization of local government, with the possible saving of tens of millions of dollars, unless it be that we prefer 'pork' to the necessary services of the government?"

Dr. Samuel W. Grafflin, of White Plains, N. Y., told the convention that "the American public is tired of being 'bawled out' by those it appoints and pays."

The consolidation of smaller school districts, long a matter of discussion among educators and civic leaders, also was advocated by Representative J. Buell Snyder. He said:

"The little one-room school, although it met the needs of an earlier day, should pass away just as have the ox-cart and the stage coach. Larger units for the purpose of administration and support would help solve the problems of many school districts."

GRAHAM MAKES PLEA

Dr. Ben G. Graham, Superintendent of the Pittsburgh Public Schools, also recommended larger school districts. He contended it would bring about efficiency and economy in administration. He said:

"I plead with you to lay aside the natural feelings which one has in the pride of local districts and to throw the whole weight of your influence and power behind legislation which will be for the common good and the best interests of the children of the state."

Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor, addressed the convention yesterday. She declared that 60 per cent of the state's wealth is not contributing the amount it should to maintain the schools of the state. She said:

"Real estate carries 85 per cent of the cost of maintaining our school system. And real estate represents less than 40 per cent of the wealth of our commonwealth. A person does not have to be an Einstein to figure out that under this time-worn system 60 per cent of our wealth is escaping and evading its proper share of the cost of education."

Constitution Revision Urged for Tax Relief

Lawyer Advocates End to Duplication In Government

Complete overhauling of our 60-year-old Constitution is urged by Attorney E. H. Wicks, a director of the Allied Boards of Trade, as a means of bringing to an end the overlapping and duplication in local governmental agencies which is costing the taxpayers of Allegheny County and the Commonwealth millions of dollars annually.

Attorney Wicks, speaking before the members of the Allied Boards of Trade, pointed out that up until the last 30 or 40 years the present system of county government was convenient, practical and economic, but said that in the present day there is no need for approximately 250 independent and separate local bodies, levying and collecting taxes for school and governmental purposes.

While the much needed remedy for the ills of our local government and taxation cannot be brought about without drastic changes in the Constitution, Attorney Wicks pointed out that there are several remedies which may be applied, with the aid of the Legislature, which, would be of great help.

SAVINGS SEEN

He pointed out that it would be possible to save approximately $100,000 a year through elimination of duplicate assessments in the City of Pittsburgh. It is not necessary, he said, to have legislation for this move. It is possible for the county to accept the city's estimates on property and thus save the cost of assessing Pittsburgh properties, or the city could accept the estimates of the men employed by the county.

Attorney Wicks also suggested consolidation of all the school districts in the county, outside of Pittsburgh, into one district, thus eliminating all district superintendents and approximately 118 boards, with their paid solicitors, secretaries, auditors, tax collectors and treasurers.

The attorney would have the county Board of School Directors appointed by Common Pleas Court judges. He estimates a saving of a half million dollars annually.

Another change suggested by Attorney Wicks is the elimination of all fee offices and in their place have salaried officials. An annual saving of more than $400,000 could be made here, Attorney Wicks points out.

CHECK ON SPENDING

Attorney Wicks also agrees, with many other individuals and organizations, that there should be a central receiver of all taxes. Attorney Wicks would have the county treasurer, who would be paid an annual salary, collect all county, borough, township and school taxes and then turn them over to the local body, thus saving approximately $400,000 paid out in tax collectors' commissions and other expenses.

Attorney Wicks suggests a check should be placed upon the unlimited spending of taxpayers' money by the County Commissioners, by requiring all contemplated expenditures in excess of a stated amount, shall first be passed upon by a grand jury and by the Court of Quarter Sessions, after scheduled public hearings thereon.

Consolidation of city and county relief and welfare work is also in the program as put forth by Attorney Wicks. He believes there would be a saving of more than $250,000 a year if the city welfare work and poor board relief were dispensed by one central board. This is similar to the suggestion of state welfare officials and social distribution of old age assistance, mothers' assistance and blind assistance under the one central county board.

URGES REPEAL

Attorney Wicks declared that civic organizations should urge the calling of a constitutional convention and be prepared with constructive suggested changes.

Attorney Wicks declared that the responsibility for the present conditions should not be placed upon the legislators and lawyers but directly on the people who have been following the wrong leaders. He declared greater care should be exercised in selecting leaders and candidates so that men will be sent to Harrisburg who will pledge their honest efforts to repeal present archaic laws and give our state laws requiring business management in all its departments.

In addition to being a director in the Allied Boards of Trade, Mr. Wicks is president of the Bellevue Board of Trade. He has long been active in civic affairs and spent much time in the study of taxation and municipal government.

Street Car Wreck Victim Wins Award

Nick Yelkovich, 35, of 104 Munson avenue, McKees Rocks, yesterday in Federal Court was awarded a verdict for $15,382 against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. It was testified he suffered permanent spinal injuries in a street car collision at Tabor and Carson streets, West End, in 1932.

He was represented by Attorneys C. J. Margiotti and Clarence Nixon.

BLONDE GOES TO DEVIL'S ISLE

young hat check girl. But Marie is not that kind.

One night, after one drink over the eight, the black-hearted villain gets fresh. Yes, sir, right in public, too. Marcelle, his Latin blood running hot, knifes the vile fellow and kills him. For this he is sent to the jungles of Guiana for 20 years.

His sweetheart, sobbing and hysterical, vows she will follow him, but elaborate permits are necessary to come here and she could raise neither the permit or the money to make the trip.

But she plotted and planned. Then, disguised as a man, she held up some important citizen and was, sure enough, condemned to the colonies.

But there are 12 separate penitentiaries here where the howling monkeys bellow and bawl. It takes a master of diplomacy to get into the cell block that he himself selects.

But Marie, after a year, managed it. Not only managed to get with her Marcelle, but managed during all that time to keep her sex a secret. Eventually they met and love triumphed in the midst of misery.

Oddly enough, there is not a happy ending to this tale for Marie, overcome with fever, died in a great prison dormitory while Marcelle beat the bars and wept.

Unluckily, too, there is no official confirmation of this touching story but it is popular with the convicts and they dramatically recite it to every visitor.

This One's Official

More mysterious, however, and far less spectacular, was a case that is actually in the records. A convict died on St. Joseph Island. Nobody knew much about the fellow. He was big, quiet, detached and impersonal.

The busiest coffin in all the history of time was made ready. There is only one coffin on the islands. A big rough box with well-oiled hinges. Everyone who dies is wound up in a sheet, put into this box and rowed out to sea. There, without ceremony, mourners or regrets, he is dumped to the sharks, who are always milling about in hungry expectancy. The coffin is then taken back for the next victim. It is used several times every week.

A new sheet was brought for this last victim, a few words were written on a prison form and a former mortician stripped off the soiled pink and white uniform before enshrouding the body.

Then he stepped back in amazement. The convict was a woman!

The dishonored of France gathered around chattering and staring. Some had not seen a woman in years. They started groping back through their minds for memories of this person. Times when they had bathed together. Times when the doctor had come on his monthly inspection. Why, it was absurd. It was ridiculous. This thing simply couldn't be because the doctor was a very curious man and convicts had no secrets from him.

They stood and stared and thought and talked. But the only answer they could get was that such a thing was impossible. And there, in front of their very eyes, was proof that it was not only possible, but a fact.

And from that day to this no further light has been thrown on this mystery.

Convicts at Home

Oddly enough, there are several convicts living in Cayenne with their own wives in their own homes. Convicts, I said. Not liberated men who have served their term, but convicts. They have no name, but a number. Their rightful place is behind the bars. But they live in their own homes under the waving palm trees. Some of them have children born in the colony.

In other articles I've explained the system by which at least 800 of the 5,500 convicts in the Devil's Island colonies go about their daily chores the same as you or I would do, except that they wear stripes and can only go a few miles from town.

Of those 800 practically all have the companionship of women because there are about four women to every man in this ash heap of creation. About six or seven have married. That's in fair average keeping with the population at large for in this place, remember, they don't ask the father's name when a birth is registered. Seldom are the parents married. But if a man wants to be swanky and uppity about it he can, a day or so after the birth is registered, go to the city hall and file an affidavit of paternity. Proud fathers who do this often exceed 10 in a single year.

Once in a while you will see a birth notice in the weekly paper. Here is the last I noticed:

"Maron—On Sunday, Nov. 26, in Cayenne, to Miss Ursula Maron, a boy. Light brown." Miss Maron, curiously enough, is not light brown.

But, even in such a free and easy atmosphere, statistics can prove that romance exists and love lives. For instance, there hasn't been a divorce here during my lifetime. If you want to be nasty about it, you can point out that where there is no marriage there can be no divorce. But who are you to get technical?

A Movie in Town!

Last Sunday night—hot and stuffy. The trade winds swing hanging mangoes like so many pendulums. Night birds occasionally sing in the palm trees.

The town crier goes noisily down the red road thumping a big drum. He stops and rings a bell. Plump creole mammies gather around. So do those gaunt skeletons of men, the "liberes" of Devil's Island.

On the fringe of the crowd convicts in stripes gather to listen. Women lean over the balconies to hear what's up.

The crier whoops it up. Talking pictures have come. Films that actually speak. This miracle is right here and now in Cayenne; and all for six francs. Come one, come all, to this extraordinary opportunity to see and hear the marvel of the age.

I follow the plump mammies and the dusky sirens down that red road to a great barn of a place already filled with arrogant Arabs, savage-looking Senegalese in white uniforms and crimson fezes, and the social elite of the town.

They bring on the picture and what do you think? Here, at the hub of 12 penitentiaries filled with the desperadoes of four continents, they show up that epic of prison violence, "The Big House."

Help, Watson; the needle!

Get Rid of Bad Breath at Its Source . . . Keep Breath Sweet 24 Hours a Day . . . Way Doctors Advise

Don't fool yourself into believing that you are secure simply because a rinse or gargle with a mouthwash leaves your mouth tingling with a clean, pleasant taste.

To get rid of bad breath and taste you must get at the root of the trouble. That's in your stomach if you're an average person. Excess acids ferment foods, form obnoxious gases that rise up into the mouth and cause embarrassment.

So naturally the easiest, surest way to get relief is to get at the root of the trouble. Doctors advise a teaspoonful of BiSoDoL in water morning and night.

This pleasant-tasting blend of six valuable digestive remedies works wonders. It swiftly neutralizes excess acids, soothes and heals the inflamed mucous membranes. And keeps your stomach so settled and sweet that you are sure of waking up in the morning with a clean, pleasant taste and certain of having a sweet, inconspicuous breath all day!

Don't forget that your breath is only as sweet as your stomach and nothing can keep the stomach any sweeter than BiSoDoL. Try it. Also when you have indigestion, gas, heartburn or any other distressing acid trouble take BiSoDoL. It's the improved, quicker-acting way to get rid of pain and discomfort that doctors have used for many years with remarkable success.

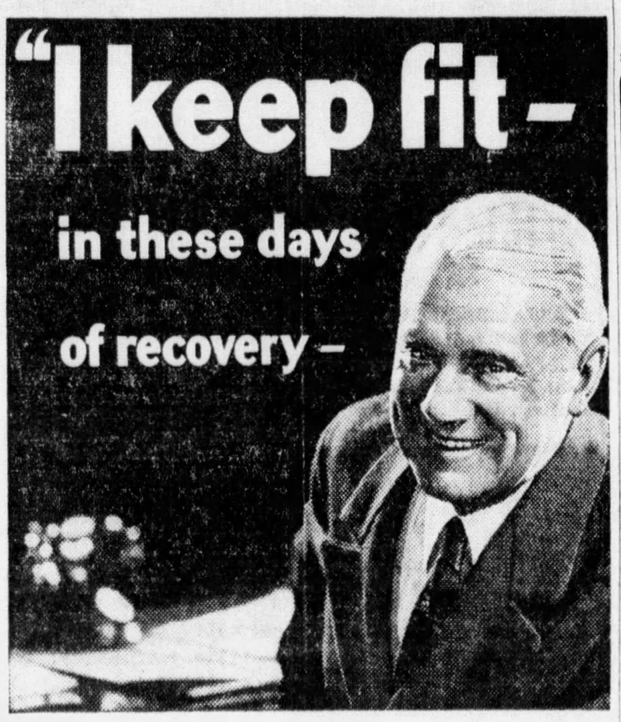
"I keep fit— in these days of recovery—



"—if I don't someone else will have my job"

HOW? "Well, I learned years ago that work . . . wear and tear . . . takes something out of men and women—particularly those who work indoors.

"Good food and fresh air at night are most valuable, but I found that the so-called simple tired feeling—'let down' some call it—comes from overtaxing one's strength.

"I tore down those precious red-blood-cells faster than my good body could rebuild. A friend told me the story of that grand medicine S.S.S. Now at 4 P. M. I am fit to still 'carry on'."

One of the really sad things in life is the pushing aside or "shelving" of the weak . . . someone is always ready for your job. Why not reason sensibly that when you begin to "let-down" then it is time . . . before it is too late . . . to build back your vitality?

Of course, if you suspect an organic trouble, consult a physician or surgeon. But if you feel weak . . . lack a keen appetite . . . or if your skin is pale . . . try S.S.S. as a part of your regular daily diet. Take it just before meals. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite . . . your color and skin should improve with increased strength and energy.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on" without exhaustion as you should naturally.

If your condition suggests a tonic of this kind, we recommend S.S.S. because its value has been proven by generations, as well as by modern scientific appraisal.

S.S.S. is truly a blood and body tonic. It is sold by all drug stores in two convenient sizes . . . the larger is more economical.

There is no substitute for S.S.S.

Secure S.S.S. from your own druggist . . . with few exceptions druggists are ethical and conscientious, and will not suggest a substitute. No medicine has the same formula as this time-tested Blood Tonic . . . nor does any other concern gather the same roots with their own trained collectors and extract the active medicinal principles, unchanged, in their original fresh state—this is the secret of S.S.S. . . . there is no substitute. Thousands of people have a low red-blood-cell count and don't recognize it. S.S.S. is useful in promoting a keen appetite and restoring deficient red-blood-cells and their hemo-glo-bin content which are so necessary for sound health. © The S.S.S. Co.

'THE WAR AT HOME:' REMEMBER THE LONG TRUCK TRAINS?

Just one Pittsburgh draftee, one of thousands marching away to be made heroes by command. He's just a youth, just the nameless number on his lapel tag, bundled by loving womenfolk with an extra sweater against the draughts in a troop train. The woman with him, so grim of face, so like him in features? Perhaps a wife? Mother? Sister? Sweetheart?

Wanted: MEN! Men for the great God of War, thundering in far-off Europe. Here Col. Jadwin and his assistants sat in the downtown Farmers National Bank Building recruiting men for the Fifteenth U. S. Engineers, predominantly a Pittsburgh district unit. From such dingy recruiting offices, young patriots were hurried into training with feverish haste.

The first of the countless rumbling army truck trains that rolled eastward through Pittsburgh, bound for the eastern seaboard and Europe's battlefields. This one paused at the Hunt Armory in East Liberty.

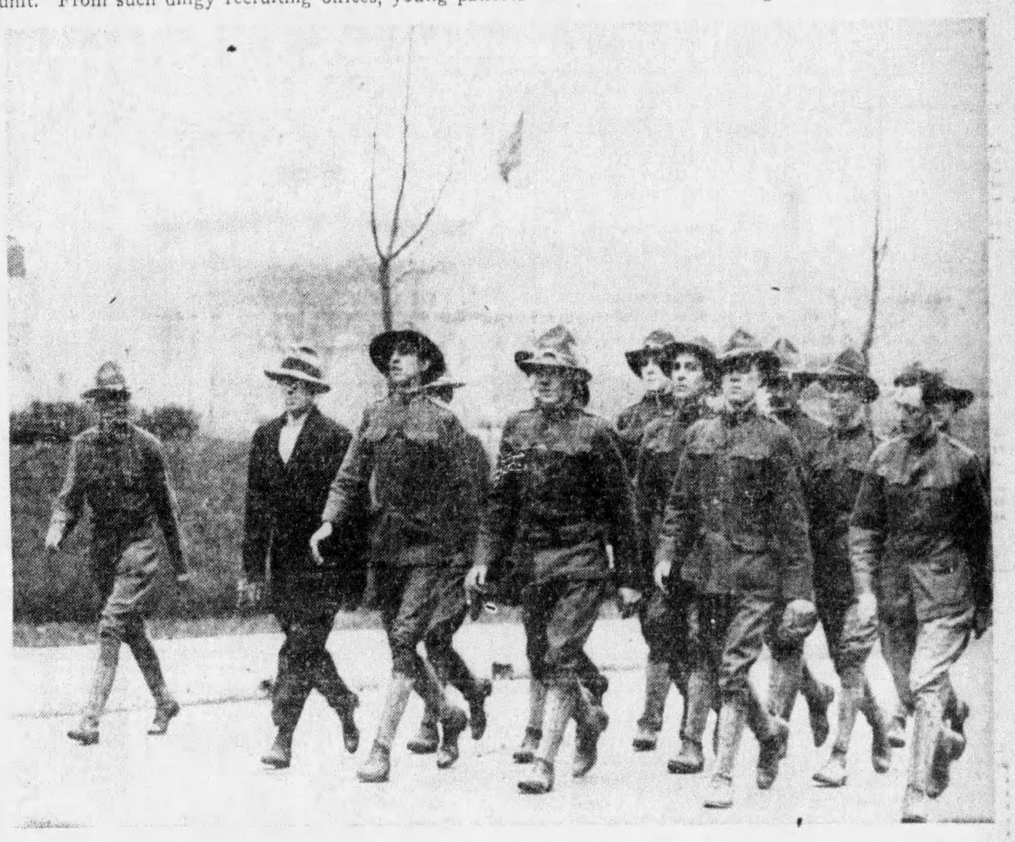
A Prayer

O, Great God! Upon this grand and glorious American feast day we have much for which to be thankful.

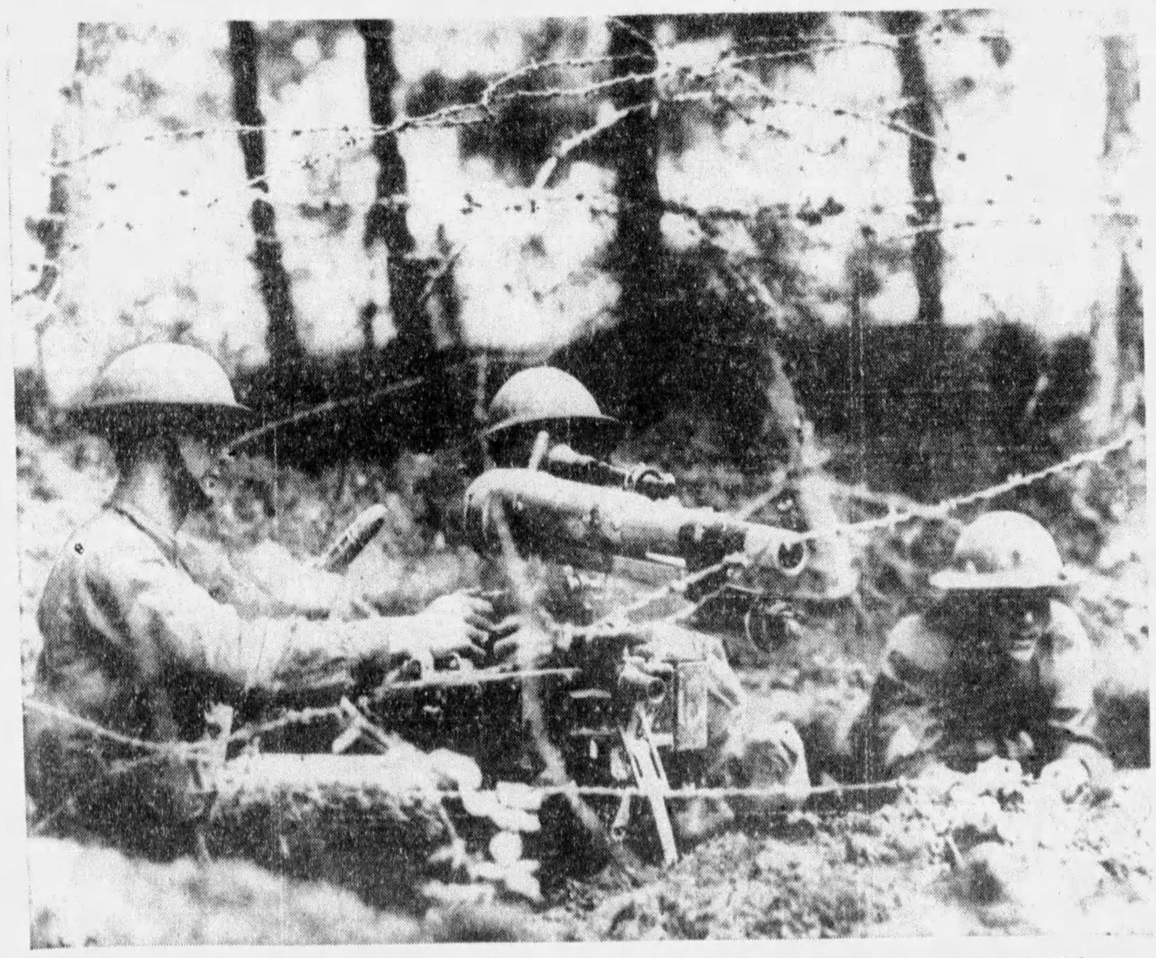
We do pray for peace, we do pray that we may celebrate our next Thanksgiving feast on our own shores but we swear in the name of Thy Majesty that we are willing to make every sacrifice in this sacred cause and we will never return to our homes and kindred until our conquering hosts shall be crowned with wreaths woven from the evergreens of Russia, the Roses of England and the tri-colored cocarde of France.

AMEN.

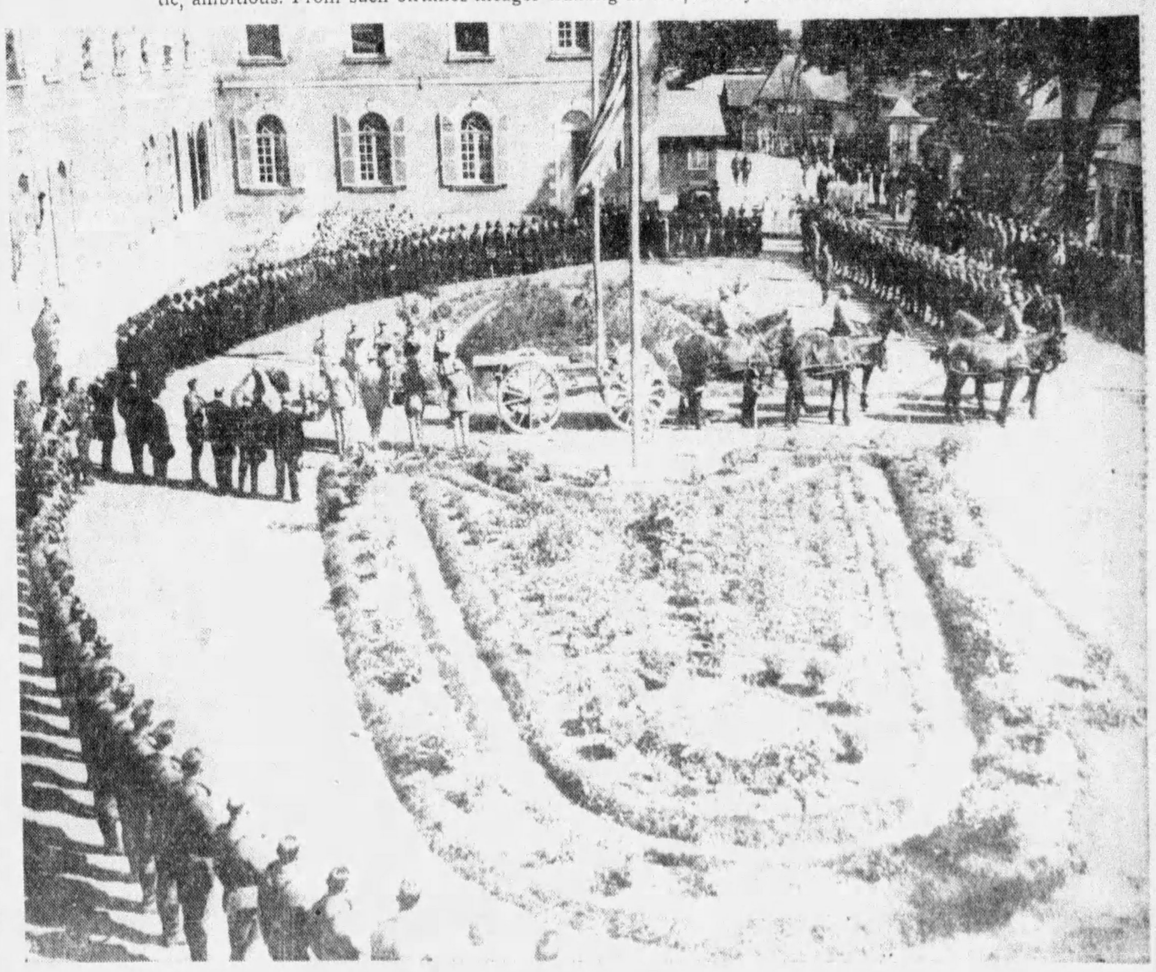
(EDITOR'S NOTE—This prayer was delivered at Angers, France, the University of Pittsburgh unit's base hospital, on Thanksgiving Day, 1918—just 18 days after the Armistice—by Chaplain Cox, now the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church.)



Drilling in the streets of Oakland, these Pitt students—not so militaristic in appearance but enthusiastic, ambitious. From such offtimes meager training as this, hastily turned out U. S. soldiers went to THIS—



Dealing death at a mile-and-a-half with "The Pound Wonder," these three soldiers—Sergeant, Corporal and Private—of the U. S. 126th Infantry behind a frail barbed wire barricade. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.



The French helping out by lending a caisson and honor guard to Base Hospital No. 27, the University of Pittsburgh unit at Angers, France, as Army Chaplain James R. Cox buried Ollie Wilcox, a Pittsburgh soldier, on August 30, 1918.

The recorded history of the human race spans four thousand years—and they have been years of almost incessant warfare, broken only by a little peace.

Down the red record of those years, one story runs—warfare has become steadily more destructive and deadly.

The wars of the Middle Ages, because of new weapons, were worse than any wars the ancients knew.

Then gunpowder brought in the era of modern warfare—and modern warfare, it was thought a century ago, had culminated in the Wars of Napoleon.

After the Napoleonic Wars, a Russian Czar—a pacifist—invented a Holy League for peace; but there was no lasting peace. Wars continued.

Bloodier battles than Marengo or Austerlitz were fought in the Crimea; still later, militaristic Prussia, under Bismarck, marched her armies into the very capital of unprepared France; and again, the next generation saw warfare yet worse than any before—the World War, which involved America, destroyed governments and swept away ten million lives.

America was unprepared when the World War began. And because we were unprepared, we must pay for fifty years the price of pacifism.

On this page, you see pictured some of the incidents of that last war into which our unpreparedness plunged us—American boys buried off to battle, and flag-draped coffins coming "home."

The next war? America must be prepared—and KEEP OUT—of the next war!

Patricia Pitt

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

Stage and Play had its second "first night" this winter last evening, when the society presented three one-act plays in the Twentieth Century Club, the second production this season.

And the audience was as brilliant as a big "first night" in a downtown theater. Practically every family in the smart set was represented, there to see members of their own set as actors.

Booth Tarkington's "Trysting Place" was first on the bill, directed by Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby and Mrs. William S. Moorhead; "Copy," directed by Mrs. H. Allen Machesney was second; and Lady Gregory's "Workhouse Ward," directed by Harold Geoghegan was third.

Debutante in Gown Of Champagne Velvet

Among the debs attending was Florence Willock, who wore her debut gown of champagne velvet with a sash of brown and orange. During intermission I saw her chatting with Margaret Phillips and her fiance, A. C. Succop.

Evelyn Freeman chose a dusty blue crepe gown, with the bodice cut high in front and fashioned with a cape in back. And the skirt in back had an inset of pleats to give that popular below-the-knee fullness.

Eloise Dorrance and Barbara Verner I had a glimpse of, and I saw Dorothy Clark, wearing a greyed-green crepe frock.

A black crepe sweeping gown with an interesting straight-line decolletage—neither high nor low—was the choice of Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby. There were bands of rhinestones over the shoulder.

Mrs. A. C. Martin's black crepe dress had a bodice of lavender-pink satin cut like a bertha in front and extending to the waistline in back.

Garbed in Red Crepe With Lines of Gold

Red crepe with fine diagonal lines of gold was the choice of Mary Carroll. Brunette Mrs. Edwin Rhea chose a rough white crepe dress with an interesting short fitted jacket to match—the sleeves and the front and back were all cut in one piece. An embroidered scarlet Ascot scarf and sash were used for accent. Her sister, Elizabeth Jenkins, wore a short pale blue velvet jacket with her cream-colored velvet gown.

Dolly Meyer's jade-blue crepe gown had a ruff of the same material at the neck-line, and tiny little ruffles to distinguish the slight train of the skirt.

Others in the large audience were Mrs. John W. Lawrence, Mrs. T. J. Hilliard, Elizabeth Macfarlane, Mrs. George Pomeroy Bassett, Louise Baton, Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner in black velvet with a suggestion of a bustle in the treatment of the skirt; Mrs. Henry Oliver Evans and her daughter, Louise, in white; Mrs. W. W. Blair, Jr., in sapphire-blue satin; Mrs. J. Shirley Austin, Mrs. Norman McLeod, Judge James R. Macfarlane.

And I saw Alice and Mary Rust, the George C. Stephensons, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Eleanor Willson and Irwin I. Tryon, the Edmund Ashes, Mrs. John H. Rickelson, Sr., Mrs. John M. Freeman, Betty Harris, Mrs. Clark Miller and Mrs. George Pearson.

Sewickley Socialite's Play Opens in East

Appropos of things of the theater, Mrs. Newton Chapin, Sewickley socialite, is in New York, where her play "No Questions Asked," opened Monday night at the Masque Theater, New York. Mrs. Chapin writes under her own name, by the way, Anne Morrison Chapin. Of course Mrs. Chapin went to New York for the opening week.

Spring Byington, whom a few Pittsburghers met at an entertainment some time ago at Mrs. Chapin's home, and whom Pittsburghers saw in "When Ladies Meet" at the Nixon, has a leading role.

Plan School For Jewish Leaders

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

From the national headquarters of the Council of Jewish Women comes word of the organization of a school which will train Jewish women leaders to combat the wave of anti-Semitism in this country which was set in motion by the Nazis.

Study outlines are being prepared by noted Jewish thinkers and classes will begin early next month, the project being carried forward in 200 centers where there are sections of the National Council.

The classes will be under the immediate direction of a "Committee of One Thousand," now being formed, with Mrs. Alexander Kohut, of New York City, honorary vice president of the council, as chairman. Mrs. Maurice L. Goldman, also of New York, heads the committee which is assembling the courses of study.

Mrs. Arthur Brin, of Minneapolis, president of the council, explains that since Germany is placing the reason for the persecution of the Jews on a pseudo-scientific basis, with definitely formulated racial theories, Council will refute these theories by sound scientific facts, and the studies will be based, not alone upon racial history, but also upon what noted anthropologists, economists, sociologists, and phychologists have to say of the Jewish contribution to the progress of the United States.

The plan includes not only formation of the study groups, but distribution of literature to libraries and arranging community lectures. Pittsburgh Section will of course co-operate but as yet no definite steps have been taken.

Latter in the day a dinner will be given in honor of Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, junior state chairman; district chairman, Mrs. E. R. Davis, and Mrs. Taylor.

Newspaper Topic At Meeting Of Review

With Mrs. S. Y. Free directing the program, the Woman's Fortnightly Review of Mt. Lebanon had an especially interesting afternoon yesterday. Continuing its study of "The Changing Voice," the club yesterday took "Daily, Weekly and Monthly" as its subject. Mrs. F. A. Connor discussed "The Lady Editor"—Sarah Buell Hale, of Godey's Lady's Book; Mrs. E. E. Bottenfield had "Seventy-five Years of Highbrow" as her subject, meaning the Atlantic Monthly.

Mrs. A. A. Frazee talked about "Magazines Today—Good and Bad," saying the United States stands third in the reading of "trash." Mrs. James S. Huey told "What Is News" and Mrs. J. W. Davis' paper on "Cartoons, Columns ond Comics" was given by Mrs. C. S. Burlingham. Incidentally this was the first time Mrs. Davis had failed to present her assigned part of the program during the 19 years she has been a member of the club.

Mrs. Charles M. Bregg, club editor of the Sun-Telegraph, exhibited photographs taken in the Sun-Telegraph office, showing the progress of a piece of news from the time it enters the office until it reaches the reader.

DECORATIVE SPRING FURS

cascaded in a dramatic manner about the collar of this Schiaparelli coat.

Schiaparelli designed this spring coat with its Blue Eagle dyed fox collar border.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

SUMMER FURS, detachable or fastened to a light weight coat, will be the next interest of women who like a well balanced wardrobe. It is not so much the fur neckpiece which engages their fancy this spring, though a few twists of marten or sable, or a length of silver fox is by no means a possession to be sneezed at.

* * *

NEVERTHELESS, it is the trick cape which is more completely 1934. The one illustrated, for instance, is truly novel, but it is too handsome not to become even the most conventional grande dame, and the frilliest debutante will find it becoming, too. Similar in practical uses are capes made by looping several fox pelts together with a satin ribbon, hammock fashion, and tying them with the ends over one shoulder or under the chin.

* * *

FUR-TRIMMED coats for the new season accent the value of collars that can be pulled up about the face becomingly, or permitted to hang loosely about the shoulders when the noon sun peeps out. Blue fox is to have a big whirl this spring, unusual after a winter season if it.

DISAPPOINTED GIRLS

Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance

By MARION BRUNOT

They Often Shatter Boys' Confidence in Them

You live in Oakland and your boy friend is from the South Hills, and he has a new car, and its sides shine and it is such a smart shade of blue. The seats are upholstered in a manner that'd make your mother's livingroom furniture look like mud, and you sat beside the owner as if you were sure the world was yours.

You were sorry it was dark, and that none of your girl chums could see you. And by and by you were out beyond where lights were plentiful. It was then in a sequestered nook, your boy friend parked. And the petting began.

Then the drive home. And the silence that fell between you. And the good-bye at the door.

But the young man hasn't been back since.

You waited as long as a girl of your temperament could, and you called him up at his place of work. But he answered in a stand-offish manner, and said, oh! so carelessly, he would be out in Oakland sometime when he wasn't so busy.

You were hot under the jabot, that's sure. But by and by your fury wore off, and you are dying to see him again. You want another ride in the blue car. You even have a pleasant memory of the kisses. Truth is, the lad is above par in your esteem since he has taken to staying away.

Well, sister, you are passing through an experience so old it should have whiskers. Men are known by the van loads, to kiss, and then seek other territory.

MEN REMAIN SAME

Young blood goes on the promise there is much fun in the chase. And when a girl is too easy, the boys tire, and go elsewhere. Time goes on. Customs change. Stiff collars and cuffs replace ruffles. But the male remains the same.

Men are the old-fashioned part of speech. They remain back on the pages of Murray's grammar. Ask your dad about that book.

Even the young men you go out with fancy they will be some day leading Class A in conventionality. And so the girl of their dreams sits enthroned in the moon, cold and undisturbed until the wedding bells have sung their little ditty.

And if by some strange perversity which they can never understand, they do get caught by a necking sort, they will have a grievance against her forever.

Boys often classify girls. And woe to the one who steps out of her rating. You weren't rated as a "necker," sister. And your boy friend is guessing. And being a safe player, he keeps a river between you and him until he has thought the matter out.

MUST BE CAREFUL

Maybe you've placed too much weight on his attentions. It could be he was taking the gang out in that new car. Or he could be giving everybody a chance to inspect his gasoline-buggy. He has relatives no doubt. Most people have.

Even so, you're miserable, and you are weighted down with suspense. He has no right keeping you in such agony. But how does he know you are suffering? And if you're wise, you will never tell him.

I prophesy, anyhow, some evening when you are least expecting him, he'll come right in upon you and say:

"Get your lid. We're going for a drive."

Then will be the night for you to watch your step. You mustn't be too attentive to the car. For, who knows, this lad may have done some thinking in the direction of this new machinery of his being the reason of the sudden softening of your emotions. And although he is crazy about this car, he isn't swallowing easily having it shoved in ahead of him in matters of the heart.

Bring back his self confidence. Oh, yes. But without repeating the necking.

And who knows, having tasted the honey, he may grow serious in his wanting of the whole jar.

Fair, Frank and Fickle, the Ladies Play Chameleon, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

It never has been, and never will be definitely decided which is the more beautiful—blonde or brunette.

On the stage, and in the movies, where one may see the beauty of beauties, the outstanding favorites have been both fair and dark. Since time immemorial artists have painted blondes and brunettes side by side in contrast, but each equally lovely. One such picture was vividly striking, with the blonde gowned in black with long black gloves, and beside her brunette in all white with long white gloves.

In this day, when women are so fickle and frank in their beauty secrets, they do not seem able to decide themselves and change from blondes to brunettes in turn.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary's Wedding Day Arrives

The wedding day of Mary and Noel will always be like an old-fashioned kaleidoscope in my memory, so swift, so varied, so colorful were its shifting scenes.

The wedding was to be in the evening, but in deference to Katie's plaints, I had decreed that breakfast and luncheon should be served on trays in the various rooms, a service in which we pressed the young people of the house party, to their great delight—and Katie's.

"Trays mooch easier for me dan getting dot dining room all mussed oop after I get it all ready for wedding supper," she said. "Und dot nice Major Grantland, he take eferbody off my hands for dinner."

Hugh indeed had come to the rescue of our crowded menage, with an invitation to everyone of us and our guests to partake of a buffet meal at The Larches—part luncheon, part dinner—in the late afternoon before the usual dinner hour, so that everyone might have plenty of time to dress for the wedding.

To this function I did not go, although at my insistence Dicky did, albeit much against his will. But I guessed that he was secretly pleased at my staying at home under the excuse, a genuine one, that I had so many last things to attend to that I must not leave the house.

ROOMS DECORATED

Avis Arlen had slept all of the morning and well into the afternoon. Lillian and I had alternated in waiting upon her, fussing over her as if she had been a convalescent baby, and Harry Underwood, at Lillian's request, had taken her with her mother and Lillian for a motor ride to Montauk Point, our favorite show drive of the region.

In this way she had been kept from anything save the most casual greeting of Philip Veritzen, and I knew that at this buffet dinner at The Larches Dicky, Harry and Lillian were on guard to see that Noel's father did not find out that his protege was to be missing from the wedding procession.

The rooms were beautiful. The stairway, wreathed in laurel and autumn leaves, gave way to the hall similarly decorated, while the entrance to the living room was an arch of green combined with the roses Philip Veritzen had sent in such profusion.

In the living room itself we had fashioned a temporary altar between the windows, ready for the recital of the beautiful Episcopal service. The altar was a bower of palms and rare flowering plants, and up to it led an aisle between the rows of chairs we had placed for the guests—an aisle roped off with white ribbons and dotted with great clusters of roses, the whole effect being that of a church wedding in miniature.

Philip Veritzen's munificence in sending literally "bushels of roses," as Lillian had prophesied, was responsible for much of the beauty of our arrangements, and as I looked at them for the last time before dressing I marveled at the contradictory nature of this father of Noel's, who could in one breath be so princely in generosity and so meanly cruel.

MARY EXCITED

But I rested upon Lillian's promise that she would keep Avis Arlen away from him, the only contretemps I dreaded, and I resolutely put aside every thought save happy anticipatory ones, as I dressed carefully for the wedding all save my gown. Then, attired in a loose smock, I prepared to play tire-woman to Mary.

"Isn't she the loveliest thing?" they asked, and I agreed. Then I shooed them out while Mary's grandmother and her Aunt Harriet came in and kissed her, trying hard to restrain their tears.

Then they were finally gone and Mary was left alone with me, for she had asked me to be the last to bid her "goodby" as Mary Harrison.

"What you've been to me!" she was saying. "And you won't let anything happen to me now, will you?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Lack of Vitamin A Often Affects the Eyes

A correspondent wishes to know about her eyes. She is worried over what doctors call "conjunctivitis." "There are little lumps under the upper eyelids," she says. The vision is not affected, but she is annoyed "by tiny, curling lines, springing out of and floating before the eyes."

Dr. Copeland

The latter symptom is due, I judge, to the presence of bits of mucus, running down over the front surfaces of the eyeballs. In conjunctivitis there is always more or less discharge and it is natural that it would affect the vision, as soapy water running down the spectacle lenses would interfere momentarily with the sight.

The inner surfaces of the eyelids and the white portion of the eyeball are covered with a delicate tissue, called mucous membrane. Its purpose is to make possible free movement of the eye, without friction or discomfort. To this end there is always enough moisture to lubricate the parts and make the lids slide over the other parts easily and smoothly.

This membrane is known as the "conjunctiva." If that tissue becomes reddened, thickened and inflamed, it produces what the doctors call "conjunctivitis."

There are many causes—eyestrain from the need of glasses, exposure to dust and smoke, extension of catarrhal conditions of the nose and nasal sinuses. But beyond that there may be undernourishment and disturbance of the local circulation in consequence.

I do not mean necessarily that the victim isn't getting nourishing food. But unless the diet is rich in certain vitamins the conjunctiva may suffer some sort of disturbance.

In recent years you have heard a lot about the vitamins. You know how they are given letters, A, B, C, etc.

If the system does not get enough vitamin A, it becomes liable to various infections. The eyes are especially prone to such trouble. It is remarkable what improvement takes place when the deficiency in vitamin A is overcome.

There are certain foods that are rich in vitamin A. Let me name a few: The green leaves of plants contain it; lettuce, cabbage and cauliflower, as well as fully ripe tomatoes, carry this vitamin, but prolonged cooking destroys it. For this reason the use of salads is particularly good.

All the yellow vegetables, like carrots, squash, yellow corn and sweet potatoes are included in the list. Whole milk, egg yolk, cream and butter, are valuable sources of vitamin A. Cod liver oil is a less attractive carrier of this element, but it might well be taken in addition to the foods I have mentioned.

Bananas, orange juice, peaches and pumpkin are worthy of mention. These may well be added to the regular diet. The chances are that the tendency to conjunctivitis will be overcome when the vitamin A intake is materially increased.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

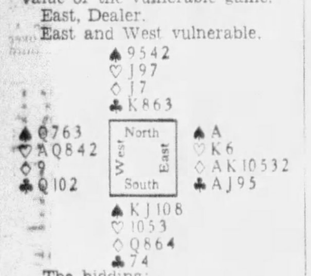
Wait and See

If you have in your hand the highest trump, ordinarily it is not necessary that you rush in to cash it at the earliest possible moment. Even good players sometimes make this mistake, instead of waiting for the moment when the value of that best of all cards may be fully realized.

The hand below is an illustration of where ruffing with the King of trumps at the first opportunity when it was the highest trump then remaining, cost the North and South players almost 1700 points, counting the value of the vulnerable game.

East, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♣ (1)	Pass	5 ♣ (2)	Pass
6 ♣ (3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A rather daring bid, although it is true that East has a very fine fit. As a matter of fact, hearts is just as good a contract, if not a better one, in which to play the hand.

2—West has adequate trump support, so perforce must raise to game.

3—Even here East might have made a better bid—namely, five hearts.

South's opening lead was the Knave of spades, which was won with the Ace by East. East now led the Ace of diamonds and followed with a small diamond, which was ruffed in Dummy. The club finesse was now tested, and the next two tricks were taken by the Queen and Knave of clubs as North, of course, did not cover. When the Ace of clubs won the sixth trick, North still retained the high trump. There was still a chance, however, that the Slam could be made in case the diamonds broke. East now led the King, and North very foolishly trumped and returned a spade. East ruffed, and, as the hearts were evenly divided, made the remainder of the tricks, fulfilling his Slam contract.

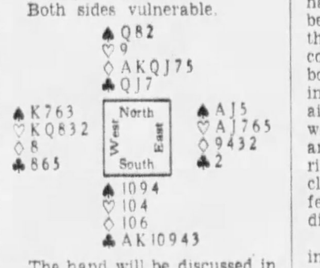
Had North refused to ruff the King of diamonds and discarded a heart instead, East would have been set 2 tricks because North could then have ruffed the third round of hearts and South would have made both a spade and a diamond.

Tomorrow's Hand

If North is playing this hand at five diamonds and East opens the Ace of hearts, what card should West play, and why?

North, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

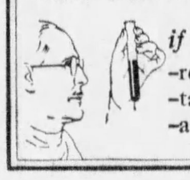
but don't ignore medical opinion



if you want to

-relieve constipation gently and safely
-take the exact dose suited to your need
-avoid danger of bowel strain

A doctor will tell you that the careless use of harsh laxatives will often do more harm than good.

Harsh laxatives often drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Can Constipation be safely relieved?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose that you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation containing senna, a natural vegetable laxative which relieves constipation gently and safely. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic that's taken so frequently, you must carry it wherever you go!

What is the "Right" Laxative?

In buying any laxative, read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains doubtful drugs, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains no mineral drugs. By using it, you avoid danger of strain.

How many dimes and quarters are spent on "popular" laxatives! How quickly they count up, if you frequently use habit-forming helps! A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would save you money—and bring you real relief.

Why Doctors give a liquid laxative

The habitual use of harsh salts, or powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills or tablets is risky.

The properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without discomfort or injury. You need not take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Sidewalk Formation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—What is the position of a lady when walking with two gentlemen?

2—What is the correct position of a gentleman when walking with a lady on a boardwalk?

3—Where, if there is one seat facing a window, is the correct position for the gentleman?

1—The lady walks between the gentlemen. But if there are two ladies and one gentleman, the gentleman walks on the side of the pavement nearest the curb.

2—He walks on the side of the walk where he could offer more protection to her. For instance, if there is a crowd on one side of the walk, he would walk on that side. Indeed, this idea of protection is the idea on which this decision of on-which-side-to-walk is based.

3—The gentleman sits on the side farthest from the window unless the lady does not wish to sit by the window.

She Feared She Had a Serious Disorder

What She Really Had Was "Acid Stomach" Easily Corrected

Authorities now tell us that one of the frequent penalties of middle-age is acid stomach. A rebellion, of the stomach, after years of faulty diet.

If you have Acid Stomach, you can easily trace it. Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," nausea are the usual indications.

To get rid of it, all you need do is this:

Take—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; substituting one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid and get the same result.

Try It—You Will Be Amazed

Try this and, chances are, it will make a great difference in your life. For this small dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts to neutralize the stomach acids that cause your distress.

After meal pains and discomfort go. You feel freedom from dull headaches. That "afternoon fag"—you think is depletion or "nerves" disappears. You feel like another person.

When you buy, be sure to get the REAL article — Genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia, the kind doctors endorse. Always ask for it by the name PHILLIPS'—for all "milk of magnesia" is not alike.

AMATEURS OPEN QUEST FOR A. M. A. BOXING TITLES

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Solters Has Confidence. Expects to Be Regular. Would Sign Blank Pact.

Clark May Regain Form. Horse-Doping Old Trick. Barry Top Court Choice.

It won't be due to any lack of confidence if Julius Solters, Pittsburgh resident, fails to shine just as brilliantly for the Red Sox next season as he did for Baltimore last year, when he led the International League in batting with an average of .363, and also in run production with the huge total of 157 tallies hammered across the plate. The signed contract recently forwarded by Solters to the Boston American League club was accompanied by a letter, in which the player took vigorous exception to the widely published guesses that the regular Red Sox outfield would be made up of Roy Johnson, Carl Reynolds and Dusty Cooke. Julius served notice that he expects to break up that alignment by winning a regular position for himself; that he feels he has everything it takes to make good in the majors. And to prove it he expressed a willingness to sign a contract with no salary stipulated, permitting the club to fix his pay at what it might judge him to be worth after seeing him win a regular outfield job.

Julius Solters

General Manager Eddie Collins, of the Red Sox, says Solters' letter delighted him, and that he admires that sort of spirit in a recruit. Collins points out that confidence is the main requisite when a rookie has the natural ability of the Pittsburgher; that the biggest single factor leading to success in a case like that of Solters is the feeling that opponents with "New York" on their shirt fronts are not to be feared any more than International League foes with "Montreal" on their uniforms. Eddie adds that almost all of the good minor leaguers, men coming up with reputations like that gained by Solters, succeed in the big show if they have the confidence, and that's why he got such a kick out of the Pittsburgher's letter. Collins' own confidence on Solters has gone up many points.

UMPIRE GETS NEW PLAY AFTER 35 YEARS

For 35 years Tommy Connolly has been in close touch with freak plays in major league baseball. He was an active umpire for 33 seasons—three in the National and 30 in the American League—and for the last two years has been supervisor of umpires in the American. You'd imagine that during that long stretch Connolly would have run into about every kind of play that possibly could come up in a baseball game, but he admits that in his side duty of answering queries for his league he came across one the other day that he never had experienced.

With the bases empty and one out, the batter swung at the third strike and missed; the ball bounded off the catcher's glove, struck the hitter's bat, and rolled so far to one side on fair ground that the catcher could not recover it in time to make a play; the batter ran to first base and was ruled safe. Connolly rules that the decision was wrong and that the batter was out, inasmuch as his bat interfered with the catcher's chance to put him out, and because, in addition, he interfered by hitting at the ball a second time, which is illegal.

CLARK TIPPED TO BE WINNER FOR GIANTS

According to Bill Terry, one of the Giants' best pitching bets for this year, outside the Big Four of Hubbell, Schumacher, Parmelee and Fitzsimmons, is being generally overlooked. He refers to William Watson Clark, the left-hander who was one of the greatest disappointments in the National League last year after New York obtained him, with Lefty O'Doul, from Brooklyn on June 15, in exchange for Sam Leslie. A 20-game winner in 1932, Clark won only five games last season against eight defeats, pitching just four complete games and a total of but 95 innings.

Bill Clark

Terry predicts the league will see a different Clark this year. The Giant manager says that an attack of grip and neuritis caused the left-hander's slump in 1933, leaving him without strength or endurance, but that Clark has fully recovered, has gained 14 pounds this winter, and will be as good a pitcher when the season opens as he ever was.

That Dodger-Giant trade, by the way, had an unusual result that was not generally noticed. From the time they swapped Clark to New York, on June 15, right through to the end of the season, the Dodgers never started a game with a left-hand pitcher on the hill. Joe Shaute and Freddie Heimach were used often in relief roles, but every one of Brooklyn's last 112 games was started by a right-hander.

DOPING OF RACEHORSES DATES BACK 42 YEARS

The practice of doping racehorses, which has brought a number of prosecutions recently, is by no means new. It was first exposed 42 years ago, during the winter meeting of 1891-92 at the old Guttenberg track across the North River from Ninety-sixth street, New York. At the outset, horses suffering with sore joints, bad ankles and knees were cocainized, which gave the unscrupulous owner of a small stable the idea of stimulating a practically sound animal for the purpose of making him show more than normal speed.

The trick worked, and it wasn't long before the secret leaked out. Other horsemen began to employ the same methods, and the doping evil grew steadily and was widely practiced for many years until the present determined steps to stamp it out were begun.

DAVIES RANKS BARRY AT HEAD OF LIST

Chick Davies, successful and popular coach of Duquesne University, is one of the best judges to be found anywhere when it comes to passing on the merits of a basketball player, and in all circles he is recognized as an authority. Davies was asked to name the best, the smartest and the most brilliant court performer he ever had seen. The Duke mentor has watched a lot of basketball, and also played a great deal of it, among the best teams in the country. He has witnessed dozens of the big professional tilts, and many games in the East, and what do you think? He says if he were to pick an all-star all-time team he would select Pete Barry, of the Celtics, before any other player.

Pete Barry

Davies pronounces Barry the smartest player he ever saw on any floor, at any time, or at any place. Chick has been in the game more than 15 years. Barry has been at it more than 20 years, and today is called the iron man. It will be remembered that when the Celtics appeared here last, Barry could not participate in the game against the Willigs because of an arm injury, similar to the one that Tim Lawry has been nursing for many weeks, and Davies believes that is the reason the Celtics did not look so hot that night. Chick adds that next to Barry he would select Johnny Beckman,

NORMAN GOLDFIELD

Young Goldfield, aged 12, is recognized as the sports information bureau of Braddock because of his ability to recall results in all branches of athletic competition. The youngest of a family of six, the other five being sisters, Goldfield is eagerly awaiting the time when he will be eligible to turn out for the Braddock Junior High

BRADDOCK BOY KEEN SPORTS ENTHUSIAST

By JULIUS LEVIN

Beaus of the five Goldfield sisters, of 447 Second street, Braddock, who endeavor to call their sweethearts between the hours of 7 p. m. and midnight on Saturdays only to get a "busy" signal may attribute their failure to get a "clear" line to the fact that this domicile boasts the champion sports enthusiast in young Norman Goldfield, aged 12 years and the only boy in the otherwise "Eddie Cantor Family."

The telephone company may bemoan the big drop in revenue during the depression, but this deficit cannot be blamed on young Norman, who makes good use of its facilities by calling the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports department every Saturday evening for the results of all important athletic events of that afternoon and evening.

KEEN SPORTS FAN

A student in 7-A of the Second Ward School, Braddock, Norman is a keen follower of all branches of sports, being a rabid fan in football, baseball, basketball, boxing, lacrosse and ice hockey. While he has seen football, baseball, basketball and hockey games played, he relies on the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the radio to give him his information on boxing and lacrosse.

Norman's ability to keep an accurate check on all scores of games played in the Greater Pittsburgh District, both amateur and professional, has won for him the recognition of being a human sports information bureau.

Living in the same house with Peter J. (Bunny) Buntach, well-known Braddock fight manager, Norman has no trouble getting first-hand information of the activities in the boxing world. Having seen Max Baer when the latter appeared in Pittsburgh for an exhibition several months ago, Norman naturally regards the coast heavyweight as his favorite.

PICTURES COVER WALLS

Norman also has his idols in college basketball locally. The pictures that cover the walls of his bedroom attest to that fact. Marty Reiter and Paul Birch, of Duquesne, and Claire Cribbs, of Pitt, are his favorites.

The Braddock youngster is one of the many thousands of boys in the Greater Pittsburgh District to take advantage of the boys' days at Forbes Field on Mondays and Fridays during the school vacation period.

Not eligible to compete in school sports at the present time, Norman is eagerly awaiting the time when he will be a candidate for the football, baseball and basketball teams at Braddock Junior High School, where Ben Lubic, former Duquesne University basketball star, is coach.

If his ability as an athlete is as good as his memory for scores in all branches of sport, he should prove an all-round star. In the meantime, Norman has convinced his mother, Mrs. Clara Goldfield, as well as his five sisters, that it would be folly to change an unlimited phone to one that permits only 40 calls per month. That many are made Saturday night when virtually all winter sport events are staged.

Norman, so far, has succeeded in warding off all attacks his sisters make in an effort to use the telephone on Saturday evenings. With him, the scores of the Pitt, Duquesne or Carnegie Tech basketball games are of first importance.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: CLOTHES MAGIC—The Siamese are so wonderfully adept at the art of draping and folding that they dispense with the use of pins, sashes, buttons, hooks and snaps. White women are amazed at the magic that seems to hold their clothes together. THE BARREL—According to Pliny, the wooden barrel was invented by the Gauls. Its construction has remained a marvel of ingenuity, combining great strength with lightness. By JESS CARVER

The boys who fight for honor, glory and—medals (name deleted by advertising department) will do same tonight as the Allegheny Mountain Association junior amateur boxing tournament gets under way in the Keystone A. C. ring.

A total of 135 ambitious scrappers, none of whom ever have won an A. M. A. title before, are entered in the tourney, which will run through next Monday night. These lads may be short on skill, but they are long on action, and its action that counts.

At that, there are some right clever lads entered in this year's tournament. For example, it will take extra-special battling on the part of the flyweights to keep the hard hitting Matt Ozniak from annexing the crown. Dave Harge, hard hitting Aliquippa Negro, and Billy Miller, of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club, look like the boys to beat in the featherweight division. With an additional year of experience behind him, Don Shafer, of the Westinghouse Club, figures to make it exceedingly tough for the best of the lightweights, and Steve Walters will prove the stumbling block for more than one enthusiastic welterweight.

SOME GOOD ONES

Debonair Jimmy O'Brien and Jimmy (Red) Auth should go right along among the middleweights, and are as good bets as any to reach the finals. Henry Klena, if his hitting has improved, looks like the money among the light heavies and Beno Orben, unorthodox as he may be, has as good a chance as any to gain the heavyweight honors.

Stanley Seltzer Waechter, chairman of the K. A. C. boxing committee; Jack Kennard, the club's efficient athletic director, and the officials of the A. M. A., headed by Messrs. Haddock and Taylor, have not spared the horses in preparing for the affair, and with a crack entry list, the tournament figures to be one of the most successful ever.

THREE KAYOS SCORED

The amateurs went at it hammer and tongs as the Duquesne Light Company employes staged a simon-pure show at the Islam Grotto, North Side, last night. Every battle was a pip, with three knockouts being recorded. The summary:

The Pirates are in second place in the City Amateur Hockey League today and fans who witnessed last night's clash between the Buccos and the Webers thought for a time that the A. M. A. boxing tournament had opened a night ahead of time and in a strange locale.

The Pirates defeated the Webers, 3 to 2, on the Duquesne Garden ice last night, the teams throwing in a free-for-all that would have delighted the heart of Jackie Powell, pugnacious stars of the league-leading Morgans no end. The scrap started in the first period when Campbell, Weber captain, and Scully of the Pirates, swapped punches. The players of both teams got into the melee and it was some time before order was restored.

NEXT U. S. L. T. A. HEAD TO PERFORM IN MATCH HERE

HALL TO PLAY WITH VETERAN WILLIAMS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The initial public appearance of Walter Merrill Hall as president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association will be in the active role of participants in an exhibition net contest before a Pittsburgh gallery. Hall, brilliant racqueter of pre-war days and present treasurer of the U. S. L. T. A., holds the nomination equivalent to election for the post of chief executive of the American court body. He will be formally installed in the presidency at the annual meeting of the governing group at the P. A. A. here Saturday and, following post-conclave dinner that evening at the Pittsburgh Golf Club, he will join former Champion R. Norris Williams II, of Philadelphia, in a special doubles engagement with Dr. Dave and Dr. John O'Loughlin, Winged Head stars and first-ranking team of Western Pennsylvania.

LINEUP CHANGED

The Saturday dual soiree as originally announced called for Chuck Garland, famous Pittsburgh product, to pair with Williams, his mate in copping the 1919 Wimbledon world's crown. Last-minute word from Garland from Chicago, where he now resides, has caused the revision of the bill. Chuck probably will be in town for the national session, but doctor's order forbids him to play for at least a fortnight because of an infected arm.

Receipt of the bad news from Garland left Chairman Bob Schmertz of the local committee on arrangements in a tough spot. Faced with the necessity of obtaining a topflight partner for Williams, the home official promptly heated the telegraph and long distance telephone wires between here and Eastern centers in a valiant endeavor to line up a performer from among such notables as Frank Shields, Gregory Mangin, Frankie Parker, Watson Washburn and numerous others. But between business commitments and the Casino Heights indoor tournament in Brooklyn all hands were completely tied up.

Then, when hope approached utter dimness, the veteran Sam Hardy, who had been appealed to by Schmertz to do his best for the Steel City cause, came through with a wire to the effect that Hall, in spite of the multitude of demands that will be made upon his time the day of his elevation to the U. S. L. T. A. headship, had graciously consented to help out by playing, if the Pittsburgh group cared to have him. There was only one answer to that.

HALL FORMER STAR

The aligning of Hall is both happy and appropriate. The president-to-be was listed tenth in the American singles ratings of 1911 and 1915 and fourth in that of 1918. Even today he holds the New Hampshire title. He has always been considered a smart and talented player. It is said that he jousted brilliantly in Pittsburgh in the national clay court tourney in 1915, when Williams carried off man-to-man honors and George M. Church and Dean Mathey captured the doubles.

Hall is slated to arrive here early tomorrow along with other members of the U. S. L. T. A. executive committee, which convenes in star chamber seance tomorrow evening. Williams will arrive at about the dinner hour tomorrow. With Mrs. Williams, he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Moorhead, of Aylesboro avenue.

Leon See's 'Inside Story' Of Carnera's Career

EDITORIAL FOREWORD

The author lets Primo describe his first painful experience in the ring, three or four years before Journee introduced him to See. Primo is telling what happened just before he got his baptism of blood as a novice amature . . .

CHAPTER XXI

By LEON SEE

Developer and Former Manager of Primo Carnera, World Heavyweight Boxing Champion

I was hurried along into a sort of dressing room where the other boxers, who seemed to me small, were undressing. I did not have any boxing shoes, trunks, nor any other equipment.

I climbed into the ring in an old pair of torn trousers and broken-out shoes. The gloves were much too small for me and my opponent was a champion heavyweight of the navy! . . .

Primo Carnera

I had never seen a boxing bout and furthermore, I did not see much that day. I received some blows in the face; I also tried to hit, but the head of my adversary was never there when my fist arrived.

The gloves were thick and I did not mind the blows very much. They annoyed me a little, but I did feel awkwardly ridiculous.

In the third round I was dead from fatigue due to hitting wild. Since I had no training my wind failed me and I took all the blows in my face without any exception.

DISCOURAGED AT START

The man who engaged me—he was called Monsieur Legros—handled me. In the beginning of the third round he threw in the sponge, evidently considering that I had earned my 25 francs. I was so beaten up that I do not remember more than that I was led to my mason work employer. On seeing my battered face, the boss pitied me and paid me for the working day which I had missed.

As for myself, I made a solemn promise:

"I swear I will never box again!"

Far was I from suspecting that I would be world champion some day!

A curious thing is that, five years later, when I was beginning to be a ring sensation, the good Monsieur Legros let it be known that it was he who had discovered me and launched me!

WITH LITTLE CIRCUS

Two months later there came the Le Mans Fair. The great square was full of stands, but this entertainment had no attraction for me because my pockets were always empty. One afternoon, when I had just finshed my work, a stranger was waiting for me at the entrance of the workshop.

"With your height and your shoulders," he said to me, "you should have remarkable strength. Would you not be interested in wrestling?"

"If it is like boxing," I replied, "nothing doing!"

"Quite different," explained the other, "wrestling does not present any danger. We have a wrestling booth we go from fair to fair, from village to village; now you could be part of the company, you would travel, you would see the country, you would be well paid, well lodged, well fed. . . ."

Well fed! He did not have to say anything else. I accepted without asking what the salary would be.

The next day I was a wrestler in fairs billed as "The Terrible Giovanni, champion of Spain, who has thrown all the champions of Europe. . . ."

APPEARS AS WRESTLER

The booth was a large tent supported by a mast and with a sort of painted front where the "parade" took place. It was took three hours to erect the tent and two hours were necessary to take it down and load it on the automobile truck which—together with the boss's van—constituted the first Carnera caravan. The troupe included the boss, his wife, myself and a few tramps whom we assembled along the way.

The boss, Adolphe Ledudal, weighed about 230 pounds. Of average height but vigorous and powerful, he put on half our show, lifting weights and wrestling "amateurs."

His wife was round as a ball, weighing more than 220 pounds. She was our strong woman, raising with extended arms a weight marked 20 kilograms, which really weighed about four. She used to pick up a hollow bar, announced as weighing 80 kilograms but actually weighing not more than 15. She also took care of the cash and watched out for the rascals who tried to get into the booth without paying. . . .

A HARD LIFE

Ah, life was not funny! In general, after an entire night on the road, going from one town to another in our slow caravans, we had to unload the truck on arrival and set up the booth. The first show opened at 2 in the afternoon. On Sunday it began at 9 in the morning and we worked without stopping, generally up to midnight, sometimes later.

As soon as the last performance was over, dead with fatigue, we had to take down the heavy tent, reload it on the truck and we chugged off into the night, tired and hungry.

In good weather, when the fair had drawn a crowd, we gave from 10 to 15 consecutive shows in a day. All the performances were identical.

First of all, we passed in parade clothed in our worn tights and in our ragged capes. The boss rolled the drum. One of the tramps carried the large drum and I yelled through the megaphone. When we attracted several loungers, I did several strong-arm stunts on the platform. I juggled some (hollowed) weights, I rolled a ball on my neck. In the beginning I failed often and, happily, that big ball was not so heavy because the floor was not too solid . . .

A WEARY HARANGUE

When the "crowd" was sufficient (10 or 12 people, for example) the boss took the megaphone and presented the champions of the troupe. It was the same speech repeated at every performance. I heard it so many times I am able to recite it word for word:

"Ladies and gentlemen, there is a great crowd inside. You will witness there some remarkable boxing and wrestling contests. You will also see Teresa de la Plata (that was his wife) in her phenomenal feats of strength. She will raise in one hand a 75-kilogram bar! And in two hands she will lift the bar weighing 100-kilograms, which no other woman in the world has been able to do! See at my right is the celebrated boxing champion, Johnson, who defies all amateurs. There is a prize of 15 francs for whoever can beat him. On my left is the terrible Spaniard, Don Giovanni, who has pinned all the best wrestlers in the whole world. There is 200 francs to him who can touch the Don's shoulders to the mat—the Terrible Spaniard who has never known the shame of defeat! Come, gentlemen, are there any amateurs? Come up do not have any fear, come on!"

MEETS ALL COMERS

At this moment two or three individuals among the spectators might raise their hands. They were the "amateurs"—unfortunate fellows whom we encountered along the road who were happy to get a few francs, sometimes a soldier, and occasionally a Negro, loomed among these would-be athletes. . . .

"Here!"

"Here's a glove."

"What do you wish, gentlemen?"

"To wrestle," "I want to box," etc., etc., they would cry.

"Ah, you wish to win the prize," replied the boss, "I do not back down; there is always 200 francs. And with whom do you wish to wrestle?"

"With the Spaniard. . . ."

PITT AND TECH IN HEARST SHOOT EVENT

The University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology rifle teams again will be contestants in the annual marksmanship competition for the William Randolph Hearst trophies, having filed entry blanks.

The Carnegie Tech squad of candidates, under the coaching of Sergt. R. C. Sommers, has been reduced from 75 to 30, and three teams of five men each will be chosen from this group to compete in the eastern division, which includes about 40 teams.

All targets must be filed at Chicago, official headquarters of the shoot, by April, but both Pitt and Tech hope to complete their tallies by the latter part of March.

Capt. A. S. Ackerman, head of the Military Science and Tactics Department; Lieut. A. H. Burton, range officer, and Sergt. Sommers are in charge of the Skibos. Three dependables from last year's squad, which won the third place shield in the Eastern Division, and the fourth place shield in the National competition, are back. They are Charles M. Merriman, captain; P. S. Mellinger and D. E. Irons.

Lieut. Wilson, in charge of the Pitt squad, reports his prospects for a winning team brighter than last year. Pitt has entered two teams in the Eastern competition. The four regulars back from 1933 are Charles Zoller, Jr., captain; A. R. Davis, manager and shooting member of the team; R. R. Weitershausen and J. P. Mastrucci.

BOZEMAN STAR IN CUE PLAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—J. N. Bozeman, Jr., is not sure just how he came to be playing billiards, but, regardless of the reason, the men who know their three cushions are picking the 27-year-old, curly-headed Vallejo (Cal.) youth as the player most likely to reach the heights achieved by such great stars as Jake Schaefer and Willie Hoppe.

Bozeman last night defeated Otto Reiselt, former champion from Philadelphia, in the world champion three-cushion tournament, with ease, 50 to 19, in 34 innings.

Welker Cochran, defending champion, defeated Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, 51 to 31; Allen Hall downed Len Kenney, 50 to 36, and Augie Kieckhefer beat the veteran Alfredo De Oro, 50 to 39, in other matches.

Foxx Turns Down A's '34 Contract

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP.)—Having rejected a proffered 1934 contract, calling for a substantial salary cut, Jimmy Foxx, home run king of the big leagues, today said he would sit "tight" while awaiting further word from Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

LACROSSE LOOP TITLE GAME SATURDAY

By CARL W. SHATTO

The first half championship of the American and International Lacrosse Association, known as the North American Professional Lacrosse Association until A. C. Leslie, local attorney, was installed as president and Detroit was granted a franchise at a reorganiation meeting here yesterday, will be at stake when the Yellow Jackets play the Chicago White Sox at Motor Square Garden Saturday night.

The White Sox are the former Milwaukee Brewers, headed by Kelly DeGray. They are to have a home court on Chicago's South Side, and the Blue Ribbons are to continue as representatives of Chicago's North Side.

JACKETS IN LEAD

The Jackets at present are heading the loop with 16 points. The Sox are second with 14 points, the Blue Ribbons third with 10 points, and the Buffalo Indians fourth with eight points. In view of the fact that two points are awarded for each victory, the Jackets can sew up the first half title by winning Saturday night. In the event the locals lose, the teams will be tied at 16 points each, and the first half title will be the prize for which they will battle here next Tuesday.

After Tuesday's game, all league members will start with a clean slate. The second half winner will oppose the first half winner in a play-off series, in the event both halves are not won by the same team.

The Indians may be crowded out of Buffalo by a city league there. Should they be able to retain their home court, they will remain in Buffalo, and Detroit will be represented by a team which operated in Baltimore last season. In the event the Indians have to find a new home, they will be transferred to Detroit.

SOX DANGEROUS FOES

The Sox are regarded as having about an even chance of overtaking the Jackets and going on to win the title. They have won four games in their last four starts against the locals, two of 'em at Motor Square Garden, and are the only team to hold the edge in their season series with Coach Suds Sutherland's stalwarts. The Jackets, however, have shown to much better advantage since the return to form of Leo Bouliane, and since Odie Core's recovery from an appendicitis operation.

R. S. Scott, a local man, is to assist Michael Agazim, of Chicago, as secretary, and Samuel Luzzo, of Milwaukee, as treasurer. Mique Malloy, of Chicago, is the circuit's new vice president.

It is proposed to expand the league to include Cleveland, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Brooklyn next season.

M'CANNS AT Y. M. H. A.

The Y. M. H. A. will meet the McCann Club of the South Side in an Alleghany County League game at the Y. M. H. A. tonight. The Y. M. H. A. will be seeking its third straight win over the South Siders.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pirate bosses apparently did not get very far with their trading plans at the New York meeting . . . Bill Benswanger says he had quite a busy time from the hour he landed until he hustled to a homebound train; everybody was interested in talking shop, but they all looked upon Bill and George Gibson as a Santa Claus act from Pittsburgh . . . Gibby hooked up with his boss and the two invited representations from all rivals.

The discussions were quite enjoyable until the subtle salesmanship darts were unloosed . . . This was a sign for some of the boys to get out their chisels . . . Bill and Gibby talked with Max Carey, for instance . . . The Pittsburghers did not say just what they suggested to Scoops in return for Tony Cuccinello, but Scooper seems to have settled that question for the time being . . . He did not ask for anything more than the Waner boys or Larry French.

And that was the way it continued . . . So Tony probably will not change uniforms for a spell . . . On the other hand, Honus Wagner points out, what would you do with a fellow like Tommy Thevenow if you were to get a Cuccinello for second? . . . Wagner insists, and not without logic, that Thevenow in good health is just about as valuable as anybody you might name for the Pirate keystone role.

Honus argues that inasmuch as Tom has had so much sour luck, the laws of compensation might be working in his favor at this particular phase of his destiny . . . On at least two seasons of his major league career, Thevenow played in 156 games and held up his end . . . Performances of this kind weaken the oft-repeated contention that Tommy is not able to sparkle when he plays every day . . . I don't know of anybody who can shine with a broken leg or a body smashed seriously in an auto accident, and the little Bucco's misfortunes have been of the major type.

As recently as 1930, Tomaso played in 156 games for the Phillies . . . How much did he hit? . . . Well, just a cool .286 . . . A fellow named Mel Ott hit .281 last season, and Mel is conceded to be a pretty fair country hitter . . . Moreover, when Tom is at second base, Arky Vaughan is a better all-round player, and by the same token, when Thevenow guarded short, Tony Piet was a whale of a secondsacker . . . Thevenow played in 70 odd games last year, and he batted better than .300 Maybe Ol' Honus' tip is just as well-timed as were the base thefts of the Flying Dutchman.

OLD CARNEGIE LIKELY TO WIN TITLE

By TOM BIRKS

The championship of the Central District Soccer League will be at stake Saturday afternoon when Old Carnegie and Arsenal clash at Beadling. The winner will drag down the trophy that goes along with the championship. Old Carnegie looms as the favorite, especially on the small field at Beadling.

Very few teams ever travel to Beadling and win; in fact, it has been years since any club turned the trick.

Two other games are carded in the circuit. Ambridge appears at Leslie Park against the Rovers and Union Switch hooks up with Clan Douglas.

On Sunday, all soccer trails will lead to Greenlee Field for the National Open replay between the Cleveland Slavias and Curry.

There is a chance that Susko, big and rangy halfback, will be ready for this game. Susko received a most unusual accident on the eve of last week's game. He was sprinting on a vacant lot just outside of Broughton when he tripped on a pipe and suffered a cut in his leg that required a number of stitches.

The West Penn Football Association held a special meeting last night with President Doig in the chair. The draw for the semi-final round of the senior cup was made. It follows:

Herzog and Lobert To Attend Roundup

Two former stars of the National League, Charles (Buck) Herzog and John (Hans) Lobert, will be among the notables to attend the Sports Roundup and Dinner, to be held by the Pittsburgh Chapter, Baseball Writers Association of America in the Schenley Hotel, Sunday evening.

The two veterans will be the guests of William Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has purchased a table for the affair.

Third Pitt-Duquesne Contest Not Likely

Having divided their two games this season, the athletic officials at the University of Pittsburgh and Duquesne University, do not intend to play a third contest this year.

Unless the Westminster Titans upset the Panthers on February 21, the race for the city championship is certain to be complicated with Pitt and Duquesne both title claimants.

PITT, DUQUESNE BOXERS CLASH

The varsity boxing teams of Pitt and Duquesne go to rags tonight in the Dukes' gym in an Eastern Intercollegiate Conference match, with the outcome very much on the tossup side.

To date, the Panthers have won the only match in which they have taken part, having outpointed Temple, 4 to 3. Duquesne lost by a like score to Wash-Jeff and was soundly trounced by the champion West Virginia outfit, 6 to 1, but the Mountaineers figure to take any Conference squad in a dual engagement.

Two champions will be seen in action tonight, Freddie Moore, of the Dukes, 145-pound king, boxing Red Spiegel, of Pitt, and Capt. Jack Shricker, of Pitt, 155-pound ruler, facing Roseto, of the Dukes. The lineup of bouts follows:

155-pound class—Roseto, Dukes, vs. Schricker, Pitt.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Bill Corum says Powel Crosley, Jr., the new owner of the Cincinnati Club, is a collector of antiques. Bought the Reds and Dazzy Vance within two days.

That rassling situation revolving about the reinstatement of Everette Marshall in Philadelphia for a return bout with Jim Londos is funny. The commission set him down because he went haywire in a previous bout and took the word of three alienists that there's nothing the matter with him mentally to bar him from wrestling now. Do you have to be crazy to be a wrestler, or are you crazy when you are a wrestler, or who's loony now?

Herb Kopf, former W. & J. football star, now assistant coach at Columbia, was speaking to the inmates of Sing Sing Prison recently. Before going on, he wanted to know how to address them, asking: "Shall I call them 'Inmates,' or 'Gentlemen,' or what?" "Nix on the 'gentlemen' stuff," cracked Johnny Law, former Notre Dame star, now coach of the prison team and secretary to Warden Lawes. "Don't say 'Gentlemen'—they'll know you're kidding."

Coach Lou Little, of Columbia, on the same program, pulled a Mae West on the boys. Congratulating them on their fine team, he said: "And when you fellows graduate from this place, come down to New York 'n' see me some time."

Better figure out a good movie to go to on Saturday, for there's nothing doing in sports here aside from the Pitt-Army basketball game, the A. M. A. title fights, a polo game, a lacrosse game, three soccer games, and, well—never mind, that's enough.

The big feature of the sports scribes' holocaust at the Schenley Sunday night has not yet been advertised. It is the fact that under no circumstances will anyone be permitted to recite "Casey at the Bat." As soon as the fans can verify this, there will be a run on the tickets.

All requests for complimentaries for the Yarosz-Smith fight should be referred to Bunny Buntach and Johnny Freund. They have pockets full of them.—HARRY KECK.

STOCKS BACK DOWN UNDER PRESSURE

Depressing news was scarce and the majority of market analysts attributed further reactionary tendencies almost wholly to technical causes. The Paris flareup appeared to be dying down and the progress of business and industry was viewed as satifactory. The ticker tape occasionally lagged behind floor transactions, but the activity was considerably under that of yesterday.

Foreign exchanges were again firm in relation to the dollar. Grains and some other commodities were a bit heavy, but cotton steadied after early recessions. Domestic bonds were in moderate supply. French loans were strong.

The troubles of the French and Washington's move toward enacting a law for the regulation of speculation were the principal topics of discussion in the boardrooms, but most brokers doubted that equities were affected to any great extent by either factor.

So far as the bill to regulate security transactions is concerned, it was pointed out that it has been known for months that such a measure was in course of preparation. The consensus has been that if such a bill is too radical it would either fail to pass Congress or would lack the final approval of the President. The argument for this, as expressed by stock exchange members, is that the administration all along has indicated its desire for an open capital market as one of the essentials to recovery.

Financial circles were much interested in advices from Washington that the President had suggested the control bill now being drafted include commodity exchange regulation and that the Federal Trade Commission act as a supervisor and administrator of the proposed law.

Declaration of the regular quarterly Union Pacific dividend, although causing no surprise, brought further cheer to followers of carrier stocks who had been holding on to their favorites despite the reaction. Most of the January traffic reports of leading roads were also encouraging.

Word that the Bank of France had raised its discount rate from 2½ to 3 per cent was according to expectations of quarters that have been studying the gold movement from abroad. Further steps, it was felt, might also be taken to slow down the gold flow from French coffers as well as to curb excessive fluctuations of French exchange.

COTTON VALUES RULE LOWER

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 2 cents higher to 4 cents lower with trade buying and liquidation. March, 11.90 cents; May, 12.04 cents; July, 12.22 cents; October, 12.41 cents; December, 12.53 cents; January, 12.60 cents.

There was some trade and commission house buying at the opening on the firm showing of Liverpool and overnight reports from Washington with reference to the progress of crop control proposals. This was supplied by liquidation and scattered selling, however, and the market eased. May selling down from 12.05 to 11.94, making net declines of about 9 to 14 points on active positions.

Offerings tapered off somewhat at the decline, however, and prices stiffened a few points on covering or trade buying with the market showing net declines of 5 to 7 points at the end of the first half hour.

Considerable cotton was liquidated early, according to local observers, but much of it appeared to have gone into the hands of the trade, and the market steadied later in the morning. Prices just about recovered their earlier losses. The market at midday was quiet and steady, net unchanged to 3 points lower.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 8.—Cotton, no receipts. Spot in fair demand; prices 5 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 7.20; good middling, 6.90; strict middling 6.75; middling, 6.60; strict low middling, 6.45; low middling, 6.20; strict good ordinary, 6.00; good ordinary, 5.70. Furtures closed steady. March, 6.30; May, 6.28; July, 6.27; October, 6.24; December, 6.26; January, 6.26.

M'CRORY PLAN ANNOUNCED

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—C. T. Green, president of McCrory Stores Corporation, has informed its creditors that arrangements are being made to sell to a syndicate $2,000,000 of the company's stock.

Under the agreement Green said, the syndicate would buy stock of the corporation for $1,500,000 to the extent that such additional stock was not bought by present holders of preferred and common stock. Thereafter the syndicate would buy at 50 cents on the dollar new debentures turned in by creditors after the company had retired $3,000,000 principal amount of such debentures surrendered in accordance with the reorganization plan.

Green urged prompt approval of the reorganization plan and said that majority assent of the creditors, subject to court approval of the plan, would render unnecessary the cost of continuing bankruptcy proceedings. The company filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy on January 14, 1933.

MARKET FEELS INFLUENCE OF INFLATION

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Judged by the usual signs, the underlying trend of stock prices remains a rising one. No more than the inevitable technical setbacks are indicated. Of course, as "the public" comes into the market, these will become increasingly severe, but they do not reverse the main trend.

The present phase of the stock market is to be interpreted as a broad move based upon actual inflation. As such, it is not going to peter out over night.

At first, wise people bought gold mining shares and "inventory stocks."

Then came a move among wealthy individuals to buy "high grade" stocks in the most strongly established companies, as an insurance against new deal attacks. They figured that several years from now all this "collectivism" will have blown over, and monetary experiments ended. So regardless of present earnings or dividends, or even ultimate profits, they "sit on" round equities, and avoid taxes.

Then came a wave of speculation in second-grade bonds and, more lately, in preferred stocks.

PUBLIC ENTERS

Then the public began to come in, and the rush for "cheap stocks" is on. Everybody wants a stock selling around 10, and few issues are active if priced above 35.

Partly this is to get issues which are "behind the market," but mostly to enable the purchaser to buy more shares. That is always a dangerous attitude—to substitute quantity for quality.

Tuesday there was a "holding company" move. That is, people rushed to buy stocks in companies known to hold other stocks which had gone up, such as investment trusts, utility holding companies, and railway companies with large investments in other "rails."

Of course, foreign buying to profit by the artificial cheapness of the dollar abroad, has been a leading factor for several weeks.

Thus layer after layer of buying is disclosed. Yet "the public" is just beginning to come in, and other "layers" remain.

LITTLE INVESTMENT

The thing that impresses me is that there is very little real "investment" in all this. The predominant motive is to profit by a run-up in prices or to protect one's capital against inflation.

Even in 1929, people tried to rationalize their speculations by talk of new era "price-earnings ratios." Now few give any thought to earnings.

Suppose that we figure that 1934 earnings prospect for most ordinary industries is similar to 1931. (Industrial activity and commodity prices both suggest this comparison, except in special cases such as liquors, airplanes, gold mines, etc.) If, then, we look up 1931 earnings, we find the following:

Most of the high-grade "blue chips" are selling for 20 to 30 times 1931 earnings.

Many issues now active showed deficits in 1931, and on that basis would be selling at 8-10, instead of 15-40 as they now do.

Some stocks still sell at a reasonable price compared with earnings per share (say 10-12 times), but these are mostly either subject to various threats (as rails and utilities), or are little known issues not operated in by "pools."

Pennsylvania Bell Station Losses Cut

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.—(AP.)—The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania in its annual report, announced a let loss of 60,822 telephones in service during 1933 as compared with a loss of 154,801 in 1932. The report said:

"Particularly encouraging is the fact that the 1933 loss was not constant through the year, small gains having been realized during the last four months."

CHAPTER XXXI.

Anderson and Carroll were in the living room, surrounded by a corps of experienced detectives and police officials, many of whom I knew by sight and many personally. Hurley and Katz, of the detective bureau were present, I remember, and Wiggins and Marshal of the homicide squad. There were two fingerprint experts, Williams and Fountleroy, and Tindall, captain of detectives. There were others, too, plain clothesmen and a number of officers in uniform.

Somewhat to my surprise I notice Ranny Paige, very pale but composed.

"I think Anderson wants him to go through the whole works again," said Carroll, slipping up beside me.

Obviously Anderson had some plan ready for he held in his hand a sheaf of papers which he consulted attentively. Finally he looked at his watch and said:

"Well, gentlemen, I see that everyone is present except Mr. Judson."

Judson Invited

"I have invited him to be present," explained the Inspector. "He has done invaluable work on this case, and we owe our entire progress to him, and I have requested him, as Mr. Paige's personal representative, to be with us. He's late but I suppose this weather is enough to delay anybody."

"Did you notice Mr. Cleveland?" whispered Carroll.

And, sure enough, there in a big armchair by the fireside, with his head resting on his hand, sat the lawyer. Was Anderson planning to make him go through his story again? What an ordeal for a man!

"Do you mind if I close these doors, Inspector?" asked one of the officers, pointing to the heavy oak doors which separated the library from the dining room.

"I wish you would close them all," replied Anderson, with a shiver. "This place is spooky enough as it is. Let's get as much heat in here as we can."

For an open fire roared on the hearth — the only cheerful thing about the house.

Strives for Truth

Detective Hurley helped the officer close the folding doors; magnificent ones they were, too, of carved oak. It really required the efforts of two men. Ranny Paige himself tried both of the French doors leading to the porch and made certain that they were locked and bolted.

"I'll see that the windows are all locked," volunteered Katz, for the glass was rattling with every surge of the gale. "A lot of air comes in through them."

"Can't we call MacNalley in?" asked Dickey Carroll, laughing. "The poor fellow must be frozen to death and soaked through. If Judson is the only person not here, he might as well come in."

"No," answered Anderson decisively. "Let MacNalley stay where he is. I've taken the guards away from all the other doors but we had better keep one man on the outside.

"Now, Wiggins, you may tell the officers that we are ready for Mrs. Deane. They are in the rear hall. Gentlemen, it is my purpose tonight to let you all hear for yourselves the various stories related by these different persons in the hope that we may piece them together and in some way arrive at the truth."

Here the housekeeper was led in, between two detectives. I was shocked at her appearance. The last 24 hours had almost deprived her of any semblance of sanity. She looked just what she was—an old woman, stricken with grief, disillusionment and trouble. Her tear-washed gray eyes were red and swollen with weeping and there were great black circles under them. Her voice when she began to speak was uncontrollably agitated. I felt profoundly sorry for her.

Repeats Story

At the sight of us she shrank back against her captors as if in deadly terror of us all. Plainly she did not know what was about to happen nor what was expected of her. Doubtless she thought this a continuation of the merciless grilling to which she had already been subjected.

"Come in, Mrs. Deane," said Anderson kindly. "You must not be afraid of us; we are your friends here. I know that it is hard for you to tell us again what you know of Mrs. Paige's death, but I want these gentlemen to hear it all over again. We are here to see if we can gain some new light on the matter and I think that the best place for us to start is with your story of the mysterious letter and telephone call. Please start at the beginning—just after breakfast—and tell us all that you can recall of Mrs. Paige's behavior and just exactly what happened between that time and the hour when you left the house that night."

"Yes sir," answered the woman with a certain dignity that I found admirable. "I can't tell you much, sir. . . . "

She drew nearer to the fire in an effort to quiet the nervous trembling that shook her from head to foot. Obviously she was making a terrific effort to get herself in hand. The group of men drew closer to her, making her the center of a circle, so to say.

Only Carroll, lounging against the wall near the hall door, watched her with a compassionate smile and made no effort to come closer. I knew what Carroll thought—Tim Stokes was guilty and Tim Stokes was safe in jail. This was all so much poppycock to him.

"We had just finished breakfast, sir," began the woman, "when the telephone rang. Miss Sunny was still sitting at the table drinking her coffee, but Mr. Ranny had gone. I answered it, and a man's voice—oh, a very rough and unrefined voice, sir, said: 'I want to speak to Mrs. Paige.'

"I said: 'What name shall I give, sir?'

"And he answered: 'Now don't you mind the name, but just tell Mrs. Paige to come to the phone. She will know who I am and what I want.'

"So I went in to Miss Sunny and I said: 'A man wants you on the phone, ma'am.'

"'Well, who is it?' she asked me. 'And what does he want?'

"'I don't know ma'am,' I says 'He says, "Tell her to come to the phone. She will know who I am and what I want."'

"And with that, Miss Sunny gets as white as a sheet and begins to cry——"

Noise From Above

"Come, Mrs. Deane," said Anderson sympathetically. "I believe that you have forgotten to tell us anything about the letter in the morning mail that made Miss Sunny cry. Will you go back and try to tell us about that? Would you like some ammonia?"

And then, in that moment, with Mrs. Deane softly weeping and all the officers hanging breathlessly on her every word, we heard . . .

Heard in the hallway of the upper hall heavy footsteps running with such violence that they shook the chandelier in the library.

"My God! That room's locked!" exclaimed Anderson.

And while we all stood there with our mouths gaping open, we heard the smashing roar of a gun, the sound of something falling again and again and again. Then another roar and foosteps flying down the front stairway!

And, above it all, a long-drawn out scream of terror such as might be uttered by a fiend in Hell!

As one man we started for the hall door. But Carroll, fully 20 feet closer to it than any of the rest of us, had already flung it open, and was out in a second. I noticed only one thing—that the light which customarily lit it had been extinguished.

Terrifying Sight

Before any of the rest of us could advance more than a few steps, we heard another crack and, then to our absolute horror and consternation, we saw a long bony hand, dripping with blood, reach around the edge of the door and skilfully extract the key from the lock!

It was all over in a second.

The heavy door slammed to in our very faces, locking us within the library and closing Carroll on the outside.

The door was locked. In that brief second of its closing and our frenzied assault upon it, someone—or something—had fastened it.

"Break it down!" thundered Anderson, throwing himself against it. Together we hurled our concerted weight against it—the weight of fully 10 heavy men.

We turned toward the windows and the porch doors leading into the garden. These had been tightly fastened only a few minutes earlier, but we were not waiting now for bolts or locks.

Synopsis

Murder was suspected when Sonia Paige, wife of socially prominent Randolph Paige, was found hanging to a chandelier in her home. Paige and Mrs. Deane, the housekeeper, fail to give the police any clues. Kirk Judson, a shady private detective, is engaged by Paige when police begin their investigation. Robert Cleveland, prominent attorney, says that he was in love with Mrs. Paige and told her so when he visited her home with Mrs. Phelps, a neighbor, on the night of the murder. Paige admits to the police that he took a jewel owned by his wife to get money to cover tock market losses. Judson reports to Anderson that he knows the murderer. He names Tim Stokes, a friend of Mrs. Phelps' maid. Stokes is arrested, but claims innocence. He says he went to the Paige home the night of the tragedy for the purpose of robbery. He relates that he hid in the basement and fled after he heard a scream.

ECONOMIC, SOCIAL, POLITICAL AGENCIES WHICH CAUSED DISRUPTION OF UNITED STATES

Expansion of foreign trade, adding power to "King Cotton." Development of fast sailing vessels, "Yankee Clippers" (above) increasing exports, and also encouraging imports by low tariff, thus pleasing the South, hurting the industrial North.

Progressive ideas about human rights expressed in literature, daily press, political speeches. Senator Summer was one leader of the progressive Northerners vehemently opposing Stephen A. Douglas, author of the Kansas-Nebraska Bill.

CRANIAL NERVES OF PERIPHERAL SYSTEM

The central nervous system (brain, spinal cord) in protective bony receptacles (skull, vertebrae) has the cranial and spinal nerves as sole path of communication with the rest of the body. These, arising from brain or spinal cord (each a pair of symmetrical branches, left and right) passing out through openings of skull, between or through vertebrae, constitute the peripheral nervous system. Cranial nerve pairs (above):

I. Olfactory, to nose, serves sense of smell; II. Optic, to eyes, nerve of sight; III. Oculomotor; IV. Trochlear; VI. Abducens, motor nerves (control muscles) to eyes; V. Trigeminus (motor and sensory) to eyes, nose, teeth, skin; VI. Facial (motor), to muscles of head, face; VII. Acoustic, to internal ear, nerve of hearing; IX. Glossopharyngeal (sensory and motor), to pharynx, tongue, etc.; X. Vagus (sensory and motor) to larynx, oesophagus, heart, lungs, stomach, abdominal viscera; XI. Accessory (motor) to sternomastoid, trapezius muscles; XII. Hypoglossal (motor) to tongue.

BITUMINOUS COAL MINE

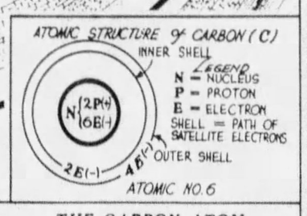
Coal is an amorphous (non crystalline) form of impure carbon, an allotropic element (having different forms of differing properties) of which the diamond and graphite are two crystalline forms.

Besides 38-89% carbon, coal contains 3-40% volatile matter (chiefly compounds of carbon with hydrogen, nitrogen and sulphur), 6-12% mineral matter or ash (clay, sand, gypsum, calcit, etc.) and 2-10% water. Only the carbon and part of the volatile matter burn and give heat. The fuel ratio (content of carbon divided by that of volatile matter) is one basis of classification. Fuel ratio is more than 10 for hard coal (anthracite), 6-10 for semi-anthracite; 3-6 for semi-bituminous, and below that for bituminous coal. The heating value of dry coal is per lb. about 12-15,000 B. T. U. (of anthracite and bituminous) and 6-8,000 B. T. U. (of brown-coal, lignite). (Chem.)



THE CARBON ATOM

It consists of 12 protons, 6 fixed (in nucleus) and 6 satellite electrons, giving + electr. nuclear charge of 6 (atomic number). Atomic weight (equaling number of protons) is 12.

CHARLES I LED TO EXECUTION (1649)

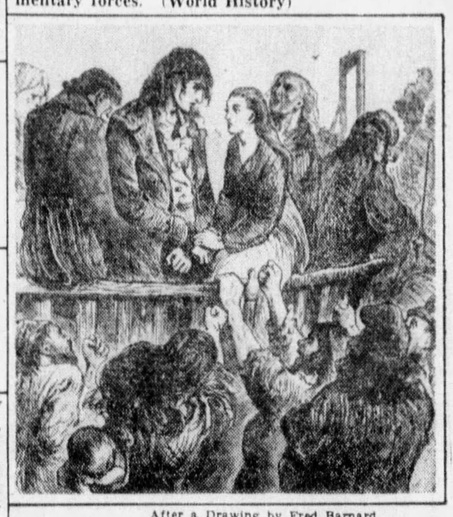
Charles I had ascended the English throne (1625), succeeding James I, his father. He resorted to tyranny, extracted loans and taxes, imprisoning those who refused to pay. Playing a trick on the Parliament by signing its "Petition of Rights" and then dissolving the Parliament, he ruled autocratically for 11 years.

Facing a religious rebellion, strengthened by his friendliness toward Catholicism, he had to call Parliament. It stripped him of the power to dissolve it, beginning an open struggle for supremacy. Civil war followed. Through the leadership of Oliver Cromwell (1599-1658), who organized an efficient army with the famous "Ironsides," Charles I was defeated at Naseby (1645); he surrendered to the Scotch, who turned him over to the parliamentary forces. (World History)



After a Drawing by Fred Barnard.

DARNAY ON WAY TO THE GUILLOTINE

"A Tale of Two Cities," by Charles Dickens (1859), received most controversial criticism; some class it as a great romance, others find less merit in it. Dr. Manette, an innocent prisoner in Bastille, is freed and restored to his daughter, Lucie, who later marries Darnay, acquitted of treason. Darnay goes to Paris to aid an old servant, is caught in the turmoil of the Reign of Terror and condemned to death.

Carton, a former suitor of Lucie, who wanted his talents in wild, bohemian life, substitutes himself for Darnay in prison. With triumphant heart he mounts the guillotine: "It is a far, far better rest . . . . than I have ever known." (2-II-A)

New Wine for Old Goods

When 36 states discovered a new thirsty continent it opened a field that made wine salesmen reach for their carbon duplicates.

Now the world wants to drown us in laughing ambrosia.

We spurned them with a chilliness that was stormproof and austere. We were angling for new trade agreements and looser export duties.

The result is that we take English scotch and they buy our porch rockers, alligator skin bags and Navajo blankets.

Our agreement with Spain calls for good sherry and port provided the gallant dons strum their serenades on Newark banjos. They'll suffer as much as we will. They sing all night and we are hoarse in the morning.

France had a tough time with its sparkling wines owing to some slight arguments over trifling debts. However, if France agrees to take our surplus sub-machine guns and maple syrup everything can be arranged. We must also get a break on motor cars, backgammon boards and double-edged toothpicks.

China of course fits in naturally. We take a million gallons of Hongkong dragon's blood and they reciprocate by purchasing American bell ropes, nut crackers and paper umbrellas.

We've fixed things with Canada and Mexico. They get a bit of the best of it. Two nations so close to our birthday parties are sure to get their empty bottles back by the shortest air line route.

Australia, Africa and Siberia are busy mixing new boiler compounds for the local trade. Melbourne is sending us six hundred billion quarts of the tonic that makes the kangaroos jump and the birds laugh.

We can always use Russian vodka. And so can the Russians. So we will take kimmel from them and they will take credit from us.

It shows that cordial relations and alcohol improve trade and gets orders if you sign while you are still able.

If there are any nations we have failed to mention in this better business bureau they can send us samples and then we will tell 'em what they can have in exchange.

Plight of the Schools

The Educational Conference at Columbus Has a Great Opportunity for Service.

Unless remedial and nation-wide action is taken, the present year will find THREE MILLION FIVE HUNDRED AND THIRTY THOUSAND American children being deprived of education.

Proud as this country has been of its ideals of education, and excellent as our schools undoubtedly have been in many states, even normally education has not been a national success. Before the depression set in, there were in the country at large every year two million two hundred and eighty thousand boys and girls, between the ages of six and fifteen, receiving no school instruction.

Depression conditions have continually increased this "normal" number, and—unless something is done—an additional million children will be upon the streets and by-ways before April first, with perhaps no chance ever after for many of them to obtain school training.

The Hearst newspapers have warned repeatedly of this increasing condition. Only lately, we reported that the Federal Emergency Relief Administration was allotting funds to keep a large number of rural schools from closing on March first. But we also said that this emergency action was not enough.

In this gravest of emergencies, the Ohio State University has now assumed national leadership. Under its auspices, a national "citizens' conference on the crisis in education" will be held at Columbus on April fifth, sixth and seventh.

Not only educators, but eminent men and women in other activities will participate in this conference. It is necessary that the whole citizenship of America be brought to understand what is happening to our schools. And if the Ohio conference helps to bring about such a proper realization, it will be a patriotic service of the first order.

In the past, Americans have supposed their school system to be equal to any, and superior to most.

For persons who comprehend the relationship between education and good citizenship, it is something of a shock to be told that the average American school term, throughout the country as a whole, is now fifty to one hundred days shorter per year than the average in European countries.

In years to come, American citizens will not be able to compete with Europeans if America does not now keep pace with Europe in education.

Local History Neglected

Textbooks Chosen for Pittsburgh Schools Are Reported to Be Sadly Inadequate.

The early history of Massachusetts is taught in the public schools, but the early history of Pennsylvania is neglected.

Dr. Ben Graham, superintendent of schools, recently announced that new textbooks had been ordered which would "adequately treat Pennsylvania."

But Dr. C. Hale Sipe, the Butler historian, reports after examination of the new texts—"The Beginning of Our Country" and "The Growth of Our Country," by Burnham and Jack—that while telling considerable about the Mayflower and Plymouth they ignore the first settlements in Pennsylvania, which were made by Swedes.

The new texts say nothing, Dr. Sipe reports, about the battle of Grant's Hill in what is now downtown Pittsburgh—a battle in which a regiment of Scotch Highlanders was defeated by the French and Indians with heavy casualties.

They say nothing, he adds, about Gen. Forbes' campaign against Fort Duquesne or about the battle of Bushy Run, one of the most important battles that ever occurred between whites and Indians.

While the authors of the new textbooks are careful to tell the reader about the early New Englanders' interest in education, there is no mention in either volume, according to Dr. Sipe, of the fact that the first schoolbooks, the first Bibles and the first works of music in America were printed by Pennsylvania Germans.

Pure Selfishness

School Board Secretaries Oppose Consolidation Because Some Would Lose Their Jobs.

The Pennsylvania Association of School Board Secretaries, in convention at Harrisburg, has adopted a resolution opposing the consolidation of school districts.

If their wishes prevail, Allegheny County will continue to have more than a hundred independent school districts, each with its board of directors, secretary, auditor, solicitor and tax collector. One central board for the whole county would do better work and save the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Pure selfishness is back of the school board secretaries' opposition to a change. With consolidation of school districts some of the secretaries would lose their jobs.

U. S. Wines for White House

A Fine Example

Mrs. Roosevelt's decision to serve "simple" wines—chiefly American—and beer at the White House is wise and praiseworthy.

The example set by the President's family always has a considerable social influence throughout the country.

Light wines and beers harm nobody.

So we are glad to see that "The First Lady" has taken this common sense attitude toward the beverages which shall be served in her own household.

We think most American women and many American men will agree that it represents the right course for any family to follow.

And we believe also that the decision to serve American wines in preference to foreign will be of distinct aid to the American wine industry.

These home-grown vintages are of first rate quality, and if they are good enough for the White House they ought to be good enough for any other home in the land.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—From a wide and mall-centered exclusive residential street ruffled only by soft limousine purrs, Park Avenue in three years has become about the roaringest rue in town. A victim of those sudden mass formations assaulting every lengthwise metropolitan street.

Opening of the Waldorf and the surrounding hotel boom, coupled with the flowering of many restaurants a few steps up side streets, precipitated the bedlam. It's still the swankest boulevard but headed for the fate of Fifth, which has acquired the brassy ring of commerce.

While the select clubs, such as the Racquet and Union, will likely remain on Park, many deluxe apartment spires are merely awaiting the economic pickup to be torn down for office spires. Smart shops are already niched in many buildings known only by numbers and more are flowering.

Cross Park avenue between 5 and 7 p. m. offers the same hazards as 42nd and Fifth avenues at the rush hurrah. Nobody knows what "the" residential street of the future will be. Many predict it will jump eastward to Third avenue, where old structures and the elevated will be razed.

New York's most exclusive and expensive chop suey restaurant is along Broadway's Automobile Row. Although long established, unpretentious from the street, it rarely seems to have more than a handful of patrons. Its longevity is due to a chorus girl trade, maids who bring along wealthy admirers, unmindful of the tariff. After 1 a. m., the coat room is racked with ermine coats and silk hats. Another famous Chinese caravansary is the Port Arthur, long a landmark in Chinatown and one of the few places with a dining balcony, lanternhung, overlooking the street.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

How Innocent Is the Innocent Victim?

A pile of self-pity comes swashing in over this desk. Mostly from people who claim they're Innocent Victims.

Somebody, to hear them tell it, has done them dirt—without the slightest provocation on their part. Yes sir-e-e, their record is as spotless as a new born babe's! Never in their whole lives have they harmed a single soul. Instead, they've worn themselves to a thread trying to make everyone happy.

And what have they received in return? Abuse—that's what they've received! Base ingratitude! Callous indifference! Downright persecution! All because they had Great, Big, Wonderful, Generous Hearts.

Does the broadcast sound familiar? Sure it does. How many times have you heard it? Maybe you've even used it yourself—yes? Have I? I certainly have. Being an Innocent Victim is my favorite role.

BUT HOW OFTEN HAVE I REALLY BEEN AN INNOCENT VICTIM?

NOT ONCE IN A BLUE MOON!

Nmety-nine times out of a hundred, when I've been a victim, it was because I wished it on myself!

No; I didn't deliberately set out to harm anyone. To the contrary, I usually had the most excellent motives. I was friendly and fair. I offered excellent advice, and frequently performed loving and unselfish service. Yet, in the end, my advice was flouted, my services resented. I was treated as an intruder and an actual enemy. Why?

BECAUSE THAT'S ACTUALLY WHAT I WAS!

No matter how excellent my advice or admirable my motives, I was pushing in where I didn't belong.

I didn't belong in the other fellow's life. It wasn't my business to solve his problem. No matter how closely we were connected, or how deep the love between us—he had a right to run his own life.

That is the most sacred right and the first duty of each one of us. We must shape our own lives—develop our own principles—build our own will powers. No one else can do the job for us—and what would our characters be worth if they could?

But we make mistakes? And often others could save us from those blunders? Yes. But it's as much our privilege, and quite as necessary, to make mistakes as it is to make successes. And often our mistakes are far more helpful than our successes in forming our characters.

So, regardless of the bond or the emergency, it was up to me to keep hands off. I could give sympathy and help if they were requested, but that was all. I had no right to impose my ideas upon the other fellow. I had no right to try to run his life for him. Yet that was exactly what I was trying to do.

UNDER THE GUISE OF LOVE AND FRIENDLINESS, I WAS TRYING TO RUN HIS SHOW.

And, of course, he appreciated it at first. But presently the inevitable friction set in. For my ways weren't his ways—any more that his ways were my ways. The rule that worked for me wouldn't work for him. The plan that seemed so excellent to me didn't fit his secret requirements at all. But I obviously expected that it would.

Worse yet—I frequently insisted that he should follow it. Which, naturally, put him on the spot. For he didn't want to follow it. He didn't want to live HIS life, or settle HIS affairs, according to MY notions. He wanted to follow his own popeyed as they might seem to me.

Yet he couldn't tell me. For lookit all I've done for him! He should have been grateful . . . And, daggonit, he WAS grateful—

Only why in heck didn't I leave him alone? Why didn't I let him Be Himself, and work out things in his own way?

And why did I act as if I'd been personally insulted when other people didn't follow my plan?

How innocent is the Innocent Victim? Usually not innocent at all. He's a victim because he went fussing around where he didn't belong—and he got hurt because he asked for it!

The Carnera Family

A Puzzle for Eugenists.

THE HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION, CARNERA, FATHER, MOTHER AND BROTHER

The father of Frederick the Great, who believed, as do many moderns, that you can breed human beings as you breed horses and cattle, would be interested in this photograph. So would all believers in "eugenics," who think that, selecting fathers and mothers properly, you can get any kind of human race you desire.

The Prussian king, father of the great Frederick, selected the tallest men in Prussia, gathering them together in one regiment, and then arranged for them to marry the tallest women that he could find. His plan was to get taller and taller soldiers.

But nature has other plans where human beings are concerned.

Here you see the biggest of the fighters, at present heavyweight champion, because there happens to be no really good prize fighter to carry the championship.

Imagine her satisfaction when her giant son, only recently washing dishes in a restaurant, brings home bags of gold, and buys fine clothes for all the family.

The Yogi of India Are Possessed of What Appears to Be Supernatural Power

By Edwin C. Hill

THERE are, indeed, more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in our material philosophy. I have known men who encountered in India experiences about which they are reluctant to talk, but which left upon their minds an indelible impression.

India is riddled with holy men who roam the country in pious frenzy, performing their various austerities in order to save their souls. Actually, a number of these yogi, good and bad, acquire what appears to be supernatural power in a curious way. They learn, by years of effort and concentration, to suspend their breathing. They can make themselves insensible to heat and cold.

They have, or appear to have, a knowledge of the past and future; the power of becoming extremely light or heavy, and of projecting their souls from their bodies to any distance. That, at least, is their claim, and there are a great many white men who know India, who never doubt the truth of that claim.

An Englishman who had spent many years in India told this writer that he knew, by personal knowledge, of a case in which one of these yogi was so skilled in breath control that he could remain buried for 40 days and survive.

There is hardly any doubt that human beings very close to nature, still very primitive peoples, have developed something like a sixth sense, and employ powers that are latent in all of us. Anyone who has traveled in Africa enough to have gained some understanding of native ways has marveled at the astounding faculty of black peoples to communicate news very swiftly and over vast distances by a natural telegraph of their own. Whether the traveler walks, drives or flies, he will find, at the end of a day, even if he comes upon an unknown tribe in the heart of the jungle, that his arrival is anticipated. He may have heard the tom-toms thudding. He may have caught a flicker of signal fires. He may have heard and seen nothing at all. But he can be sure that long before he arrives the natives are perfectly familiar with his name, the characteristics of his temperament, his accomplishments and some of his peculiarities.

An Englishman's Strange Experience

NOT long ago an Englishman traveling in Rhodesia shot a leopard, which was against the law. His servant skinned the spotted cat and hid the pelt in the motor car. Thirty miles farther along a policeman stopped the car, searched for and found the skin and slapped a stiff fine on the traveler. How did he know? No drums had sounded. Signal fires were out of the question in the blazing sunlight. There wasn't a telegraph or a telephone line in the entire country. But he knew.

The other day a gentleman was making his way to the town of Bukavu on Kivu Lake in Africa. He was attacked by a gorilla which he had to kill in self-defense. Many miles distant from his encounter with the great ape, he came upon a group of natives repairing the road. They looked at him curiously, whispering among themselves. He stopped and asked their foreman what they were whispering about. He replied:

"They say, bwana, that you have killed a big gorilla."

Prognostication Of a Pythoness

ATTILIO GATTI, Italian explorer and scientist, was in Northern Zululand on one occasion. His companion was a spectacled university professor. Together they visited a celebrated pythoness, or witch doctress.

The professor said to Signor Gatti:

The witch doctress replied very quietly:

"No, bwana. I see him with my own eyes. He is cutting a branch from the great tree near the spring, for he has broken the stick of his shield."

The witch doctress appeared from her hut, the shadow of a smile in her eyes. The chief squatted before her and recited the tale of troubles. Thirty-two fine cows, a good part of his wealth, had died at the water hole, most unaccountably.

The chief did not know, but the witch doctress knew. She had "seen" him, with her kind of television, put poison in the water-hole, and she knew he was hiding in the hut of the father of the chief's youngest wife. And so it turned out to be, with the bad and jealous brother confessing his crime to the indunas, or judges.
